Police Smash 'Theft Gang' Near Bastrop

BASTROP (Special) — A shoplifting ring was smashed near here Saturday night with the arrest of three persons and the recovery of an estimated $2,500 worth of stolen goods.

The arrest occurred 10 miles north of here on the Crossett Highway after law enforcement authorities had been alerted to watch for the three, state police reported.

Morehouse Parish Sheriff, Hughie Perry, identified the three as Barbara Phillips, James Lee Bradford and Arthur Jenkins, all Dallas, Tex., Negroes. They were being held in the parish jail here pending further investigation into the theft of a tray of about 20 diamond rings from Bob Elliott and Son Jewelers at Crossett, Ark., valued at an estimated $1,200.

Authorities said, judging from the evidence found in the automobile, the three were a theft gang, or members of a gang, operating out of Dallas.

Watch Repaired

Store personnel at Crossett said late Saturday afternoon the three Negroes intered the store and asked to have a watch repaired. Owner Bob Elliott said one of the men went to the back of the establishment with him, but when he looked out, he noticed the tray of rings was missing from its display stand. He went to the front of the store and asked the man and woman about the merchandise and he said the three hurriedly left the store.

The jeweler said he notified Crossett police who in turn called Louisiana State Police and Morehouse Parish Sheriff's officials and warned them to be on the lookout for the three who were believed to be traveling toward Bastrop.

The trio was apprehended just before they entered Bastrop, state troopers said, and they were driving a small 1961 model car.

Inside the small auto, police found large quantities of men's clothing including 24 expensive new men's suits and other assorted clothing items, a tape recorder, two portable television sets, two typewriters and three expensive ladies' suits. All labels were cut from the clothing.

Clothing labels were found in the car from T. E. Watts Department Store at Camden, Ark., police said, and the owner of that store, T. E. Watts, was enroute late Saturday to Bastrop to identify his store's merchandise.

Shopping bags were also found from Stuttgart and Little Rock, Ark., stores. Authorities believe most of the goods were stolen. Police estimated value of these items at $2,500.

The diamond rings have not been found, police said, and an extensive search has been launched between Crossett and Morehouse Parish for the jewelry. Police said they fear the trio threw the rings from their car in a shopping bag which the woman carried while in the Crossett jewelry store.

A check with Dallas Police Department officials revealed the three have records of several arrests for narcotics crimes and for shoplifting.

Sheriff Perry said of the arrests, "It was only through the mutual cooperation of Bastrop City Police, Louisiana State Police and our sheriff's officials that we were able to act so quickly in this incident."

Gusting Winds Turn Fire To Virgin Forest

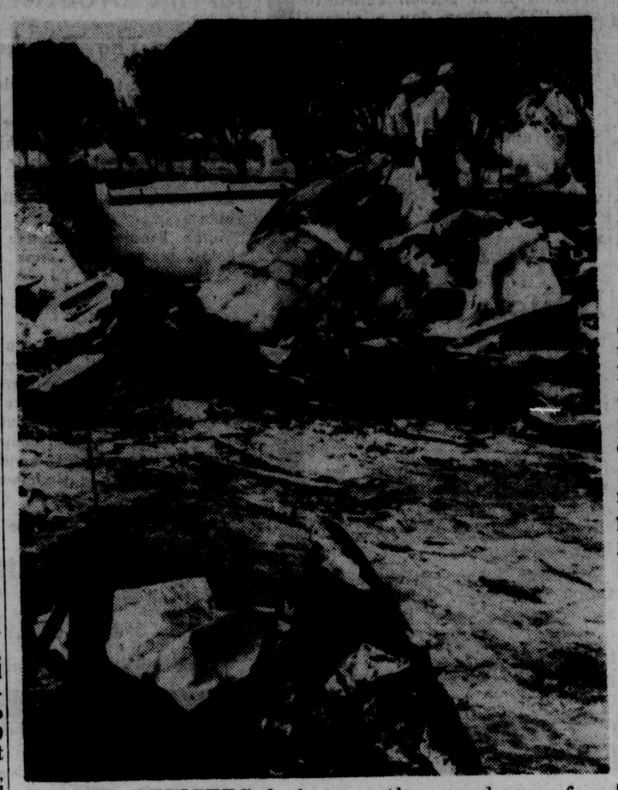

WHITNEYVILLE, Maine (AP) — Gusting winds, shifting slightly to the north, pushed a timber-fed fire away from threatened Maine communities Saturday night, as the state's worst forest fire in 18 years raged out of control for the fourth day.

Directly in the path of the flames lay miles of virgin forest, tinder dry from months of subnormal rainfall.

Some 500 fire fighters, from as far away as New York and Canada, battled the flames, aided by four airplanes which dropped water bombs into the midst of the fire.

The nine-mile-long blaze was moving in an east-northeast to northeast course after the shift in the wind. If it continued along its present route, it would pass between several threatened towns.

Two of the towns — Northfield and Whitneyville — have been evacuated.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, told that the biggest cities of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey face a drought produced "water impasse" within a month, called Saturday for leaders of the three states to meet at the White House Wednesday.

Johnson was told by Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall that it is now obvious cities taking water from the Upper Delaware River Basin "will face a water impasse in early September."

Udall further reported that "common prudence requires all concerned to act on the assumption that this unprecedented drought will persist for at least one more year." Only a hurricane or a series of sod-soaking rains could ease the situation in the next few weeks, he said.

Leaders Called In

Johnson responded by inviting governors, mayors and members of Congress from the parched area to meet here Wednesday and organize "appropriate action to meet the immediate problem, to lay plans against the possibility of another year of drought, and to consider longer range attacks on the problem of water supply and conservation."

Udall, chairman of the Water Resources Council, said that group decided "present circumstances do not warrant issuance of a national disaster proclamation."

However, he said, "it is clear that coordinated planning by the federal, state and local governments must be initiated immediately if shortages that could cripple an entire region are to be avoided."

In emphasizing the scope of the potential disaster, Udall noted that an emergency meeting Friday of the Delaware River Basin Commission heard a prediction that New York City would "run out of water by the middle of February 1966" if the drought continues.

Parole Violator Is Caught After Chase

RAYVILLE (Special) — An accused manslaughter parole violator, whose stolen pickup truck outran a Morehouse Parish deputy's patrol car following a burglary at Bastrop, slammed his vehicle into a Richland Parish patrol car at a road block before dawn Saturday.

"Two men were flagging him down but he came near to running them down," said Richland Sheriff Earl Hill. "But they were on top of him by the time the dust settled down."

Bastrop Police Chief Tommy Beckworth said the 45-year-old man was identified as Conley Hartley has been charged with burglarizing the Newt Kinnard Sporting Goods Store and theft of the pickup truck he was driving. Police said Hartley has used several aliases. The truck was stolen at Dumas, Ark.

Authorities said Hartley was wanted as a parole violator on a manslaughter charge having served time at Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola for the 1958 slaying of J. W. Waters at Waters' home in East Carroll Parish. The slaying followed an argument, according to Sheriff J. W. Gilbert of East Carroll.

Authorities said a slicker suit, a .22-caliber automatic rifle, about $20-$25 and a motor-powered riding lawnmower were taken in the Bastrop burglary.

Bastrop police were tipped about the burglary at 12:30 a.m. Saturday and the chase began.

Morehouse Sheriff Hughie Perry said deputy sheriff Will Rolfe, who is also Oak Ridge town marshal, gave chase as the pickup zoomed by that vicinity.

"He ran off and left him," said Perry. Authorities estimated the speed of the pickup at about 100-miles-per-hour.

Sheriff Hill said deputies Ernest Kennedy and John Brown had the patrol car pulled across the Oak Ridge Road, which is also known as the River Road.

"Instead of him holding to the left hand side and going around," Sheriff Hill said, "he took the right side and tore up our patrol car."

Hill said the deputies were flagging him with flashlights and that the red-light atop the patrol car was flashing.

Hartley was turned over to the Bastrop Police Department.

Plane Crash Claims All In 2 Families

LAKEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Two families — en route for a surprise reunion at Niagara Falls, N.Y. — were wiped out Saturday when a twin engine plane plunged into a fog shrouded cemetery.

The vacation trip ended minutes after takeoff when the plane ripped into gravestones just short of a line of homes, hurling blazing debris and the victims' bodies into residences.

Take Off In Fog

There were no immediate members of the two families who didn't die in the crash.

The plane crashed moments after takeoff from Long Beach Airport. Officials there said visibility was limited by dense fog to three eighths of a mile under a ceiling of 100 feet - too poor for a landing but enough for an instrument takeoff.

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Agency said the pilot, James Whitmarsh, 37, of Lakewood, acknowledged a normal takeoff at 400 feet.

Suddenly the plane, a converted military Beechcraft C45H transport, lost altitude and plunged into All Souls Cemetery in this suburban area 15 miles south of Los Angeles.

Parts of the plane, bodies and personal effects smashed through fences and settled in the backyards of startled residents. One of the vacation bound travelers' cameras settled in a backyard swimming pool.

The victims were identified as:

Whitmarsh; his wife, Mildred, and their children, Terry, 16, and Mary Margaret, 14; James Edward Dent, 37, of Whittier, Calif., his wife, Rebecca, and their children, Peggy, 15, and Richard, 16.

The two women were daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Swearengen of Niagara Falls, a deputy said.

At Niagara Falls, another sister, Mrs. Mary Timm, said Mrs. Swearengen didn't realize the vacationers were going to arrive early, by air. Saturday she learned of the crash. Mrs. Timm said her mother "doesn't seem to realize what happened."

Indonesia Mob Again Attacks U.S. Building

JAKARTA (UPI)—Thousands of rock-throwing Indonesians stormed the U.S. Consulate in Surabaja, provincial capital of East Java, Saturday, tearing down the American Seal, smashing windows and smearing anti-U.S. signs and banners on the walls.

U.S. Consul Allan F. McLean was alone in the building. He said the demonstration was "the most violent yet" but that police and army troops kept the mob from getting inside the consulate building.

Because the building is closed on Saturday, there was no American flag to pull down. McLean said he was present only because he had been tipped a demonstration was planned.

The melee was the third serious anti-U.S. demonstration in Indonesia since the arrival late in July of Marshall Green, the new U.S. ambassador to Jakarta.

McLean said about 7,000 members of the government-sponsored National Front organization took part in Saturday's rioting. Several of the participants were hurt by flying glass, stones and falls from the consulate rooftop.

On July 30, the U.S. Consulate at Medan, North Sumatra, came under attack by Indonesian demonstrators, who tore down the gates and fence and tossed rocks at the two-story building.

LBJ Refuses To Curb North Viet Nam Raids

Rejects Plea In Nkrumah Peace Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has rejected Kwame Nkrumah's appeal for a halt in the bombing of North Viet Nam, but promised vigorous support for any peace prospect that might arise from the Ghana president's proposed trip to Hanoi.

Presidential Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers reported that Saturday in reply to a special message from the African leader, who is considering a peace-seeking trip to the North Vietnamese capital.

Moyers said: "If President Nkrumah visits Hanoi and arrives at an arrangement which would open the way to peace, he, President Johnson, would of course be prepared to add his full weight to initiatives arising out of the visit."

Will Brief Congress

Moyers announced also that Johnson will brief all members of Congress on the Viet Nam situation next week.

The President and his top advisers will meet with one-half of the senators Monday morning, the other half Monday evening. House members will come to the executive mansion later in the week.

Nkrumah has been critical of U.S. actions in Viet Nam but has been contemplating a go-between role in the so-far unsuccessful effort to get peace negotiations started.

Friday, his foreign minister, Alex Quaison-Sackey, brought a Nkrumah message to Johnson following the Ghanian president's receipt of a letter from North Vietnamese President Ho Chi Minh.

Ho is reported to have invited Nkrumah to visit but to have said he could not insure the African's safety from American bombs.

Nkrumah "asked that all bombing of North Viet Nam be halted so that it would be safe for him to go to Hanoi," Moyers said.

Johnson assured Nkrumah there would be "no danger from the United States to the plane" carrying the Gahanian to Hanoi and said U.S. craft are not attacking the North Vietnamese capital.

However, Johnson made no commitment to suspend the bombings elsewhere in North Viet Nam. Washington has refused to stop the attacks until North Viet Nam indicates what it would do in return.

Anything Nkrumah can do "to end aggression in Viet Nam" will be welcomed by the United States, Johnson added to Nkrumah.

Other U.S. officials said the Communists still are hewing to a tough line, apparently in the belief that they can succeed in taking over South Viet Nam by force and therefore have no need to go to the conference table.

Viet Strikes From Air Kill 200 Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Viet Cong opened up with mortar barrages on government positions north and south of Saigon Saturday. U.S. and Vietnamese warplanes in retaliatory strikes killed about 200 guerrillas, by count of forward air controllers.

In new air raids on North Viet Nam, a Navy A1 Skyraider was hit by ground fire and plunged to earth. A U.S. spokesman said the pilot was presumed killed.

Finds Red Supplies

Elsewhere on the ground, a Vietnamese unit reported it had uncovered a major Viet Cong medical facility, an ammunition factory and a supply depot in the jungles 35 miles southwest of Saigon.

The mortar attacks south of Saigon hit government outposts in the Mekong delta 100 to 125 miles from the capital. Vietnamese casualties were reported light in some attacks but there were no reports on others.

North of the capital, the Viet Cong hammered a Special Forces camp at Duc Co, five miles from the Cambodian border, with mortar fire. A press dispatch said scores of wounded were removed by helicopter.

The camp is surrounded by the Viet Cong and Vietnamese paratroopers were sent to its relief. They were unable to break out of the encirclement, however. The camp, about 215 miles north of Saigon, is about 40 miles southwest of the government stronghold at Pleiku.

A military spokesman said the plane was taking part in the mission along with 7 A4 Skyhawks, 7 other Skyraiders and 14 other craft in support from the carrier Midway. The planes ran into heavy ground fire. The Navy planes dropped 15 tons of bombs on the area and pilots reported inflicting 50 per cent damage.

Weather Story About 'Same'

Gray skies and showers dampened the Monroe-West Monroe area Saturday afternoon, accompanied by hot and humid weather conditions.

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies with warm temperatures and possible afternoon thundershowers.

High today should be 88 to 92 and the overnight low should be 70 to 74, following Saturday's extremes of 90 and 71 degrees.

Southerly winds should be five to 15 miles an hour, becoming less than five miles an hour at night.

China Threatens Cong Help Again

TOKYO (AP) — Red China threatened again Saturday to send fighting men to Viet Nam, declaring: "we warn the U.S. aggressors once more: we Chinese people mean what we say."

Similar to previous Red Chinese statements, the latest government declaration — broadcast by Radio Peking — was prompted by President Johnson's announcement July 28 that 50,000 more U.S. troops will be sent to South Viet Nam.

It was the third Communist reaction in two days to Johnson's statement. The Viet Cong asked Communist North Viet Nam Friday for active help in battling the Americans. And a Soviet government statement said U.S. leaders "should have no delusions that American aggression would go unpunished.

Shoulder To Shoulder

"We, the 650 million Chinese people, have repeatedly pledged to the Vietnamese people our all out support and assistance, up to and including the sending, according to their need, for our men to fight shoulder to shoulder with them to drive out the U.S. aggressors."

Red China said the United States is sending large numbers of troops to take part in combat in South Viet Nam and added:

"This display of arrogance and ferocity is actually but the swagger of a helpless desperado. The United States is fighting for an unjust cause in Viet Nam, hence the low morale of its soldiers and the paucity of support it gets."

Man's Lusty Rage Brought On Death, Texas JP Says

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A clean-cut University of Texas man confessed that in a lustful rage he strangled one pretty coed in his apartment and choked another to death to keep her from spreading the alarm, a justice of the peace disclosed Saturday.

The motive in the killing of coeds Shirley Ann Stark and Susan Rigsby, both 21, confessed by James C. Cross Jr., was "sexual desire," according to Justice of the Peace Frank Mcbee.

Misses Stark and Rigsby were killed July 18, a few hours after they arrived in Austin from their Dallas homes. Other sources said the girls took showers in Cross's apartment and he admitted killing one while the other was showering.

Cross, who will be 23 in September, is an ex-soldier with service in Japan and a junior at the university. He gave himself up Friday night and confessed. McBee took a statement in longhand from him.

Five feet, nine inches tall, Cross weighs 145 pounds. His dark hair is crew-cut and his family is well-to-do. His father is advertising manager for Monnig's a big Fort Worth department store.

Cross met Miss Stark in biology class and went out with her "seven or eight times" in the regular 1964-1965 university session.

But until he decided to confess, he had denied seeing her since last May. McBee said Cross was lounging about his apartment at noon July 18, looking at a ball game on television, when Miss Stark, newly arrived from Dallas with Miss Rigsby, telephoned.

He invited her to his apartment. Both girls went to the apartment. The filling followed. The details of what happened were not clear because investigators refused to talk about the confession.

McBee, his secretary and many other Texas peace officers are concerned about a new Texas law that warns investigators and prosecutors not to make public confessions or comment about defendants before they are tried.

The law is designed to prevent such comment as that which surrounded the trial of Jack Ruby on a charge of murdering presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald. Officers and prosecutors contend other features of the law will help criminals escape justice.

McBee did not know which girl was killed first. Austin Police Lt. George Phifer said Cross admitted killing them about mid-afternoon July 18.

He allegedly waited until about 3 a.m. the next day and hauled the bodies to a North Austin field, where he dumped them in the grass. The bodies were discovered July 30, in much advanced states of deterioration that pathologists could not determine how one girl was killed or whether either was raped.

Cross, under suspicion since the disappearance of the girls, telephoned police late Friday and said he wanted to come in and confess. He was charged with the murders and investigators announced the solution of the case late Friday night.

Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the state Department of Public Safety, said Cross had no help. "The case is completely clear. It is wrapped up," Garrison said.

Dist. Atty. Tom Blackwell said he will ask Cross be sent to the electric chair, "if and when an indictment is returned." A jury is expected to consider the case next week or the following week.

JAMES C. CROSS of Fort Worth carries some of the belongings of his son, James C. Cross Jr., from the 22-year-old University of Texas student's apartment Saturday. Friday night, young Cross was charged with murder in the deaths of coeds Susan Rigsby and Shirley Ann Stark, both of Dallas. (AP Wirephoto)

Youth Doesn't Face Manslaughter Count

WEST POINT, Miss. (UPI)— Manslaughter charges against the young son of a Wisconsin congressman were dropped Saturday following an investigation into a scuffle with a highway patrolman who fell dead of a heart attack.

Michael Reuss, 18, still faced trial on misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest and refusing to be searched in connection with his arrest in a civil rights demonstration Friday.

One trial was set for later Saturday.

Dist. Atty. Harvey S. Buck told reporters he did not believe "the elements of manslaughter" were involved in the death of highway patrolman B. Cowart, 53, a cattle theft investigator who had been assigned to help West Point authorities handle racial demonstrations.

Cowart had a history of heart trouble.

Reuss, son of Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., allegedly scuffled with Cowart as the patrolman searched him Friday and Cowart fell dead of a heart attack.

Reuss pleaded guilty Saturday in city court to charges of interfering with an officer and obstructing the sidewalk. He paid fines of $25 on the first charge and $20 on the second and went free.

The other 44 demonstrators arrested with him Friday pleaded guilty to obstructing the sidewalk. City Judge L. F. Sams suspended fines for the juveniles and females in the groups, but made the approximately 18 adult males pay $20 fines.

The youth's father flew back to Washington from London, where he had been attending an international monetary conference, and planned to take the next available plane to Memphis, Tenn., where he would go by car 150 miles to join his son at West Point.

"It appears from my investigation that the boy did resist being searched and apparently pushed the officer, according to certain eye witnesses," Buck said.

Ex-Resident's Father Dies In Macon, Georgia

MACON, Ga. (Special) — Homer W. Tillery, 74, father of a former Monroe businessman, died Saturday at a Macon nursing home after a long illness.

Mr. Tillery was the father of Homer W. Tillery Jr. who served as manager of the Monroe Sears-Roebuck Co. store for two years until he was recently promoted to a Fayetteville, N.C. post.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete late Saturday.

Other survivors include his widow, Mrs. Nona C. Tillery; and two other sons, J. P. and William Tillery, all are of Macon.

Ouachita Mosaic

Museum Seeks Identities

By ROBERT SIMONTON
World Staff Writer

It's about time to remind readers of the great opportunity they are missing if they haven't taken advantage of the Masur Museum of Art.

It is owned by the city of Monroe and operated by a board of 15 trustees. Curators are members of the Monroe Art Center, a group of recognized local artists.

Although the city maintains the building and grounds, the art acquisitions and special programs must be met through private sources.

WHO ARE THEY?

Speaking of museums, the Ouachita Valley Museum is seeking aid in the identification of eight pictures now hanging along the walls of the main room of the building at 707 St. John St.

The pictures are those of various gentlemen dressed in uniforms. They were found during a clean-up at L. B. Faulk Post No. 3 and were donated to the museum.

If you can help — contact Mrs. Aline Banister, curator of the museum, between 12 noon and 4 p.m. weekdays.

BOOK PARTY

It isn't often an autograph party is held in Monroe — for local authors. Such is the occasion today from 2:30 until 5:30 p.m. at the Bookmark in Twin Cities Shopping Center. The honorees are Bess Burns and Lola Crowell, co-authors of "God's Wonderful Plan." See you there.

SPENDING SPREE

That's the way of Americans — they spend one-half billion a year on liquor, six million for education, and four million for church programs.

JAZZ PROGRAM

The United States Department of State is pleased with the success of sending artists behind the Iron Curtain. This program is intended to built better understanding and good will between this country and Russia and her satellites. The most successful programs so far are those featuring jazz musicians. The Russians particularly love American jazz, which has been called the only original form of art in America.

PIGEONS, AGAIN

Recently, this column carried comments concerning the numerous pigeons in the downtown area. A local person called to say, "The other day a pigeon flew into the window of our office building and it looked just like someone I know."

FARE-THE-WELL

The old Central Grammer School and the old Post Office building, both built in the early 1900's, are sites of the past — well, the former is gone and the latter will soon bite the dust. Next will be the Monroe City Hall, built in 1910. The Ouachita Parish Court House, built in 1926, is not slated for demolition, but is due to have repairs and expansions. Although some repairs have been made, no additions have been included in all the near forty years.

White Arrested In Store Bombing

ANNISTON, Ala. (UPI) — A 29-year-old white man was arrested Saturday in the smoke-bombing of a downtown Anniston department store, police said.

The bomb was tossed into the door of Rose department store about 10 a.m., causing a slight fire. There were no injuries.

AN OPEN LETTER TO USED CAR BUYERS

In the 25 years of this dealership, more than 30,000 people have purchased used cars from us. Many, of course, are repeat customers, which to us is a frank testimonial of service and satisfaction.

This record has been made possible by the careful selection of used cars we offer for sale to you the retail purchasers. Wrecks, cars that have been abused through lack of care, or extensive mileage, are sold at wholesale and not reconditioned.

We use our used car department to build friends who we know will eventually purchase a new Ford. As have thousands of others, you too will receive service and satisfaction at Rivers Ford.

May we serve you?

U.S. Judge Refuses To Integrate Schools

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — District Judge Oren R ruled illegal Saturday a to merge a Negro and a junior high school in Arlington, Va.

In the ruling, the judge upheld the contention of the parents of white children that to combine the Hoffman-Boston and Thomas Jefferson attendance areas would violate their constitutional rights.

The school board "may not close an existing neighborhood school primarily for the purpose of mixing the races or creating a better racial balance in the other schools," the judge said.

Such a plan, the judge said, would discriminate against the white children affected.

He quoted a decision in a South Carolina case—Briggs Vs. Elliott—which said, "the constitution. . . does not require integration. It merely forbids discrimination."

Hoffman-Boston is all Negro. Thomas Jefferson is nearly all white.

Under the plan, the two school districts, plus part of the Gunston Junior High district, would have been combined with the Hoffman-Boston and Thomas Jefferson buildings—which are several miles apart—being operated as a single administrative unit under one principal.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Six Pakistanis and three Indians were killed in clashes across the cease-fire line in the Mendhar sector of Jammu, Kashmir, on Friday, an official announcement said Saturday.

Home Raps Laborite Confusion

CARLUNG, Scotland (UPI)— Former Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said Saturday the British government "is breaking up in confusion and disaster."

"The government of the last nine months," he said in a political address to a local Conservative party fete, "has been an exercise in opportunism and gimmickry and is breaking up in disaster.

"The effect has already reached into every home and spread overseas. It is breaking up in confusion."

Douglas-Home was defeated in the general election last October which brought Harold Wilson's Labor party into office with a slim balance of power for a nominal five-year term.

Board Will Keep LSUNO Director

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors Saturday took action aimed at ending repeated rumors it would fire LSUNO Chancellor Homer Hitt.

The board also approved the methods the university departments plan to spend their share of the $44.1 million operating budget for the current fiscal year and established a university-wide graduate division and graduate schools on two New Orleans campuses.

Reports had circulated for months that the board would oust the head of the New Orleans school for not speaking out against proposed legislation which would have ended the board's control over LSUNO.

A resolution offered by member Tom W. Dutton, New Orleans, said, "in recent weeks the board has received numerous communications from New Orleans concerning the Chancellor of LSU in New Orleans.

"These statements and communications are based upon the rumor that the board was to take a stand on recently proposed legislation pertaining to the separation of LSU in New Orleans from the Louisiana State University system.

"There is no truth whatever that the LSU Board planned or plans any such punitive, unfair, or vindictive action."

"The LSU Board is dedicated to the maintenance and expansion of the LSU system in such a way that will provide all of its branches and activities with their fair share of available revenue.

"Experience over the past few years has proven this to be true insofar as LSU in New Orleans is concerned. Since the establishment of the LSU in New Orleans, no available capital funds have been used for new classrooms construction on the main campus in Baton Rouge."

"The board will continue to develop LSU in New Orleans as quickly as state funds are made available for capital outlay."

The academic fight was a continuation of a controversy which LSUNO backers accuse LSU in Baton Rouge of trying to keep the New Orleans branch from expanding.

LSUNO backers say Hitt incurred the enmity of some members when he stayed neutral on a proposal to create a superboard to coordinate all higher education in the state, thus splitting LSUNO from the main branch in Baton Rouge.

Although the board never publicly voiced its displeasure with the chancellor, last week other board members refused to join in a request by member Theo Cangelosi to ask Chairman Joseph LeSage Jr., to call a special meeting to express confidence in Hitt.

Hitt, however, picked up plenty of New Orleans support, including the city council, 33 New Orleans area legislators, 24 LSUNO professors and the greater New Orleans AFL-CIO.

Before the meeting Saturday, Lesage was presented a petition backing the chancellor containing the signatures of 7,256 LSUNO students and their parents. The list was given him by Mike Kettenring, president of the student body at LSUNO.

Cracks Noted In Opposition To Depletion

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—There is indication a few cracks are developing in the solid wall of opposition the petroleum industry has sought to maintain against any changes in the industry's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance.

Some independent operators, seeking an effective weapon against oil imports, are considering the advisability of asking Congress to reduce the depletion allowance for foreign production by U.S. companies.

The maximum 27½ per cent allowance applies to both domestic and foreign production.

Independents have been critical of foreign depletion over the years but generally have accepted an industry fear that an attack on the foreign provisions could lead to a serious attack on domestic depletion.

Congressional leaders long have warned the industry against abandonment of the united front efforts.

Senator A. S. (Mike) Monroney, D-Okla., noted in 1962 the imports issue was causing growing antagonism between independent producers and major companies with foreign production.

Services Held For C. G. Ross

Funeral services were held Saturday for C. G. Ross, 62, a long time resident of West Monroe. Burial was at Memorial Cemetery in Monroe, under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home.

Mr. Ross, of 2604 N. 9th St., died at his home Friday after a short illness.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Maulsie Cobb Ross, West Monroe; one son, Charles G. Ross Jr., Baton Rouge; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Katherine King, San Antonio, Tex.; mother, Mrs. George L. Greeks' King Keeps Silent On Next Act

ATHENS (AP) — King Constantine ended three days of political consultations Saturday, but kept mum on how he plans to solve the grave Greek government crisis. He appeared to be in deep trouble.

Former Premier George Papandreou, fired by Constantine July 15, remained confident his demands would be met: either that he be restored to power or that general elections be ordered.

Delaying Decision

The King had been expected to see Papandreou Saturday night but there was no indication the former premier had been summoned to the palace.

The King's silence and his grim manner increased speculation that he might seek an alternative course, possibly the appointment of a compromise premier from Papandreou's Center Union party or the convening of a crown council of leaders of all parties.

Reliable sources said that at a strategy meeting with leaders of his party and close supporters Papandreou had been urged to step aside and allow Stephanos Stephanopulos, his former deputy, to become premier.

Papandreou stood adamant against the proposal, informants said, and there was speculation that if the King should name someone other than Papandreou the 77-year-old political warrior would call his supporters into the streets again.

Street demonstrations after he was ousted turned into bloody rioting that resulted in the death of a student and injury to at least 300 other demonstrators.

Constantine ousted Papandreou in a dispute over control of the armed forces.

One Injured In Bastrop Wreck

BASTROP (Special) — Two vehicles collided in Bastrop Saturday night, resulting in injuries for Mrs. Margaret Dean Canfield of Bastrop, driver of one of the autos involved, according to Morehouse Parish Sheriff's officials.

Officials said Mrs. Canfield was driving a small model automobile west on Cherry Ridge Road when another car, driven by a man whose name has not been released by deputies, backing from Magnolia Street onto Cherry Ridge Road, rammed into her auto.

Mrs. Canfield was taken to Morehouse General Hospital where her daughter, Charlotte Cothran, 18, a passenger in the auto at the time of the accident, said she was treated for a broken rib and lacerations of the face and knee.

The sheriff's department is continuing an investigation into the accident.

Marine Reports 14 Cong Killed In 2-Day Sweep

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — A U.S. Marine Corps spokesman said Saturday 14 Viet Cong were killed during a two-day sweep by U.S. Marines and Vietnamese forces.

The spokesman said five guerrillas were killed by Marine helicopter fire prior to the initial landing of three battalions of troops Friday in the Chu Lai area, 53 miles southeast of Da Nang. He said another nine Viet Cong bodies were found Saturday, apparently hit by the strikes also.

No Marine or Vietnamese casualties were reported in the operation, described by the spokesman as the second largest joint sweep of its kind.

Mrs. Simmons Dies; Services At 2 p.m. Today

Mrs. Dollie Parker Simmons, 91, of 4119 Bon Aire Dr., Monroe, died Saturday at St. Francis Hospital after a long illness.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. today at Mulhearn Funeral Home with the Rev. T. Earl Ogg officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Survivors include a son, Dewey Simmons of Monroe; two daughters, Mrs. P. N. Edwards and Mrs. W. D. Oliver, both of Monroe; three grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Simmons was a native of Jasper County, Miss., and had been a resident of Monroe for over 11 years. She was a member of College Place Baptist Church.

China Reports U.S. Sub Wreck

TOKYO (AP) — The Communist New China news agency said Sunday an American submarine collided with a Lebanese merchant ship in Red Chinese territorial waters.

The agency said the incident happened July 13 south of Yulin.

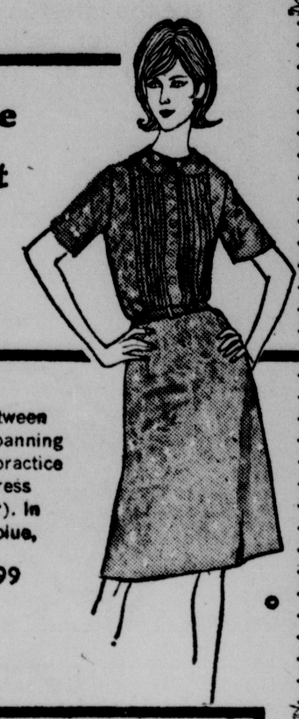

The American submarine "ran into and damaged" the merchant ship Rodos at 8:02 a.m. local time, the agency said.

The Rodos was "passing this sea area on a normal voyage," it added.

Foreign Service Runs Hot, Cold

By ROBERT SIMONTON
World Staff Writer

From the cold Rhineland of Germany to the warmth of Tunisia in North Africa — that is the transition about to be made by the Edward Burke Pohl family.

The Pohls are currently visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Pohl of 1300 South Fifth St., Monroe.

Pohl, a foreign service officer with the State Department is being transferred from the American Embassy at Bonn, Germany to the one of Tunis, Tunisia, where he will be General Service officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Pohl (she is the former Joy C. Little of Miami Beach, Fla.) met and married in Paris, France while both were assigned to the American Embassy there.

He had finished a tour with the State Department in the United Arab Republic (Egypt) and she had been stationed in Korea and Japan before her transfer to Paris.

In 1950 at the outbreak of the Korean Conflict, she was evacuated under fire from Korea to Tokyo, Japan.

Besides France, they have lived in the Phillipines, Panama and Italy and twice in Germany.

His first seven years in the Foreign Service was as a diplomatic courier. In this assignment, he visited every major country in the world, including those behind the Iron Country—"from Argentina to Zanzibar" as he puts it.

Mr. Pohl was raised in Monroe, where he attended St. Matthews and Georgia Tucker Schools and was graduated from Ouachita Parish High School. He obtained a Journalism degree at Louisiana Tech in 1948.

While attending high school here he was photographer and engraver for the News Star under the diversified education training program.

His father was employed by the Morning World, and later the combined papers, from 1929 until 1951. He had also served with the Shreveport Times before coming to Monroe, making a total of 39 years with the Ewing publications.

Through the years in Foreign Service, the lives of the Pohl family have been endowed with diverse education, culture and, of course, travel. In fact, the three Pohl children were born in different parts of the world — Anne in Palermo, Sicily; John in Miami, Fla. (his mother was flown from Panama for the event); and Lyn in Frankfurt, Germany.

In Germany living standards are high, but prices are also high. Their children attended the American School on the Rhine at Bonn, where children of 27 nationalities studied. The weather was very cold — they remembered wearing winter clothing on a Fourth of July. They said perhaps the German people are more like Americans than any other nationality they knew.

While stationed at Palermo, in Sicily, Italy, they said they lived on the level typical of the locality, which left much to be desired in some respects. Shopping was done from store to store; that is, they had to go to separate stores for bread, meat, vegetables and so forth. Supermarkets are just being introduced into Italy, as well as Germany.

In Panama they lived in a good residential section, but it was close to a slum area.

War damages in the Phillipines were still visible and the standard of living differed from that of Germany and Italy.

The Pohls had to hire a lawyer in Paris, France to cut the red tape in order to get married. To be precise, they were married twice. The French recognized as legal the marriage performed by a district mayor in a city hall at 11 a.m. — but they were married at 6 p.m. in a church. A third document was required, this one a consular certificate recognized by the American Embassy.

A temperature of 94 degrees in Cairo, Egypt is not as hot as 94 degrees in Monroe because of the humidity. At night, the mercury would drop by about 25 degrees, necessitating blankets. Pohl left Egypt on June 26, 1952, the day shops and other buildings were burned by military agitators setting the stage for Nasser to seize control of Cairo. But he said his departure was only a routine transfer.

Much has been written about the negative "Americans Go Home" attitude of foreigners and ill-will people in various parts of the world feel for residents of the United States in particular.

"We found everyone very friendly," Mrs. Pohl said. "Many reports of dissension seem much worse than the actual situation. We have not experienced riots or difficulties."

Mr. Pohl said, "I was in Rome when the Marines landed at Bierut, Lebanon and I saw some demonstrations. But they were very orderly and the police broke them up quickly. Reports of the incident were exaggerated."

He said that what the U. S. State Department is accomplishing through assistance to foreign countries is far more important than the occasional "rock throwing."

"Where else could someone raised in Monroe, Louisiana meet and see world leaders and watch news being made? I have seen and come into personal contact with Willie Brandt, Adenauer, De Gaulle, Queen Elizabeth, King Farouk, President Kennedy and many others. Where else could the average American citizen have this opportunity except in the foreign service?"

Mrs. Pohl said she was invited to a German diplomat's home as a result of her Girl Scout work there and met Queen Juliana, who is also interested in the movement. She was active in the Girl Scouts in Germany as a volunteer trainer, troop leader and Country Commissioner for North Germany with responsibilities for 10,000 girl scouts.

During their travels, the Pohls have studied various languages and have also learned them through contact with the natives — "so we could better understand the people and nations where we have been stationed."

Mrs. Pohl speaks French and Italian fluently, and has a working knowledge of German and Spanish. He is fluent in Italian and German, and knows French. Their two older children, John and Lyn, learned Italian while in Sicily and Lyn can also speak German.

Those who imagine Foreign Service life is all glamour and excitment are mistaken. "Much of it is normal, routine, drudgery."

"Life is more difficult in the counties where we have lived," said Mrs. Pohl. "They simply don't have household appliances and other implements Americans have. A housewife can't dash out and buy a frozen dinner. In some places they don't even have canned food. We had to use transformers for electrical equipment and when an applicance breaks down one has to and didn't need the furniture.

Pohl said in Tunisia they will live entirely on the local economy.

"We will have to adopt to the French-Arabic influence. In our travels, we have come to realize that many things Americans feel their home cannot operate without are luxury items for people in other countries."

Their furniture has been stored in Genoa, Italy for six years. While in Germany, they lived in furnished government quarters and didn't need the furnitdre.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Ellis of Monroe will also be moving to Tunisia soon where he will work with an oil company. The Pohls are looking forward to seeing them there.

According to Mrs. Pohl, "The foreign service is a wonderful career for the single girl — if she likes to travel and wants to be of assistance to her government. Secretarial and administrative personnel are needed. But, she must be flexible and willing to adjust to different places and different ways of life. For the housewife—a woman married to an American diplomat — it is lots of work and she must be able to make the necessary adjustments."

"Work with the Foreign Service is a most interesting and rewarding life," according to Mr. Pohl. "But, it is hard work and the hours are apt to be very long. If a person wants to travel and feels the sincere urge to help the government in the important job they are doing abroad — there might be a place for him with the State Department."

He said he would be happy to talk with anyone genuinely interested in the program while he is in Monroe. He can be reached at 322-4854, prior to Aug. 13 when they will go to Waco, Tex. to visit his sister.

For brochures and factual information about the Foreign Service, he suggests writing to the Recruitment Branch, Office of Personnel, U. S. Dept. of State, Washington, D. C. 20520.

At present, there are 18 foreign Service Officers from Louisiana serving the State Department — "and there is always room for more qualified persons."

A final world of advice from Pohl — "If a person is interested in the Foreign Service as a career, he shouldn't expect to be assigned to the famous cities of the world — such as London, Paris or London — but must be willing to accept an assignment that might even take him to Ougadougou in West Africa."

WELL-TRAVELED Pohl family are, from left, John, born at Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Joy Pohl and Edward Pohl; Anne, born at Palermo in Sicily, Italy; and Lyn, born at Frankfurt, Germany. Mr. Pohl is a Foreign Service Officer with the Department of State and his assignments have taken them to many nations. They are now visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Pohl of 1300 So. Fifth St., Monroe, before going to his next duty station in Tunisia. (Staff photo by Hershel Womack)

HHH Sees Congress Letout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said Saturday he believes Congress can complete its work and adjourn by Sept. 15 at the latest.

Humphrey technically is only a bystander to the legislative process as presiding officer of the Senate. But he keeps in close touch with the progress of major legislation as President Johnson's eyes and ears on Capitol Hill.

The Humphrey prediction that Congress will be around for another five weeks or more indicated that Johnson expects the legislators to act on nearly all the programs he has recommended before they go home.

The toughest assignment that lies ahead of administration leaders will be to get a controversial farm program through the two houses. This may be more time-consuming than efforts to iron out Senate-House differences over the foreign aid program which remain unresolved after 12 conference committee sessions.

As the drive for adjournment turns the corner, four Johnson proposals are in trouble. They include revision of the immigration laws, a highway beautification program, standardization of unemployment compensation benefits and repeal of the provision of the Taft-Hartley Act that allows states to ban union shop contracts.

The house has passed this last measure but in the Senate it will be open to labor-curbing amendments. Most of these will be unacceptable to the administration but it may have difficulty staving off some of them.

House passage is regarded as likely for the immigration measure but it may face a roadblock in the Senate Judiciary Committee, where Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., is opposed to it. Sponsors are talking of trying to intercept the bill, if it is passed by the House, to put it directly on the Senate calendar.

The highway beautification proposal has been languishing and there is traditional congressional resistance to taking out the hands of the states the authority over unemployment compensation benefits.

But even if some of these fall by the wayside and have to be put over until 1966, Johnson will have written a record of congressional accomplishment unequalled by any modern president.

Passage in this session now seems certain for a whole string of important measures, including a farm bill and foreign aid.

Others likely to be laid on the President's desk in the next few wekes include bills to establish a Department of Urban Affairs, to extend aid to higher education, to authorize a public works economic development program and to increase feredal military and civilian pay.

Connally Plans On Second Race For Texas Post

MEXICO CITY (UPI) —Texas Gov. John Connally told newsmen here Friday that odds are he will seek re-election as governor.

He did not commit himself. He said there is "more than a slight possibility that I will run for the Senate, and the probability that I won't.

"But," he added. "the odds are that I will run for re-election as governor.

"Washington holds no spceial charm for me," he said. "The atmosphere of glamor" wore thin, he said, during his previous experience in Washington, as an aide to Lyndon Johnson and secretary of the Navy.

"I am giving serious thought to just getting out of politics completely," he said. "I'd really like to get out, but there are things I must weight and balance."

He said that if he did retire from public life, "I'd spend six months or a year just doing nothing. Then I might practice law. My personal affairs have been greatly neglected in the past four years or so."

Connally shrugged off a report that "Hate John Connally was the theme of a labor meeting in El Paso. He said it was the work of Texas labor leader Hank Brown "and I don't pay much attention to what Hank Brown says."

He repeated his earlier stand that a shortage of braceros has not caused any undue hardships for Texas farmers so far. But he added that he believes serious problems may arise before the end of the harvest season, and said he would probably support a renewal of the bracero agreement.

Under the agreement, allowed to lapse this year, thousands of Mexican laborers flocked across the Rio Grande each summer to harvest U. S. crops. There have been complaints from U.S. farmers that they cannot find enough U.S. workers to replace them.

Court's Decision Worries Unions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Organized labor is suffering a severe case of the jitters over a recent Supreme Court ruling that could shake up the system of collective bargaining as it now is carried on.

At worst, labor lawyers fear, the long exemption of unions from federal antitrust laws may be ended and the growing pattern of industrywide labor contracts may wither on the vine.

At best, they foresee a rash of lawsuits over labor contracts until the courts iron out the full implications of the decision.

Former Justice Arthur J. Goldberg—who disagreed with the majority ruling—hinted it could mean the sharpest set back for organized labor since the modern era of labor relations began with the 1935 Wagner Act that guaranteed unions the right to organize and bargain.

The Supreme Court ruled a labor union is subject to triple damages under antitrust laws if it conspires with one set of employers to set a wage scale designed to drive other companies out of business.

The hitch, labor lawyers say, is that the court left unclear what is sufficient evidence of a conspiracy to send the case to a jury.

Three justices in the six man majority said any industrywide wage scale too high for some employers to pay is enough evidence; the other three said there must be some further evidence but didn't say what.

This, said Goldberg in one of his last cases before resigning to become ambassador to the United Nations, could lead to judges and juries setting wage scales throughout the nation.

Goldberg, steeped in a life time of labor experience as a union lawyer and secretary of labor, said this is something judges and juries are not competent to do.

Goldberg wrote the dissenting opinion and called the ruling a throwback to the days when human labor was considered a commodity to be bought and sold.

To play it safe, one prominent labor attorney has advised all unions to review all existing labor contracts and revise them if necessary to stay out of trouble.

Another highly placed union legal adviser described the legal situation as "utter confusion" and said it may take years to straighten it out in the courts.

The case, involving the coal industry and the United Mine workers, could deeply affect many other industries that negotiate industrywide contracts.

Similar suits seeking some $39 million in damages already are working their way through the lower courts.

Winning Snaps Earn Shooters Grand Prizes

Fireworks, a welder at work, a candid shot of thirsty youngsters, and a study of rocky terrain were subjects of the four grand prize winning photos in the Monroe Morning World and News-Star-sponsored local phase of the Newspaper National Snapshot Awards competition.

Negatives and prints of these black and white photos have been entered in the national phase of competition to vie with entries winning top prizes in other newspaper sponsored contests around the nation. Prizes in the national competition, open only to amateur photographers, range from five expense paid trips to 100 cash awards of $100 each.

Judging will take place in the fall.

MENACE TO FISH

NEW YORK (AP) — Game fish are easy prey to the litterbug.

C. R. Gutermuth, vice president of the Wildlife Management Institute and chairman of the National Advisory Council of Keep America Beautiful, reports that "serious littering can become a form of pollution that is detrimental to our better game fish."

He explained that decomposing litter robs lakes and streams of oxygen, thereby changing the natural environment of the fish.

General Calls For Viet Results Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said Saturday night that "we must strive for a decision, now, in Viet Nam."

The top-ranking officer of the American military forces said also that defeat in Viet Nam would compel the United States to establish a line elsewhere in Southeast Asia and to defend it.

Wheeler, who recently returned with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara from a fact-gathering trip to Viet Nam, put his views into an address for a reunion of the 2nd Armored Division Association.

The text of his address was prepared before a new development, which gave point to some of the matters about which Wheeler warned.

Communist China, in a broadcast monitored by Tokyo, said it definitely would send troops into the Viet Nam conflcit if the United States continues its military buildup in Vet Nam.

Wheeler said hat "as you ca-

Wheeler said that "as you can see, I am firmly convinced that we must strive for a decision, now, in Viet Nam."

Then he said the question might be asked why so many troops are needed — more than 80,000 U.S. military personnel are in Viet Nam. with the new goal set at 125,000 — to do the job. He noted that President Johnson has made clear that the objective "is not to win a war in a classical sense, but merely to get certain nations of Southeast Asia to leave their neighbors alone, free to determine their own destinies."

Wheeler said Ho Chi Minh believes the South Viet Nam government can be defeated by accelerated military action and "is so sure that he has introduced entire major units of the North Vietnamese army into South Viet Nam."

The general's warning about the war engulfing Southeast Asia if the line isn't held in Viet Nam was expressed in these words:

"Red China is the great power in Asia. The small, relatively undeveloped Southeast Asian countries are incapable of defending themselves against a great power. Should we not assist these nations, it is predictable with great certainty that they would be subjected to intolerable Communist pressures which could well force them to accommodate the Communists in some way. These pressures could not only affect the mainland nations but those offshore as well, including the Philippines...

"The decision, then, is not limited to whether we should help the Vietnamese but rather includes the larger question — should we assist any nation of Southeast Asia to resist Red Chinese pressure and-or aggression. Should we give up in Viet Nam, there is no question that Communist expansionism would be encouraged and the pressure on the remainder of the area greatly increased.

"Unless we are willing to see freedom vanish from Southeast Asia, defeat in South Viet Nam will force us to draw a new line somewhere else in that area and try to defend that. This would be most difficult. We would wind up, and probably rather quickly, facing the same situation we face today in Viet Nam, only with weakened morale and political uncertainty on the part of those being supported, to say nothing of a much less defensible position, militarily speaking."

Leach's Mother Wonders Where Son Has Gone

BRISTOL, England (UPI) — Mrs. Elsie Leach asked Saturday if anyone has seen her son Archie, and therin lies a story.

Archie recently got married and his mother is worried about him.

"Why haven't they come to see me again?" 88 - year-old Mrs. Leach asked. "He promised they would."

The 61-year-old, British - born actor last month was married for the fourth time in the United States to 27-year-old acrtess Dyan Cannon.

They came here for their honeymoon, said hello to Grant's mother — and disappeared.

Possible Mafia Chief Moved To Palermo

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — The reputed head of the Mafia, arrested as a suspected leader of a supergang linking the Sicilian and American underworlds, was brought here Saturday night under an unprecedented police guard.

Reinforced units of heavily armed police guarded the Palermo railway station as Giuseppe Genco Russo, 72, arrived from Bologna, where he was arrested Monday. Streets around the station were closed to traffic.

Genco Russo was rushed from the prison railway car in which he traveled to the Ucciardone Jail clinic.

The heavyset "Don Giuseppe" had been in a Bologna hospital under treatment for an eye ailment. He had been expected to obtain permission to remain there because of his failing health.

Authorities said his transfer to Palermo reflected police determination to push an inquiry that already has resulted in the first arrest warrants ever issued for suspects alleged to be links between the Sicilian Mafia and the American Cosa Nostra.

The warrants were issued last Monday charging 14 men with associating to commit crime. Ten of the suspects, including Genco Russo, were rounded up in lightning police raids around Italy. The other four are being sought. They are believed to be in the United States.

The four believed in the United States have been identified as Joseph Cerrito, 54, a California resident; Santo Sorge, 57, and Gaetano Russo, 73, both of New York; and Gaspare Maggaddino, 57, a Sicilian cousin of the missing Joseph (Joe Bananas) Bonnano. All except Maggaddino have been described as U.S. citizens.

ENDS VISIT

MOSCOW (UPI) — King Mohammed Zahir Shah of Afghanistan ended his official visit to Moscow Saturday and left for home via the Creimea. The king and Soviet made an agreement prolonging the 35-year-old non-agression pact between their two nations for 10 more years.

LEAVES PEKING

Red Agri Expert Suggests Private Farm Ownership

MOSCOW (UPI) —A Soviet agricultural expert said Saturday Russia should turn to a form of private ownership to solve its perennial farm problems.

V. Zhulin, chief agronomist of the Krasnoyarsky state farm, proposed in an article in the youth organ Komsomolskaya Pravda that Russia's huge collective farms should be split up into relatively small plots owned by the men who farm them.

Zhulin said these farmers should be allowed to run their farms as they wish and to make their own use of the profits they earn.

President Stays On Phone While At Camp Retreat

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — During a weekend supposedly given over to relaxation at Camp David, President Johnson used the phone repeatedly Saturday to keep in touch with the nation's business.

He had a long talk with Arthur J. Goldberg, the new U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations, on pending business before the world organization.

He talked with other administration officials about trouble spots in the world, in between swimming at the pool, walking through the woods, and otherwise taking it easy.

The President and Mrs. Johnson had guests for the weekend at the presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains of Maryland, but they were described as "personal guests," and the White House did not name them.

At the White House, Presidential Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers described the day as "a quiet day," with some work and some relaxation.

The Johnsons arrived at Camp David by helicopter Friday night and plan to return to the White House late today or Early Monday.

Rutgers' Marxist Keeping Position

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (UPI)—A history professor who champions Marxism and said he welcomed the "impending Viet Cong victory" in Viet Nam will continue teaching at Rutgers University.

In a letter to Gov. Richard Hughes, the Rutgers Board of Governors said that while it unanimously opposed Professor Eugene Genovese's political views, he had not violated any university regulations.

Genovese embroiled himself in controversy at an April 23 teachin on the war in Southeast Asia when he told his audience he firmly supported the Communist revolution.

Queen Honored With New Title

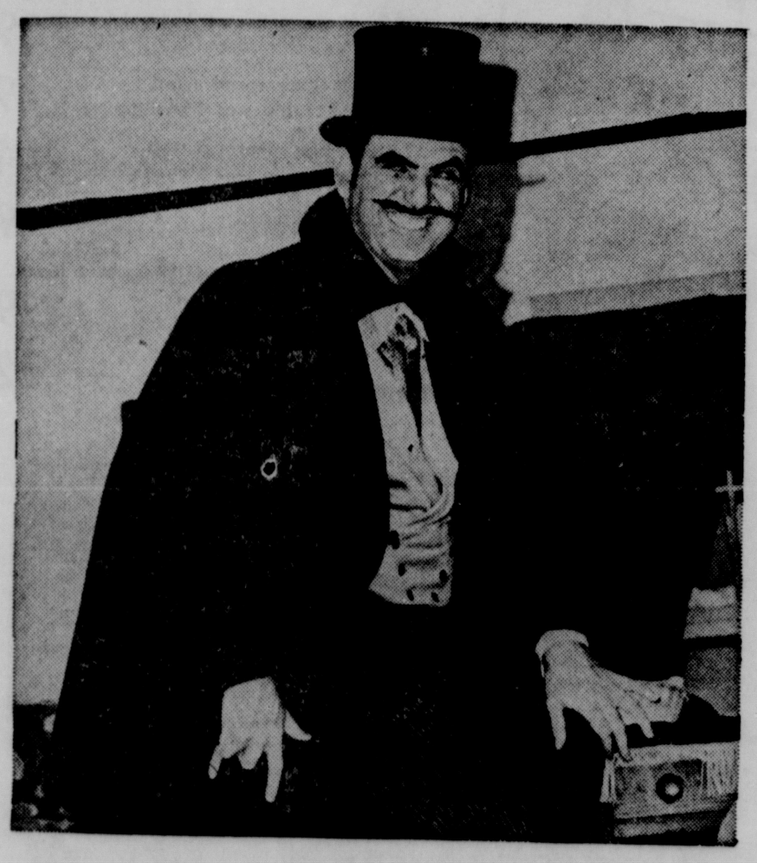

WINDSOR, England (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II, who already has just about every other title going, got a new one Saturday — champion divot tramperdowner.

Her majesty went out on the polo field at half-time and joined other spectators in replacing the turf kicked up by the horses ridden in the game by her son and heir, Prince Charles, and other players.

The prince failed to score and his team, the Rangers, lost 5-3 to the Chiesmans.

BLACKBURN, England (UPI)—Residents of this city of 140,000 persons were urged Saturday to remain at home to avoid spread of a polio outbreak.

Foiled Again!

The old-time VILLAIN played a sinister role on the Early American stage. Hissed and booed throughout the land in hamlets large and small, his schemes turned into mere blunders once the truth was revealed.

Today, selfish interests would have you believe the Rural Electric Cooperatives in Louisiana are villians of the darkest variety.

These outside-Louisiana controlled interests try to show the Co-ops as "federal schemes to socialize electric power in the state." The truth is, the Co-ops are locally-owned and managed private businesses operating under Louisiana laws . . . not FEDERAL laws!

Rural Electric power is needed if Louisiana is to continue to grow and develop. The member-owned Rural Electric Co-ops in Louisiana are vital to the State's economy and progress . . . both in town and in the country.

Yes, there was a day when the VILLAIN was feared, but once the truth was known . . . he turned into an almost comic character . . . and could only murmur — "FOILED AGAIN!"

State Will Spend $45 Million To Blacktop Parish Roads

ATON ROUGE (AP)—Each sh will be allowed a basic ,000 a year the next three rs to blacktop farm-to-mar- roads, Highway Director A. Stewart said Saturday.

l all, $45 million will be spent Gov. John McKeithen's ad- istration on the unpaved roads to get the farmers of the dust, at the rate of million a year.

cKeithen established that million mark for black- ing when the 1965 legisla- approved the $140 million issue, in which $100 million armarked for all highways roads and the balance for r state needs.

ext Wednesday, the capital truction and improvement mission will advertise for on the first $25 million of $140 million bond program. hways and roads will take million in that first sale.

the $100 million for high- s and roads, $5 million will allocated for regular high- work, and $45 million for blacktopping effort that will h right up to election time for governor and legislature.

Rural parishes will get the major slices of the farm-to-market road outlay.

Stewart and highway board members have been distributing the first tentative figures on how the $45 million for farm roads will be allocated, parish by parish.

Stewart said each parish—except Orleans, which gets plenty of urban road help — will be granted a basic $150,000 a year for the blacktopping stepup.

On top of this will be additional funds based on a formula granting parishes extra money according to the number of miles of state gravel roads in the parish.

No parish will be handed either the minimum $150,000 or any extra allocations. The state will do the construction. The idea, is for parish police juries, legislators and the Highway Department to coordinate.

Acadia Parish steps up front with the most state gravel miles, or 110.6, bringing an extra allocation of $432,345 a year for three years.

Five parishes, other than Orleans, have no state gravel miles listed by the Highway Department. They would not receive extra allocations. They include Bossier, Grant, Madison, Ouachita, Red River, St. James, Union, West Carroll and West Feliciana. They're down for the maximum $150,000 annually.

All parishes together still contain a total 1,419 miles of state gravel roads, in addition to any parish unpaved routes.

Crossett Officers

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) — New officers of the Crossett chapter of the American Association of University Women are Mrs. Ken Jackson, president; Mrs. E. J. Oakleaf and Mrs. Charles Hogue, vice presidents; Mrs. Richard Jones Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. Charles Romanski, secretary.

The group, which meets on Thursdays, is studying poverty problems.

U.S. Officials See Rio At Its Worst

They slogged through the mud and rotting garbage of a city slum, toured an Alliance for Progress housing development and descended 200 feet into the bowels of a granite mountain to i spect a water-pumping station.

Led by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman, J.W. Fulbright, D. Ark., the visiting senators and State Department and White House officials moved swiftly from one project to another with the Guanabara — Rio de Janeiro — State governor, Carlos Lacerda, as their host and guide.

Neaf the center of the city they stopped to visit the Esquqeleto Favela, one of Rio's most miserable shantytown slums. Surrounded by swarms of flies and followed by half-naked children, they moved past waterless and sewerless shacks in which more than 18,000 persons lived until recently. Now the slum is being demolished and its residents moved to Alliance for Progress-financed housing projects on the outskirts of the city.

In the Villa Kennedy project the group toured the tiny brick home of Carolina and Manuel Alves, who moved there a month ago from Esquqeleto with their four children and Mrs. Alves' brother and sister.

Farmer Leads Minden Negroes To See Mayor

MINDEN, La. (UPI)—About 220 Negroes led by Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) Director James Farmer marched quietly to City Hall Saturday to discuss their demands with Mayor Frank Norman.

An additional 100 Negroes waited at City Hall, where Farmer spoke briefly. Inside, four civil rights leaders were told by Norman he was powerless to act on their grievances. He told them they would have to take up their complaints with the various city agencies.

Both CORE leaders and police agreed the march, the first in this northwest Louisiana town, was a quiet affair. "Both sides handled themselves real well," one officer said.

On the other end of the state in Bogalusa, where marches have become as common as afternoon thundershowers, Negroes planned another double march to City Hall.

Wednesday and again Friday, separate columns of marchers converged on City Hall from opposite directions without incident.

The march in Minden was the first civil rights demonstration there. Negroes have expressed their grievances before on two occasions but without fanfare.

J. B. Hampton, the leader of the movement in Minden, said no demonstrations were planned for the future. He said new action would be decided at a meeting next week.

He did say, however, a recall petition would begin with an appeal to Gov. John J. McKeithen to call a special election of city officials so Negroes could enter their own candidates.

Negroes claim taxation without representation in Minden, the parish seat of Webster. Less than 12 per cent of the eligible Negroes are registered in the parish.

Special Tax Is Voted In Winn

WINNFIELD (Special) — A two-mill, five-year special Road District One maintenance tax voted on Saturday carried by the following majority;

For, 97, assessment value, $161,970; against, 24, assessment value, $82,560. These figures were released by R. M. Cherry, secretary-treasurer of the Winn Parish Police Jury.

The funds from the tax will be used to contact and maintain Ward One roads and bridges and to purchase equipment.

The Winn police jury will meet Monday at 7:30 p.m. for promulgation of returns of Saturday's balloting.

Short Courses

RUSTON (Special) — Two members of the Louisiana Tech faculty plan to attend short courses.

H. L. Henry Jr., head of the department of industrial engineering, will be at the University of California at Los Angeles from Aug. 23-Sept. 3, while John B. Keats, assistant professor in the department, will go to Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge Aug. 30-Sept. 10.

Mississippi Poll Tax Under Attack

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department, acting swiftly under President Johnson's orders, filed a federal court suit Saturday to wipe out Mississippi's poll tax.

Under the law, state voters must pay $2 a year to cast ballots in state elections. Federal elections were made exempt from poll tax in a recent constitutional amendment.

"We are confident the poll-tax requirements will be struck down as unconstitutional," said Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach, in Washington.

Poll taxes long been criticized as having been imposed to discourage voting by Negroes — and poor whites.

The historic 11-page suit was the first of four to be filed under the 1965 voting rights law, which the President signed Friday in Washington.

Other suits will be filed in Alabama, Texas and Virginia — last states to cling to the poll tax.

The Justice Department asked for a three-judge court to be convened as soon as possible to hear the Mississippi suit.

It also asked that the state and the Democratic and Republican parties be enjoined from "conducting any election in Mississippi in which voting is conditioned on the payment of a poll tax."

The Commission on Civil Rights, in a report to the President, called the poll tax a major obstacle to Negro voting rights. It cited an instance in which a tax collector refused to accept poll-tax payments from Negroes.

The 1960 census showed Mississippi with a population of 1,257,546 whites and 915,743 Negroes.

The Justice Department said about 25,000 Negroes have registered as voters, compared to 600,000 whites.

The state says it stopped recording race on voter registration records and has no idea how many Negroes are registered.

Katzenbach said the government also will file as a friend of the court in a citizen's antipoll-tax case of Harper-vs.-Virginia State Board of Elections.

In outlining the Mississippi suit, Katzenbach said the new law "requires that this case be handled expeditiously by the courts and we intend to prosecute it with the utmost energy to insure a speedy resolution."

The state said the suit will be opposed. A spokesman said a major defense argument will be that Congress could easily have included states in the antipoll-tax amendment, if such had been the intent.

Berkeley's Judge Will Finally Rest

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — His own trial at an end, Judge Rupert Crittenden of Berkeley Municipal Court began a month's vacation this weekend, weary after trying more than 700 demonstrators arrested in last year's University of California sit-ins.

The wiry, gray-haired judge — a descendant of Thomas Jefferson — stepped down from the bench Friday to greet a cluster of Lawyers and reporters who shook hands with him.

He had handed down 608 verdicts, but the heaviest sentence he reserved for himself — solitary confinement.

"I couldn't go out to any parties or play cards with friends in case they wanted to talk about the case," he said.

Since Dec. 3, 1964, when 773 persons were arrested in the monster sit-in at the 25,000-student Berkeley campus, the urbane, 53-year-old jurist has virtually sealed himself off from friends.

He dined alone with his family. He seldom watched television because of the heavy play given the trial.

"My family watches only two programs," Crittenden told an attorney during the trial. " 'Gilligan's Island' and 'The Man From U.N.C.L.E.' So far, he chuckled, "this case was not featured in either."

Crittenden presided over a makeshfit courtroom set up in the dusty, dimly lighted auditorium of Berkeley's Veterans Memorial Building. A seemingly endless procession of defendants paraded before him to make their defense and hear their fate.

The students had revolted over a university rule forbidding on-campus solicitation of funds and members for off-campus political action — chiefly civil rights demonstrations. Many concessions have been made by the administration.

Crittenden, a former UC student, has won public praise for his role in the trial from two divergent sources:

Mario Savio, former Free Speech Movement leader who was given the stiffest treatment, a two concurrent, 120-day sentences, said:

"Wise, cunning old Rupert didn't put a foot wrong."

Crittenden's cool handling of the mass trials was based on years of experience as an Oakland defense attorney.

Police Probe 2 Theft Reports

Monroe police Saturday were probing two reports of theft.

F. S. Barringer of 201 Stubbs Ave., Monroe, told officers that a briefcase was taken from his car "sometime over the past week." Barringer valued the case and contents at about $35.

J. L. Hemphill reported the loss of a chrome air cleaner from a late model car. It was valued at $25. The reported theft took place at a car lot at 1909 Louisville Avenue late Friday or early Saturday.

In other action, Monroe authorities turned over investigation of a fire department investigators.

Answering a call to 3501 Curry St. early Saturday, officers found a five-gallon can of gasoline and rags. Billy Johnson of 3413 Curry told police that an attempt had been made to set fire to the unoccupied residence at the 3501 Curry.

Two were booked for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages in Monroe. They were Leon Coleman of 1100 S. McGuire Ave., Monroe, apprehended at Powell and Milhaven Road at 2 a.m.; and Daniel G. McBee, 23, of 2302 Whitney Dr., Monroe, apprehended on Forsythe Ave. at 2:43 a.m.

Also booked in Monroe for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages were Malcolm McIlwain, 29, of 700 Wilson St., Monroe, apprehended on South Sixth Street at 7:30 p.m.; and Robert Swan, 29, of Calhoun, apprehended at Walnut and Pine Streets at 7:10 p.m. Both were also charged with negligent driving.

Mose Jones of 905 Hood's Alley, Monroe, was booked with aggravated battery. Charged with disturbing the peace and carrying a concealed weapon was George Lewis, 25, of 606 Short Magnolia St., Monroe.

Two were booked for carrying a concealed weapon in West Monroe. They were Charles Lawson, 33, of 200 Connella St., West Monroe, also charged with simple battery; and John White, 55, of Rt. 4, West Monroe.

Booked for negligent driving in Monroe were John Day, 30, of Natchez, Miss.; and Ernest Boufield, 17, of Mendenhall, Miss. Ticketed for a similar offense was James Bilyer, 42, of 1403 Emerson St., Monroe.

Ticketed in West Monroe for speeding were Billy T. Bagwell, 30, of 405 Watkins St., Monroe; Johnnie L. Patrick Jr., 22, of 408 Wheelis St., West Monroe; Robert L. Brown, 20, of 108 Graves St., Monroe; and Ronnie L. Dennis, 18, of 3904 Polk St., Monroe.

Ticketed for reckless driving were Joe C. Thompson, 18, of 1128 Fern St., West Monroe; and Thomas A. Brown, 28, of 227 Pink St., West Monroe.

Ike Takes Wife To Horse Races

SHREWSBURY, N.J. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Mrs. Eisenhower visited friends and went to the races Saturday.

Eisenhower, wearing a dark business suit, and his wife Mamie, in a yellow dress, spent the afternoon at Monmouth Park race track with their hosts, Mr. and Mrs. David H. Marx, of Shrewsbury.

Lyons, Mouton Political Foes In 15th District

LAFAYETTE, La. (UPI) — State Rep. Edgar Mouton Jr., a Democrat, and Republican Hall Lyons apparently will meet in the October general election for the state senate seat vacated by the resigning of Garland Bonin earlier this year.

Returns from 97 of 100 precincts in the three-parish 15th senatorial district show Mouton and Lyons apparent winners in separate primaries held Saturday.

Mouton finished ahead of three other contenders with 13,472 votes. Allen Babineaux was next in line with 8,196, followed by former State Rep. Lawles Bourque with 1,103; and R. J. Durio with 542. Durio is from Breaux Bridge, the others from Lafayette.

Benefits Can Continue After Reaching Age 18

Many Northeast Louisiana young people who receive social security benefits as the children of retired, disabled, or deceased workers and who have not finished their education by the time they reach 18 can continue to receive payment until they finish school or reach age 22 as a result of a change in the law, authorities disclosed Saturday.

Former beneficiaries whose benefits stopped when they reached age 18 who are not yet 22 can have their benefits started again if they are attending school full time. Parents of these students will be required to file new applications for benefits. Retroactive payment can be made for months in which a student was attending school full time as far back as January 1965. Parents of anyone between 18 and 22 coming under this provision should ask at the social security office whether he can get benefits.

Benefits can continue to be paid during a vacation of up to 4 months if the person will be returning to school right after the vacation.

The change applies to students who take full-time vocational courses and those still in high school full time as well as to those going to colleges and universities full time.

Under this provision, a mother is not eligible for benefits on the basis of having in her care a child who is receiving benefits after 18 because he is attending school full time.

Anyone who has a question about this or any other provision of the social security law is invited to write or phone the Monroe district office located at 607 N. 3rd. The telephone number is 325-8936.

Tshombe Denies He's Devaluing Congolese Franc

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Premier Moise Tshombe has denied his government planned to again devalue the Congolese franc to cure the nation's weak monetary situation.

At a news conference on the country's strained economy Friday night, Tshombe blamed the situation on the increased cost of putting down the rebellion in the Eastern Congo in the past six months.

Referring to reports of impending devaluation, Tshombe added: "If it would be necessary for the well-being of the Congolese people we would devalute. But it would not help us at the moment."

The Congolese franc has been devalued twice since independence. In 1961 it went from 50 francs to one U.S. dollar to 65 francs. In 1963 it lost even more in a split exchange rate of 150 francs to the dollar for exports and 180 francs to the dollar for imports.

Women Help Out Bogalusa Police

BOGALUSA, La. (AP)—About 300 girls hereabouts are playing a cloak and dagger game in an effort to help the local police force. For these female James Bonds, its a serious thing.

"Operation Watchdog" was launched in Bogalusa in an effort to end lawlessness.

The group of about 300 women have banned together in order to patrol the city in their own cars.

They decided to give an uninvited helping hand to the police force following a federal court order by U.S. Dist. Judge Herbert W. Christenberry to provide 24-hour-a-day protection to civil rights workers.

"It leaves veryone who is not a civil rights worker without adequate police protection," said Mrs. Dorothy McNeese, one of the founders of "Operation Watchdog."

"The police are spread so thin, they can't stop incidents they could normally prevent," she said.

The town's public safety commissioner Arnold D. Spiers and Chief of Police Claxton Knight were found guilty of civil contempt charges last week by Judge Christenberry for failing to carry out his edict. Yesterday their lawyer filed certificates of compliance with the judge.

Mrs. McNeese, who lives about eight miles north of here in Varnado, claims that there have been incidents in the past several weeks involving white women shoppers and Negroes. Police officials say they have no knowledge of the incidents.

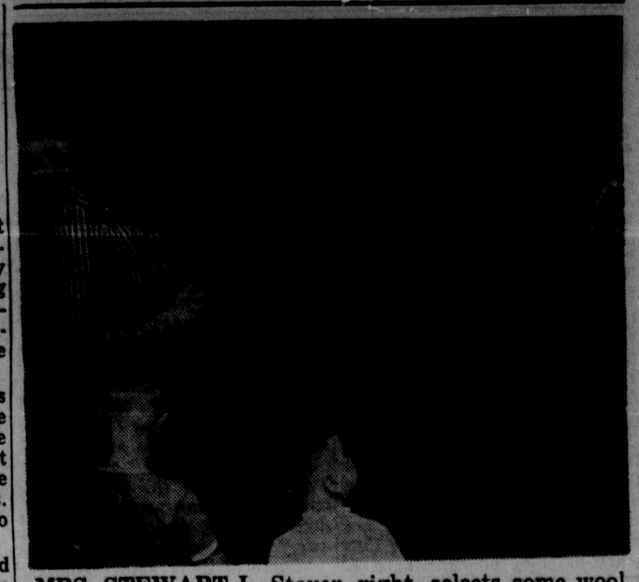

"Several of the ladies asked me what they could do about the present situation," said Mrs. McNeese. Together they devised "Operation Watchdog."

There are now less than 100 law enforcement officers in the papermill city, which has a population of about 23,000. The city police force consists of 34 men. In addition, there are 45 state troopers and 10 Washington Parish deputies to help maintain the peace and carry out the court order.

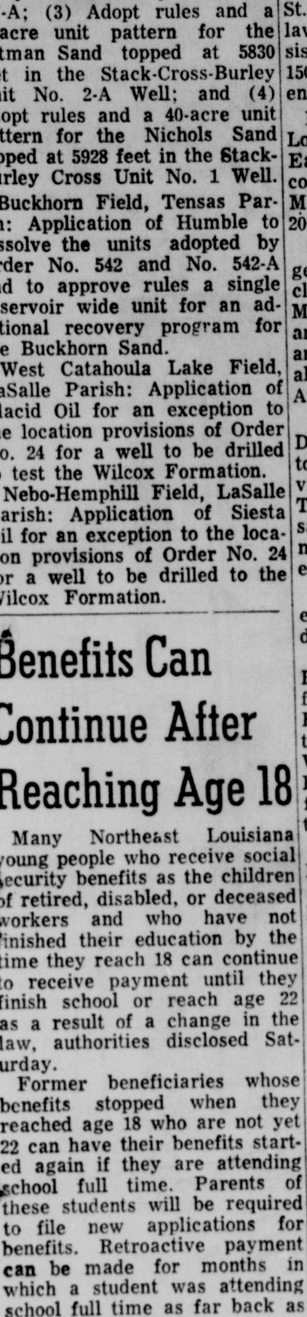

Several weeks ago there were almost 400 state troopers in town to try to protect all of the civil rights demonstrators.

Police Chief Knight said his officers are working "12 to 15 hours a day and they haven't had a day off in weeks."

The volunteer sleuths don't plan to make any arrests according to Mrs. McNeese.

Chicago Sees New Kind Of March

CHICAGO (AP) — Roses and smiles replaced the chants of marching integrationists on State Street Saturday.

Both kinds of demonstrations aim at the removal of barriers between people. But the approach is different.

Civil rights groups have paraded to City Hall, usually by way of State Street, dozens of times in the past eight weeks. They demanded a speedy end to de facto segregation in public schools.

An interracial group called the American Friendship Club put on a different sort of show Saturday.

Women gave away roses and an explanatory card saying they want to point up "the need of friendship and understanding for all."

The club's spokesman, Lena Mills Golightly, a Negro, said it hopes to "bring about a better understanding among all races so we can live together as one people."

A reporter watched four Negro women passing out free flowers on State Street. Most of the women, children and men walked past, apparently suspicious of anything offered for nothing. But many took the blooms with a smile and a nod.

"Some thank you," said Roda Paskett, one of the flower distributors. "some want to give a donation, but we don't accept any."

"Some of them said: 'Thanks a lot. This is so nice'," reported Ethel Franklin.

"It brings people together — a little more friendliness," said J.H. Klater.

"It's a much more refined and cultural approach," said Evelyn Fry. "It's much more acceptable."

Her husband, William, commented: "I don't believe in that marching. I think that's tearing 'em — races — apart."

Mayor Richard J. Daley — whose home has been picketed by marchers each night during the week — gave the club's effort recognition by proclaiming this "friendship day in Chicago."

Josephine Walker, a white woman of the Jewish faith who founded the club eight years ago, said about 200 women went to the Loop and West and North sides to distribute 25,000 roses.

RUSSIAN TOWNS FLOODED

MOSCOW (UPI) — Torrential rains unleashed by "Typhoon Jenny" have flooded seaports and farmland in the Soveit Far East, Tass said Saturday.

Part of the port city of Nakhodka is under water, the Soviet news agency said.

Explosion Rips Flour Mill; Four Persons Killed

LONDON (UPI) — An explosion ripped a six-story flour mill in London's East End Saturday, killing four persons and injuring 30. A witness said the blast "reminded me of the blitz."

An official for the London Electricity Board, which investigated the explosion, said it apparently was caused by a dust explosion in a flour mill silo.

The explosion struck the Sun Flour Mill, owned by Fenlite, Ltd. in the teeming East End area. It was heard more than a mile away and blew out windows in nearby buildings.

'Abie's Irish Rose' Actress Found Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirty-seven years ago a red - haired, blue-eyed, blossom-faced Irish girl of 23 stood before the gates of Paramount studios in Hollywood trying to get past a guard.

By chance, playwright Anne Nichols, author of the long-run Broadway comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose," came by. Miss Nichols decided on the spot the girl would be perfect for the lead in the movie version of the show.

The girl was Anne Veronica LaHiff. She called herself Nancy Carroll and over many years appeared on the stage, in movies and television.

Miss Carroll, 60, was found dead in her Manhattan apartment Friday night after she failed to show up for a performance of "Never Too Late" in which she was starred with Bert Lahr at a playhouse in suburban Nyack, N.Y. The show was scheduled to to close after Saturday night's performance.

Police said Miss Carroll apparently died of natural causes. She was found by her daughter, Mrs. Donald J. Bevan, the former Patricia Kirkland.

Dr. John F. Devlin, an assistant medical examiner, said an autopsy failed to reveal the cause of death, showing "no injuries or diseased processes." He said further chemical or microscopic examinations will be made.

Miss Carroll, born in New York, began her career in 1923 when, without the knowledge of her parents, she auditioned for a part in "The Passing Show" and appeared in the chorus.

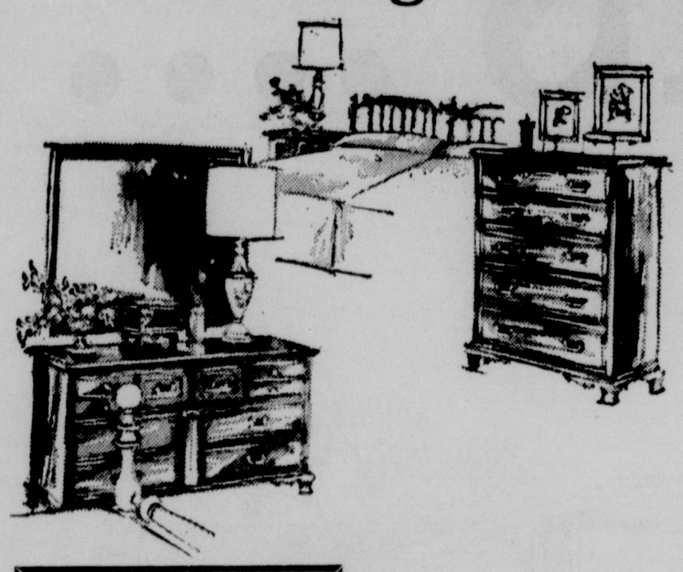

It was during the run of that musical that Miss Carroll met her first husband, Jack Kirkland, the author who dramatized Erskine Caldwell's novel "Tobacco Road."

They traveled to the West coast where Miss Carroll made several stage appearances, then landed the role of Rosemary in "Abie's Irish Rose."

She later made a long succession of pictures, the best known being "The Dance Of Life" with Clark Gable.

The claims of the quacks still bring heavy response from the hopeful and the hopelessly ill throughout the land, and an estimated one billion dollars a year is paid out for remedies that will not work.

By BERNARD GAVZER
Associated Press Writer

Man: "There's this doctor out east. He has a new treatment that can stop the pain. He uses the earth, or something. I'm going to see if he'll take pa as a patient."

Friend: "You can't drag your father across the country. The trip alone would kill him. Why don't you listen to your own doctor? This man in the east is a quack."

Man: "'I don't care what he is. If he can stop the pain for pa or keep him alive one more day, that is all we want. He's my father, not yours!"

For wherever there is pain and death and ugliness, wherever men resist age and weakness and disease, there is a pied piper to lure them with promises.

His call is beguiling and almost irresistible. He promises quick relief from pain, quick recovery from illness, quick health. Quick, quick, quick. Everything happens easily and magically. Quack, quack, quack.

Heard Widely

The sound of the quack is heard in the land and the gullible and hopeful and hopeless open their pockets to produce a mighty flood of dollars. How much each year?

An educated, conservative guess: $1 billion.

"Who is the quack? What happens to those he treats? What is being done to protect the public?

"We believe that anyone who deliberately or fraudulently makes a false or misleading health claim for any food, drug, or device is a quack and is guilty of medical fraud," said Dr. Hamlet C. Pulley, assistant director of the California Department of Public Health, in public hearings last year.

The American Cancer Society makes a multipoint check list on "recognizing the quack." The main points are:

"1—His treatment is usually secret, as is the method, and he is the only one who has it.

"2—He promotes through advertisements and testimonials, not through reports in current, reputable, scientific journals.

"3—He often uses the name of a high-sounding research organization or foundation.

"4—He discourages or refuses consultation with reputable physicians; claims the 'medical trust' (which basically means the AMA or a governmental agency such as the Food and Drug Administration) is against him.

Makes Claims

"5—His testimonials often come from people who never had the disease, or from those who experience remissions (a temporary halt in the symptoms of a disease, during which people are convinced they have been cured)."

Medical quackery doesn't start or end with a man or a device.

It begins with a person who needs something.

That person can be an arthritic, a cancer victim, a child with cerebral palsy, an octogenarian with a stroke, or anyone afflicted with any chronic disorder.

It can also be a fat person, or a flat-chested woman, or a man who thinks his sex drive is gone, or a teen-ager with acne.

The consultant doctors at Mayo know this, as do many other reputable doctors.

"You see someone go out of here — someone with an incurable disease — and you know they will go wherever someone promises them anything," says a Mayo rheumatologist.

Arthritics are among the most exploited by what the medical profession considers quacks. They are constantly in quest of something to relieve pain or correct joint damage or ease "that nagging back." So they sit in mines which are supposedly radioactive, adorn themselves with bracelets or metallic wonder rings or pads and mittens, or anoint themselves with questionable salves.

Number Reduced

Cancer victims are terrified by their disease and envision the ghost of death and envision his scythe behind their shoulder. Quacks and nostrum peddlers once abounded in the cancer field, but their numbers have been reduced in recent years.

Still, according to the American Cancer Society, there are practitioners of "unproven methods of treatment" (the ACS avoids saying "quack" because of the threat of lawsuits) who are using variations of techniques discredited decades ago.

In 1750, Elisah Perkins came forth with "metallic tractors" capable, he said, of curing cancer and many other ills befalling man. Their modern version is in therapeutic devices featuring wonder rays, flashing lights, crackling machines, healing plates.

The father of our country commended a Mrs. Johnson for curing cancer. George Washington thought highly of her recipe which consisted of garden sorrel, cedandine, persimmon bark and spring water. It is to be presumed then he would have held high regard for a tonic distributed until recently which contained pottasium oxide, licorice, red clover, burdock root, prickly ash bark, buckthorn bark and so on.

Use Of Grapes

Still in partial use are methods stressing a specific diet as well as frequent coffee enemas. There also was (and perhaps is) the "grape cure" which specifies a diet of grapes only, as well as grape poultices, grape juice compresses, grape juice gargles, and grape juice enemas or douches.

All told, it is estimated $100 million a year is spent futilely by cancer victims or those fearing they have cancer.

No one can estimate the number of lives lost because of time consumed in the hands of a quack or in the practice of self-medication or in the failure to have proper diagnosis and treatment. A study of 64 quack-treated cancer cases referred to Duke University Medical School showed that 27 who died might have been saved; 10 others who were saved underwent much more severe and radical treatment than would have been needed.

The roles of professional medical societies, state boards and federal agencies are limited in the fight against quackery.

—The American Medical Association has no punitive way of stopping a man who is promoting some fake cure-all. First of all, the man may not belong to the 206,000-member association. If he does, the national group follows a rule of "original jurisdiction," which means that the quack has to be dealt with by the medical society in the community in which he practices. When it comes down to finger-pointing and instituting actual cases, doctors traditionally exhibit a do-nothing or leave-me-out symptom in which they appear incapable of testifying harshly about their brethern. However, the AMA does have an active bureau of investigation and its director, Oliver Field, is considered a bogeyman by almost every half-baked, greedy health-and-medicine promoter in the United States.

—State licensing boards find it extremely difficult to revoke the license of a doctor because it is difficult to get doctors to testify that one of their number is an out-and-out crackpot. Part of this reluctance stems from experience in malpractice law suits where it has been held that the liability of a physician and surgeon is based on two obligations, (1) That he possesses "that reasonable degree of learning and skill that is ordinarily possessed by physicians and surgeons in the locality where he practices" and (2) That he uses "his best judgement in exercising his skill and applying his knowledge." These subjective values hardly lend themselves to cold, objective evaluations. Who can argue what another man's best judgment may be?

Watchdog Agency

—The Food and Drug Administration is a watchdog agency, but not over the medical profession. It shows its muscles when there are violations of the federal law prohibiting false and misleading claims in the labeling or advertising of foods, drugs and cosmetics. Since a quack might claim his concoction of unicorn spun lava is a sure cure for sinus trouble, carbuncles, acid indigestion and baldness, the FDA can legally get in the act. But the FDA has 950 investigators in a total national staff of 2,000, and they have an enormous amount of policing to do.

—The Federal Trade Commission's jurisdiction in the medical field includes the prevention of false and misleading advertising for proprietary drugs — that is, patent medicines. It has very limited legal and scientific staffs to concentrate on such violations.

—The Post Office Department has a role because of possible improper use of the mails. Its responsibility is to see that no one uses the mails in perpetration of a fraud. Since millions of pounds of promotional literature move through the mails, the Post Office Department's inspection service keeps an eye open for mail order phonies.

The dilemma for the public and the medical profession is in considering at what point orthodoxy stands in the way of imaginative and progressive research.

"There are people in the field of research who are involved in some far-out projects and I would hate to see them stymied or ridiculed," says a research scientist in New York's famous Bellevue Hospital. "However, there is a procedure for reporting on research and there are systems of control groups and independent checking which distinguish the researcher from the exploiter. The cancer quack, for example, does not submit his treatment or drug to independent testing."

THIS IS A RARE photograph of Katmandu's "living Goddess," the Kumari, taken during a recent religious festival there as she was paraded through the streets on a palanquin. Chosen by temple priests at a terrifying ceremony at the age of three, the little girl is kept away from her family and the world in a Katmandu temple, except for an occasional religious festival when she is paraded through the streets. (AP Newsfeatures Photos)

Kumari, Lonely Little Girl

Thousands of Nepalese worship the six-year-old Kumari of Katmandu, a lonely little girl who is confined to the dim, inner recesses of the temple, guarded by attendants and a teacher.

By CONRAD FINK

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — She is a "living goddess" but she must be one of the loneliest little girls in the world.

This is the 6-year-old Kumari of Katmandu, a slender, solemn-faced little girl worshipped by thousands of Nepalese who keep her a virtual prisoner.

She leads a life of seclusion and in accordance with ancient religious law is kept in a dusty old temple off Durbar Square in Katmandu, away from her family and away from the world.

Sometimes, the Kumari — "Living Goddess" — can be seen peeking from a window high in the Hindu temple, watching laughing children at play in the square below.

But she is as quick as a sunray and if too many eyes turn upward to her window, or if there is a reach for a camera, she is gone with a rustle of drapes and a flash of her red ceremonial dress.

In Seclusion

The Kumari never is permitted to play or even walk in the courtyard. Her world is the dim, inner recesses of the temple, guarded from the world and its contaminations by attendants and the ever-present guruma (mother-teacher.)

A few times each year, during important religious festivals, the Kumari is dressed in fine robes and a rich headdress, hoisted to a palanquin on men's shoulders and paraded through the streets.

But even then, released from her temple prison, she cannot act like a little girl.

Ancient Custom

The origin of this Nepalese custom is lost in the distant past. But there has been a Kumari as long as there has been someone to write the history of this Himalayan kingdom.

Each Kumari is selected at about age 3 and reigns until the onset of puberty, or until (heaven forbid, Nepalese say) an accident scratches her or otherwise causes her to bleed.

When a vacancy occurs, word is sent to every community: A new Kumari is among you.

The Nepalese, eager for the honor of providing a living goddess, trek to Katmandu with their young daughters. Priests from the temple off Durbar Square take over from there.

All the tiny girls, some separated from their mothers for the first time, are put in a dark room filled with the bloody heads of sacrificial buffalo, goats and chickens. Huge drums are beaten, horns are blown as priests put up a frightening din.

With one exception, the priests say, the little girls dissolve into tears and wails of fright.

That exception, the priests add, obviously is the new Kumari — composed, stately and unafraid, even at the age of 3.

The present Kumari has been in the temple three years — three years of no running, no laughing and even no weeping.

For if a Kumari were to weep, a great calamity of some sort would strike Nepal. Disaster, or so it is believed, would sweep down from the Himalayas.

The 20th Century has made many inroads in Nepal, a closed kingdom for hundreds of years. But Nepalese faith in the Kumari and their guarded watch over her have not been shaken.

"We want to photograph the Kumari," an interpreter shouted up.

GURUMA, THE GUARDIAN of Kumari, the "living Goddess of Katmandu," Nepal, leans from a window of the Dubar Square Temple to gaze down upon a foreign photographer. Not even the king would be allowed to photograph her charge, she said. Claiming that the foreigner's blue eyes terrified her, she asked that he be taken away.

Law And Obscenity

Striking changes in American moral standards are rapidly finding expression in law. Just as the corrupt Emperor Nero, who fiddled while Rome burned, was blamed for the moral decay of the Roman empire, the Supreme Court of the United States may some day be blamed for the moral decay and fall of the United States.

Not only do laws control obscenity to a large extent but the moral standards of a nation frequently determine the laws that are enacted to govern such conduct, and courts, from the highest to the lowest, in some cases, may be influenced as much by custom as by law.

The United States Supreme Court has gone so far as to say what may be lewd and obscene conduct in one state or community may be tolerated and even upheld in another state or community. On this premise the high court has based some of its worst decisions permitting lewd pictures and obscene conduct.

Immorality, not only from a sexual aspect but from the standpoints of mental honesty and integrity, can be caught in a vicious circle. High officials and high justices are largely responsible for the morals of their country and when they become corrupt and loose in their thinking they pass their thoughts on down to the ordinary citizen. When the morality of citizens is lowered, they elect corrupt and immoral officials. This may swing back and forth until an entire nation moves into the corrupt cycle.

Recent judicial opinions have tended to the view that personal morality, particularly sexual morality, is none of the law's business, although there have been times in the history of the United States when no man whose name was tinged with scandal could be elected to office. Now the attention that is paid to such things is far too scant.

Legal definition of obscenity, as outlined by the Supreme court, has narrowed to the point where it may soon apply only to hardcore pornography, and who can say, judging from the high court's decisions, when even that will be permitted. Obscenities now allowed by the court are of such a nature as to corrupt the morality of a nation.

Jurists and philosophers have debated the merits of laws on morality for decades. The fashionable view now is that such laws are unenforceable and probably unconstitutional. But there can not be the slightest doubt that removal of legal restraints on moral behavior encourages and promotes immorality.

In reporting that some communities are shocked by certain practices while others accept them without question and in then overruling judgments or court actions in the communities affected, the highest court in the land is being completely inconsistent. If it thinks morality is a local question, it should leave intact the judgments of the local courts, which, in all probability take into consideration the feelings of the people of the community.

The Supreme Court, in violation of its own concept that what is shocking to some communities is acceptable in others, has forced changes in numerous state laws regulating personal conduct. It has put the United States, in a morally judicial sense, on the level with former nations which have fallen because of the people's immoralities.

A Supreme court decision in 1964, 10 years after the notorious "Black Monday" integration decision regarding schools, struck down a Florida law barring cohabitation of white-Negro couples, a law greatly similar to one in Louisiana. A Virginia statute banning white-Negro marriages is being tested in the courts. These, as well as other laws governing morals, are principally the concern of the individual states.

Moral standards are anything but uniform and constant. Views on morality not only vary in different countries but tend to fluctuate widely in any given country over a long period of time.

Today's young reader or moviegoer has plenty to blush about. A few generations ago these things would have been intolerable. This is partly the fault of the Supreme Court, which has sharply circumscribed the activities of state and local censors by overturning bans on books and films commonly called "filth."

Moral decay eventually brings governmental and economic decay because the people not only lose their integrity but their energy and initiative.

The Supreme Court could have done the nation a service by upholding decency. Instead, it ruled against banning indency and went so far as to deny local and state authorities that right.

Johnson's Five Years

If President Johnson had announced unequivocally that he would guarantee that every resident of the United States would live an additional five years, his statement would have been electrifying. His prediction that the average life span will increase five years within the next decade did not offer five years more to every individual but it did mean that for everyone who lives less than five years past his formerly predicted span there will be some one who will live more than five years past that time.

There is no reason to believe the President was "puffing" or "strutting." On the contrary, there is good reason to think his prediction will come true.

The statement was made as he signed into law a bill extending for three years federal grants for immunization against contagious diseases. Stating that the administration is seeking "very ambitious but attainable and realistic goals" for improving the life of Americans, Johnson named one of them as the extension of life expectancy from 70 to 75 years.

Other goals included:

Reducing the death rate per 1,000 births from 25 to 16. Saving the lives of infants adds greatly to the average life span.

Virtual elimination of tuberculosis, measles, whooping cough, tetanus and diphtheria.

A 20 per cent reduction in the number of Americans afflicted with heart disease, cancer and stroke.

The bill will provide $33 million over four years for mass immunization against the contagious diseases.

The goals are good and we hope that Medicare's partial control over physicians won't be so restrictive as to prevent achieving those goals.

Are Earthmen Unique?

President Johnson's comments on the probable lack of life on the planet Mars were entirely human. They portrayed in part what countless human beings have thought, and reflected, again, man's insatiable quest for knowledge on how he came to be on this earth and whether there are similar intellectual beings on other planets.

Among Johnson's comments were: 1. "It may be, it just may be, that life as we know it, with its humanity, is more unique than many have thought." 2. "I was a little bit relieved your photographs didn't show signs of life out there."

No matter what space exploration eventually reveals, man will be appalled. If there are other beings that may attack us, he will be aghast.

Few Foreign Aid Cuts Seen

Subcommittee Load Against Passman

THE CARDS ARE stacked against any steep slashing of President Johnson's $3.3 billion foreign aid budget in the House Appropriations Committee.

The subcommittee handling this program has been rigged against that.

For years this key committee, under the chairmanship of Representative Otto Passman, D-La., militant foe of large-scale foreign aid spending, has backed his demand for heavy cuts — later invariably approved by the full House.

But that won't happen this year. Passman's subcommittee has been loaded against him.

The President is certain of a 6 to 3 majority for his $3.3 billion budget.

This decisive majority was set up this way: First, the committee was reduced from 11 to 9 members. Then three Democrats were added whose votes the White House can count on—Representatives Julia Hansen, Wash.; Jeffery Cohelan, Calif., and Clarence Long, Md.

WITH THREE holdovers — Representatives John Rooney, D - N. Y., William Natcher, D-Ky., and Silvio Conte, R - Mass. — that makes six sure votes. Aligned with Passman are Representatives Garner Shriver, R-Kan., and Mark Andrews, R-N. D.,

This backstage trump card is the main factor behind the month - long deadlock between the House and Senate over the foreign aid authorization bill — which under the rules must be passed before the appropriation measure can be acted on.

Knowing it has secure control of the House Appropriations Committee, as well as the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the administration is flatly balking at accepting the Senate authorization bill as amended by Senator Wayne Morse, D-Ore. Under this amendment, the existing foreign aid program — under which more than $100 billion has been expended since 946 — would be terminated in two years and replaced by an entirely new one formulated by a special committee set up by Congress.

UNLISTED FOREIGN AID BILLIONS — While the cards have been stacked against him in his committee, Representative Passman is girding to wage a determined fight in the full House to slash foreign aid spending.

His aim is to cut the President's $3.3 billion budget by at least $500 million.

"Requests for new foreign aid funds this year amount to $7,512,467,000. On June 30, 1965, unliquidated funds for prior years' authority (for foreign aid spending) amounted to $10,605,738,000. If Congress approves the full additional $7,512,467,000, that the administration has requested in new funds this year, then there will be a staggering total available for foreign aid disbursement in the amount of $18,118,205,000."

THIS ISN'T ALL of Passman's sensational compilation. He asserts:

"These stupendous totals to include an appropriation of $1,035,000,000 tacked onto a recent appropriation bill for the International Monetary Fund . . . Neither do they include the $4 billion annual interest we are paying on money we have borrowed to give away as part of the immense foreign aid program."

Views Of Our Readers

In Agreement

Mer Rouge, La.

To the Editor:

The writer of this is in full accord with the letter of Sunday in your paper which Mrs. Alice Wilson of Girard, La., wrote. The Bogalusa affair is not a local concern. It has reached National and World importance. You and most all the daily news papers take the K.K.K. to task as if they are committing a heinous crime in trying to retain their own way of life.

I was here when the K.K.K. did an evil thing in the 1920's in Morehouse Parish. I did not approve the act and still condemn it. But I do not go around shouting from the roof tops that the K.K.K. is a criminal organization. I have never been a member of the Klan and am not a member now. But if it were not for my 84 years I would join them tomorrow rather than submit to the outrageous treatment that the Civil Righters are putting over on a scared or passive people.

With all the knowledge of some dirty work of the criminal element of the K.K.K. I just can't reasonably condemn the whole organization. I have known Masons to go to the same extreme — long ago — but no one, in so far as my knowledge extends, ever condemned the entire fraternity. It was not so long after the K.K.K. outrage in Morehouse that a preacher in your city committed a crime that would have shamed a Comanche Indian of the last century. Did you condemn the entire Christianity? And did you want to abolish the government of the State after the sorry mess of grafting and pilfering the state soon after the K.K.K. was unlawful in Morehouse? You are harder on the K.K.K. than you ever are on the Communists. It makes me wonder why that can be. Are you so narrow-minded that you cannot see the trend of things today?

It just so happens that a criminal will be put in a place of responsibility in a bank, and he just can not resist looting that bank. Is that sufficient cause to condemn our financial system? The Communists have been doing just that since they became organized, but for an entirely different reason than that the bank was looted. How long are you to work hand-in-hand with them? "Assume a virtue if you have it not."

Governor McKeithen threw in the state militia and state police. As a result, according to your paper, it has cost the state $100,000. It isn't to be thought that there is a single person, either a white man or a Negro in the rioters that is worth 50 cents on a slave market.

To be sure, the Negro has not always had the justice which he should have had nor has the white man always had it, which you must know.

Sees Unfriendliness

Cocoa, Fla.

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, July 27, I was passing through your state from California enroute to my sister's wedding here in Florida and chanced to follow one of those "Gas-Good-Lodging" signs along Interstate 20 into Grambling for my morning coffee.

Perhaps it was because of the beard I wear — this is the only thing I can think of that would have made me stand out in any way from local people — people stared at me as I drove through town in search of a restaurant. Thinking nothing of it, however, I pulled up to a restaurant and was immediately accosted by a man who asked, "Where you from,?" I told him. Then he asked, "What you doing here?" I naturally explained I was trying to get some coffee. "What's your business in this part of the country?" he wanted to know. I explained to him where I was bound and for what purpose, but by this time I was losing my patience with this obviously unfriendly individual. He mumbled something else, but I still hadn't had my coffee and didn't feel that it was necessary to go through the third degree so I left town. As a matter of fact, I was so disgusted I managed to get through Louisiana spending no more than 45 cents and made it a point to spend as little as I could until I got to Tallahassee.

My little contribution that could have been made to the economy of Louisiana won't be missed, but by the time it is multiplied by a few million it only serves to keep Louisiana one of our more backward states. I intend to write similar letters to the Grambling Chamber of Commerce, the Louisiana State Chamber of Commerce, and the Louisiana State Tourist Bureau. Until the people of Grambling and Louisiana wake up and start treating outsiders with the respect that the term "Southern hospitality" indicates once existed, that area will always remain in the boondocks.

Keep'um Coming

Bastrop, Louisiana

To the Editor:

For some time we, as a family, have enjoyed the Editorial page of our Monroe Morning World. Some of the letters you print are very good according to our way of thinking. However on July 18, 1965 there was one that seemed to arouse us beyond measure.

Looking at the text of the letter under "Last Letter", we find it necessary to ask you to publish our feelings. First of all the good Rev. seems to have missed his calling. Surely with his knowledge of all that an editor needs to know and be, he should become a newspaper man.

Considering this thing of how you have been acting, what you need, and what we (your readers) need, we are sick and tired of "know - it - all intelectuals" telling us or anyone what we want.

In conclusion may you be assured that the man from Chatham can only speak for himself. As for your editorials, please "keep 'em coming".

Unbearable Debt Load Is Outlined

WHO ARE THE families, among the tens of millions now comfortably carrying the biggest debt loads in history, who get caught in an intolerable squeeze? Can we draw a fine but critical line between a healthy, bearable load of loans and an unhealthy, unbearable load?

"Overextended - credit families remain a faceless vexation in our society," says Dr. Milton J. Huber, associate professor at the University of Wisconsin's Center for Consumer Affairs, in one of the most revealing studies of consumer financial problems I've seen.

To draw a detailed portrait of the overextended credit family, Huber conducted two-hour 24-page interviews with 100 Detroit families. Most qualified for bankruptcy. All had had to seek professional debt counseling. Here is Huber's profile.

The family is young, has more than the average number of children. Average income is a respectable $6,500.

The parents are easy-going, carefree and impulsive, have "limited pleasure postponement mechanisms" and rubber wills when confronted with high pressure salesman.

WHILE THE husband, in most cases, is satisfied with his job, one in three wives is dissatisfied with her husband's pay.

The family doesn't read anything, not even the daily newspaper. TV is the major communication medium in the family's life and TV disproportionately influences the couple's buying decisions.

The parents tend to blame their plight on vague, unavoidable "circumstances" or superficial back-breaking straws such as pregnancy, temporary loss of job, buying a car — and thus they feel their troubles are not their fault.

Neither husband nor wife assumes clear responsibility for managing the family's finance and the husband certainly doesn't take over the task on his own. "Even among the couples who thought they were sharing money management responsibilities, there was little indication of joint decision-making, democratically planned," says Huber. "What really appeared to be operating was a laissez-faireism parading as a sort of magnanimous democracy in the dispensing of funds." As one husband remarked, "We don't quibble about it. If either one of us wants to buy, we buy!"

THE VAST MAJORITY of our consumer debts is adequately cushioned by our record incomes and savings, our growing financial assets and solid earnings potentials. If our economy's growth is sustained — and maintaining prosperity is a fundamental objective of policymaking in the U. S. today — the most informed opinion is that our consumer debt load is not a threat. Actually, the typical U. S. consumer is his (or her) best money manager.

But there is a minority in deep financial trouble. Against a background of a rising number of personal bankruptcies and an increasing total of wage garnishments across the nation, Huber's profile assumes practical importance. From his own research Huber devises some provocative questions — the answers to which may help us draw that fine but critical line.

"Would it be feasible to design a personality test to isolate personality types who 'can't say no' in the marketplace . . . and 'vaccinate' them against high pressure sales promotion?"

Is "overextension of credit outlets creating a competitive situation which minimizes the use of credit checks in the interest of getting the business?"

If consumer education is the basic answer to the problem, which social institution is to bear this responsibility, who is to prepare the material, and how is it to be communicated effectively, realizing that over 60 per cent of the young women graduating from high school each year marry not many months later?"

BARRY GOLDWATER

Invasion Sought In South Africa

THE CARNEGIE Endowment for International Peace has come up with a plan that clearly justified the use of United Nations troops to invade the Soviet Union and Red China.

This sounds incredible, I know. But read on.

The proposal by the Carnegie Endowment, once headed by Alger Hiss, is contained in a study that has just been reported. It is aimed specifically at South Africa, but it establishes a precedent which obviously would justify the same sort of medicine for other countries.

South Africa's racial policies are the basis for the Carnegie suggestions. Because that nation is segregated, the peace group says, the United Nations should first blockade it with ships and planes. Then its ground forces should destroy the power and the government of South Africa's white citizens (who, incidentally, settled in South Africa at just about the same time that our forefathers settled here).

THE CARNEGIE group is so emphatic about this peaceful suggestion that it expresses a bland willingness to accept up to 38,000 U.N. casualties as the price of destroying the South African government. For every death, presumably, the peace group would mount a small celebration or at least dedicate a new study.

The fact that this group can, with actuarial exactitude, decide that overthrowing the South African government is worth 38,000 dead and wounded (presumably of persons not connected with the peaceful work of Carnegie) would make each drop of blood spilled a tribute to Carnegie's skill at estimating the price of peace.

Beyond this group's brave willingness to cheer on a slaughter is its peaceful precedent. If the United Nations should invade South Africa — because that country has separated its white and colored populations into two equal political subdivisions, actually giving the colored population states of their own — the United Nations surely should be urged to invade and other country that practices any sort of segregation as a matter of government policy.

IF, ACCORDING to the peaceful thinkers at the Carnegie Endowment, the separation of races in South Africa is worth a U.N. invasion, what must they think about Communist segregation?

The Soviet Union immediately comes to mind, from which come persistent reports of official anti - Semitism. That surely indicates a racist government.

Millions of persons were slaughtered in the Soviet Union some years ago because of another sort of official policy — the segregation and massacre of the kulaks, the farmers and peasants who resisted government confiscation of their homes and lands.

Today, of course, the Soviet government clearly segregates non - Communist Party members, denying them privileges, jobs, even education and political representation.

Similar policies, with even more brutal impact, are followed in Red China where it is estimated every family has had at least one kinsman murdered by government decree.

We await, without expectation, the Carnegie group's peaceful estimate of how many casualties the United Nations should accept in setting things straight in Moscow and Peking, now that they've done such a thoughtful job on Pretoria.

The Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Aug. 8, the 220th day of 1965 with 145 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening stars are Venus and Mars.

Charles Bulfinch, America's first professional architect, was born on this day in 1763.

On this day in history:

In 1945, President Harry S. Truman signed the ratification of the U.N. charter. Also in 1945, the Soviet Union declared war on Japan.

In 1950, Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif., set a women's record for swimming the English Channel—13 hours 28 minutes.

In 1936, a gang of masked bandits staged a mail train robbery in England, and made off with $7 million.

A thought for the day—American novelist Sinclair Lewis said: "Our American professors like their literature clear and cold and pure and very dead."

SUNDAY POEM

Forget the slander you have heard,
Forget the hasty, unkind word:
Forget the quarrel and the cause,
Forget the whole affair, because Forgetting is the only way.
Forget the storm of yesterday,
Forget the chap whose sour face
Forgets to smile in any place.
Forget you're not a millionaire,
Forget the gray streaks in your hair.
Forget the coffee when it's cold,

NEW TYPE OF TESTS

Art Buchwald, a columnist, recently was discussing the various types of psychological testing that's going on — particularly in the United States government. Recently some of these have come under fire from several congressional committees, whose members feel that asking job applicants a series of questions to gauge their personalties is an invasion of privacy.

Seemingly the test that has come in for the most criticism is the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory, a 566-question true-or-false quiz.

According to Buchwald, as an answer to the MMPI, one of its critics has developed the North Dakota Null-Hypothesis Brain Inventory, which goes like this and you answer true or false:

1. If I go into the street, I'm apt to be bitten by a horse.
2. Spinach makes me feel alone.
3. Some people never look at me.
4. My sex life is A-okay.
5. I like to kill mosquitoes.
6. Cousins are not to be trusted.
7. I'm bored by thoughts of death.
8. People who break the law are wise guys.
9. I use shoe polish to excess.
10. I am not afraid of picking up door knobs.
11. It is hard for me to say the right thing when I find myself in a room full of mice.
12. A wide necktie is a sign of disease.
13. As a child I was deprived of licorice.
14. My eyes are always cold.

Now for the results. According to Buchwald if you have answered more questions true than false, you should work for the Labor Department.

If you have answered more questions false than true, you should try for the peace corps. If you answered the same number each way, apply for work with the Voice of America. If you refused to answer some of the questions, you might work for the White House.

If you talked about this test to anybody else, then you could never get security clearance and you'd better stay where you are.

IT HAD TO HAPPEN

THE OHIO Highway Patrol parks empty police cars along highways in an effort to scare motorists into slowing down. Spotting one such car, vandals came to a complete stop — and stripped it of a $200 siren, license plates and official markings . . .

HOW UNLUCKY

Linda Gunter, the 18-year-old Watermelon queen of Terral, Okla., feels the weight of noblesse oblige every time she has to pose with one of her watermelon subjects and smile. She's allergic to watermelons.

CLASSIFIED AD

This classified ad was published recently in a newspaper: "63 Sunbeam Alpine, wife or car must go, $1,400 either one."

TWELVE MARKS

The other day while visiting Lundy Cavender, manager of the Ruston Chamber of Commerce, we picked up a booklet entitled "Twelve Marks of a True Christian," which struck our fancy.

The leaflet was put out by Herbert J. Taylor, chairman of the board of Club Aluminum Products Co., and a past president of Rotary International.

As outlined by Taylor, the 12 indications are:

1. A Christian has accepted Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour and Lord.
2. He loves God with all his heart and expresses his love through constant prayer, praise and thanksgiving.
3. He has a deep and abiding faith in the truth of God's Word and reads it regularly to strengthen his faith.
4. He follows Christ's commandment, "Love one another"; he is quick to forgive other their trespasses against him.
5. He constantly seeks the guidance of the Holy Spirit as to God's will for him and follows God's commandments as to his thoughts, words and deeds.
6. He contributes of his income, as the Lord directs, to Christian projects and is an active and faithful member of his church.
7. He faithfully seeks to be more Christlike and is sincere, just, honest and dependable in his relations with others in home and community life.
8. He knows that he is accountable to God for all of his possessions including his time, talents and property, and does his best to be a good trustee.
9. He is a humble person and gives God the credit and glory for his accomplishments.
10. He has a deep appreciation of what Christ did for him on the cross, readily witnesses for his risen Lord to others and expectantly waits for His return in person.
11. He is cheerful, patient, calm and trusts confidently in God to provide the means to overcome temptations.
12. He does his part, as the Lord directs, in carrying the Gospel message of Christ to all peoples of the world.

THE JOB CORPS PROGRAM

Word is beginning to get around about the "Great Society's" Job Corps program and it isn't good — despite efforts to cover it up and white wash it.

In recent months, here are just a few of the things that have reportedly occurred and have been published by various writers:

1. At St. Petersburg, Fla., 270 girls were housed in a hotel which has a market value of between $150,000 and $200,000 and for which you as a taxpayer are helping to pay $225,000 in rent for its use of just 18 months. One woman worker walked out there, charging the camp was being run like a plush country club, that the girls, instead of being taught any skills or trades as they were supposed to be, were mostly out on the town. The girls even have maids to make up their bed and clean their rooms. The staff adds up to one full-time employe for every two girls. And the expenditures for each girl are calculated at $7,000 a year, considerably more than it costs to send a girl to Vassar for a year.
2. At the girls Job Corps center in Cleveland, where an anti-poverty official said he expected no trouble, the words were hardly out of his mouth before it was disclosed that four girls had been expelled and a fifth arrested on marijuana charges.
3. At Camp Gary, Texas, about 50 miles north of San Antonio, five Negro youths were jailed in connection with the holdup and shooting of two Air Force enlisted men from Lackland Air Force Base.
4. Police staged an early morning raid, recently, on a camp near Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and arrested eight enrollees on charges ranging from possession of narcotics to possession of deadly weapons.
5. Officials at Chattanooga, Tenn., anti-poverty drive hired two high school dropouts to work in the public library compiling a bibliography. There proved to be just one slight hitch; neither of the youngsters could read.
6. Boys in Tongue Point, Oregon's center, rioted with lead pipes.

The list, we are told, could go on, but this should give you an idea, regardless of the statement by Sargent Shriver, the anti - poverty czar, that the program is going "great." Not only that, but the appropriation next year will be almost twice as much as this year — thanks to a rubber stamp Congress, which railroads bills through obediently under the whip-lash of the White House, while you pay the bill.

OUR BELIEFS

Occasionally, we run into a reader who says, "I read your items and thoughts, but I don't always agree with them." I wouldn't dare insult a reader, but the thought crosses my mind that it ought to be mighty hard for a loyal American to disagree with us. We favor the flag, respect motherhood, oppose communism and take a moderate view of sin.

Twin Cities Week In Review

Force Of Shock Strong In News

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

If there was a watchword in last week's major local news, it likely would have been "shock."

Deeply shocking was the inexplicable tragedy of the private plane crash in Mississippi which snuffed out the lives of four members of the well-known and well-liked James L. Dana family.

Shock of a very different character also was registered by many the same day, Thursday, with the filing in Shreveport of a suit to integrate City of Monroe schools.

TYLER

It was a week virtually inundated with local news, but perhaps led by these two items which, for utterly divergent reasons, gave residents pause for serious reflection.

The tenuousness of life, of course, is a problem which has given rise to whole systems of thought, and the point was driven home with poignant force by the tragedy of the West Monroe family.

Dead after their plane went down just south of Mathiston, in northeast Mississippi, were Mr. Dana, secretary-manager of a West Monroe building and loan firm, his wife, Shirley Jean, who like Mr. Dana was 39, and their daughters, Jean, 15, and Katherine Ann, 13.

They were en route to a relative's funeral in South Carolina, when the plane apparently broke up in flight around 1:15 p.m. Three other Dana youngsters, 17, 11 and 9-year-old sons, did not make the trip because of limited room in the craft.

Suit Surprises

News of the integration suit, filed in the Monroe Division of Federal District Court at Shreveport, appeared on the same front page which told of the Danas.

Monroe School Board officials expressed surprise at the legal action, another aim of which is delay of the planned sale Aug. 10 of $6 million in bonds to expand and improve the system.

Filed ostensibly for three Monroe Negro students and others "similarly situated," the suit purports fear that the proceeds would be used to perpetuate a segregated system.

President J. H. Scogin Jr. said Friday a meeting of the school board probably will be held Monday to study the situation.

The suit named Scogin, the four other boardmen, Supt. Van D Odom, the City of Monroe and Mayor W. L. Howard.

Meetings Of Note

The school board session is but one important meeting announced last week as on the tack board for this week. Another is the Monday get-together of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

There are reports that anti-poverty and its related environs may come again to the fore. Until recently at a comparative lull, the issue received new life when the Ouachita Parish Farm Bureau resolved in favor of a "responsible" organization to administer the federal program locally.

Definitely on the agenda is a report from the citizens committee charged by the jury with studying feasibility of creating parish industrial districts for certain service tax exemptions.

The City School Board held a regular meeting last Tuesday, as did the Ouachita Parish Board. Among the former's business was the naming of veteran educator Paul J. Neal as principal of the proposed Wossman High School (one of the schools involved in the bond program). Parish boardmen sold their abandoned Watson School and site in ward nine, on a 12-4 split, to Open Door Home, the agency currently leasing it.

It was a busy news scene. West Monroe aldermen were planning a meeting next Tuesday.

Exuding Streets?

Even the streets were exuding interesting reading last week — well, in a way. Point is a number of catchy items concerned themselves with Twin City streets, their care and upbringing. Cases in said point:

Monroe Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez and others began the annual swing through town, seeking out projects worthy of annexation into the 1966 improvement program. Some seven such projects already have been requested by involved property owners.

The parking ban on DeSiard Street, from Ninth Street to the eastern city limits — once postponed — finally took effect, reported aim being four full traffic lanes on the White Way.

Oak Street between Hall and Hart was closed Thursday, allowing the removal of trees for a widening program.

State engineers arrived for a peek at plans to widen North Eighteenth from Breard to Forsythe. Next step is final planning. Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard, a participant in the deliberations, said strong recommendations were made anent changes pertaining both to construction and drainage.

And finally on the street tack, I-20 travellers seeking West Monroe must have been cheered to learn of plans for signs (typical in their enormity of others along the throughway) clearly marking the path to same.

Cute, Whimsical

Cute and whimsical as ever, we might describe the week's remaining stories as rather like those cannons at the Crimea— to the right, to the left, to the rear, etc. While it's not a very clever allegory and we're 599 short of Tennyson's famous 600, you may be sure that this is the only weekly column that ever attempted to re-create the Charge of the Light Brigade.

Anyway, here we go down the line, trying to get in as much as possible by dint of brevity:

Directors of the Ouachita Valley Museum met for the first time in their new home at 707 St. John (the former parish school board office) and set underway a search for a president of the organization, as well as a club group to sponsor the museum.

Mosquitoes — increasingly a problem and apparently developing a partial immunity to chemicals employed against them — triggered two items. West Monroe Mayor J. Allan Norris warned residents of possible allergic irritation owing to new elements in fog spray compounds being used, while Dr. W. Carroll Summer, parish health unit director, urged a public offensive on mosquitoes, citing their disease-spreading propensities.

Back momentarily to West Monroe, it was noted that aldermen are considering purchase of a recording and amplification system. Persons familiar with the acoustics and other factors attending the city government sessions are understood elated over the amplifier.

The end was nearing for Monroe's old post office building and former health unit home. Indeed, wrecking crews were due on the St. John scene late in the week to begin the two-month demolition job.

Monroe's civic center director, William Lillyman, presently in Virginia, was reported due "in a few days," to take over his duties Sept. 1.

Billy Bayles was named to chair the next Miss West Monroe Beauty Pageant by that city's Jaycees.

Monroe bank executive George Rorex was named head of the United Givers Fund's professional and individual gifts division by UGF Campaign Chairman J. C. Loftin.

Winners, in order of placement, in the final week of the Morning World's snapshot competition were Rosco B. Jones, Monroe, Kip Sudduth, Monroe, Mrs. A. E. Oglesby, West Monroe, and Jimmy Boyett, Monroe.

New pumps on Bayou Bartholomew were credited with returning the level in Bayou DeSiard, Monroe's chief source of fresh water, to 71 feet.

Hearing was set by the local planning commission for Aug. 16 on proposed rezoning from open land to a B-2 business classification on the much-considered Forsythe Avenue strip, southwest of Oliver Road. A B-3 designation, requested by two businessmen, no longer is under consideration.

Monroe spokesman J. Dodd Brooks noted that new provisions of Social Security legislation will affect nearly everyone in northeast Louisiana. Specific information will be released this week.

The West Monroe Chamber of Commerce announced the planned commencement of an eight-week (16-hour) study course in politics (non-partisan) and political science as being set for Sept. 13. Any Twin City resident may register, and it might to be one way to find out, if not why, at least how the country is going haywire.

The area gained fame of a sort when a story last week noted that two of the headlined Angola escapees were serving terms imposed here in Fourth District Court.

On the subject of police news, Monroe officers turned up another colorful sidebar. Checking a theft suspect, they noticed a suspicious bulge in his cheek, which proved to be a roll of bills nestled among the molars.

What can top that? Maybe only James J. Baker, local nursing home resident. He turned 100 during the week, a story said, still going strong.

The World's Week In Focus

Guerrilla Goals Absolute

By JOHN CALE

THE CAPTION WITH the photograph, relayed by radio and telephone wire by way of New York from Viet Nam to our local outlet, read:

"MEETING WITH DEATH — A U. S. Marine pauses momentarily over the body of a Viet Cong guerrilla, killed during an attack on the village of Duc An, 60 miles from Da Nang. In their first clash with the V-C in recent months, the Marines killed 17 of the enemy. Marine casualties were called "light."

We can't be sure that the Marine in the picture had actually shot the guerrilla shown lying at the edge of a background of thick jungle undergrowth. But the picture told a story beyond that incidental element.

For the obviously well fed U. S. fighting man is also well dressed in government equipment from boots to helmet. He carries a new type rifle and is further equipped with a rations pack board.

THE DEAD COMMUNIST guerrilla is wearing no uniform, but simple, native dress. His bare legs are thin. If he ever had any weapon beyond a couple of hand grenades, it has been picked up, probably by guerrillas who faded back into the dense jungle when the shooting stopped.

In so many words, the picture shows a situation that tips the scales completely to one side — in the Marine's favor.

The question naturally arises as to what keeps the guerrillas going. In South Viet Nam, they have been operating in one way or another for nearly a decade.

The issue of home defense is certainly one facet the communist leaders have forwarded to keep the Viet Cong tuned to fighting pitch. The dead guerrilla was obviously fighting on home soil — the American has been shipped in from thousands of miles away.

This point alone possibly serves to keep a number of guerrillas rallying to a force that refuses to disintegrate. Certainly the Viet Cong are not well paid. Nor is their organization tight enough to enable officers to hunt down all deserters and the like — even though we may assume that torture and field executions are the order of the day in Oriental units generally.

So much for the individual guerrilla versus the U. S. Marine. What about the upper military and political levels of this brushfire war?

Fixed Objective

THE FORCES THAT dispatched the Marine to South Viet Nam have also called for negotiations with the community Vietnamese leaders. In other words, our side recognizes the fact that the guerrilla's people must finally run their own country.

There is much division of thought in the Occidental nations as to just how this should be accomplished. There is open confusion in the United States as to whether we should or should not leave the whole thing up to the Vietnamese right now — just as we left Cuba's fate to the situation on that nearby island in 1959.

There is even confusion among those in the United States who want to hit hard at the guerrilla forces; for example, there is the debate over increased use of air and sea power as opposed to the sending of more of our young men to Southeast Asia.

BEHIND THE DEAD guerrilla there is no such picture. From the jungle path on which he lies, which could lead to his own home, all the way to the communist capitals of Moscow and Peking, there is a single thought: the American should not only leave Viet Nam, he should also pull out of the Dominican Republic, Panama, Europe, the Middle East, or wherever. Not only soldiers, but diplomats and civilians as well.

"Yankee go home" in a sense is a halfway objective.

"VANISH!" seems to be the communist thinking regarding Americans, their actions and history all the way from doughboys to diplomacy — and from Marines to merchants.

It's a false, inflexible position that's bound to break up in time. But right now, it is holding hundreds of guerrilla units together in Viet Nam and elsewhere.

Political Dual

PRESIDENT JOHNSON CHARGED early last week that a "prominent" Republican violated and distorted his confidence with respect to the U.S. military step-up in Viet Nam.

Speculation pointed to House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford as the target of Johnson's remarks.

The President branded as "untrue and perhaps malicious" a report he had decided against a reserve call-up because of a warning by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that members of Congress were becoming increasingly opposed to Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Johnson told newsmen this report flowed from "a backgrounder held by one of the prominent members of another party."

TAKING THE STAND for the only other major political party in the United States, the GOP, Representative Gerald Ford of Michigan, replied:

"I refuse to be baited into a verbal donnybrook with the commander in chief that would play into the hands of Hanoi, Peiping and Moscow."

At the moment, Republican policy on the war in Viet Nam is in the spotlight.

And here the sandy haired Ford, 52 on July 14, has been urging the White House to strike more aggressively at North Viet Nam by air and sea. And he called for bombing of the Soviet built missile sites near Hanoi.

SECRETARY OF STATE Dean Rusk has publicly invited the communists to say what they are prepared to do if the United States stops bombing North Viet Nam.

His remarks appeared to add impetus to President Johnson's "peace offensive," launched simultaneously with the intensification of the U.S. war effort in South Viet Nam.

The secretary reaffirmed hope that the United Nations could help persuade Red China and Hanoi to talk peace. For the first time, he spoke openly of the possibility of "formal action" by the U.N. General Assembly or Security Council.

VACATIONING AMBASSADOR at Large Averell Harriman stopped in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, last weekend to talk informally with President Tito. As a possible result of two sessions, President Tito is expected to write President Johnson and Premier Kosygin of the Soviet Union in a move to try and bring the Vietnamese war to the conference table. A diplomatic source said further that Tito would get in touch with President Nasser of the United Arab Republic. The Yugoslav leader had already conferred with Prime Minister Shastri of India on the matter.

Urge For Coffee

TALKING AN ARMED escapee from a Louisiana jail into an impromptu coffee break turned out to be a lucky break for four Texans near the Mexican border last week.

Francis Clifton, who escaped from the Rapides Parish jail in Alexandria last weekend, was disarmed and captured in Harlingen, Texas, after he had kidnaped and robbed four persons at a truck stop cafe. Clifton's death sentence was on appeal at the time he escaped jail through a plumbing fixtures tunnel.

Mrs. Juanita Pennington, operator of the cafe, said Clifton got her and three of her regular customers, Glendine Untermeyer, Charles Paley and Bobby Ockelberry in her car on the pretext of driving him to a motel.

She said he pulled a gun, robbed them of a total of $125, then ordered them to drive south.

MRS. PENINGTON SAID they finally convinced him they should stop for coffee.

When they stopped at a cafe in Combes, 8 miles from Harlingen, Paley grabbed him, Ockelberry seized his gun and Mrs. Pennington called police.

Clifton, of Columbus, Ohio, was waiting an appeal of his death sentence for the slaying of Clifton Wilson, a state agricultural agent near Woodworth, La., in 1962.

Fortas Under Fire

ASIDE FROM THE element of surprise, the feelings of observers regarding the appointment of Washington lawyer Abe Fortas to the vacancy on the Supreme Court bench created by the Goldberg move to the U.N. forecast smooth sailing for Senate approval.

FORTAS

Then just past mid-week, Mrs. Marjorie Shearon of Chevy Chase, Maryland, told the Senate Judiciary Committee Fortas had been a member of the International Judicial Association, an organization cited as a communist front by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

She told the committee when Fortas went to work in the Agriculture Department in 1933 the agency had a number of young lawyers who later were exposed as Communists.

Mrs. Shearon identified herself as a scientist, lecturer, editor and legislative consultant, and said she worked for the late Sen. Robert A. Taft in the mid-forties. She said she represented no group but appeared "in the public interest. . ."

ANSWERING QUESTIONS by Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., Fortas said "to the best of my knowledge and belief I never attended a meeting or took part" in activities of the International Judicial Association.

"Some time in the 1930's, when I was a member of the Yale law faculty," Fortas said, "someone may have written and suggested I join the association — when it was an easy thing to join — and I may have signed."

Fortas said he had joined the National Lawyers' Guild, but quit when he said it was apparent a left-wing group was taking control.

BY THE END of the week, three colleagues — Senators Albert Gore and Ross Bass, both Democrats from Fortas' native state of Tennessee — and Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut, a former Yale Law School classmate, had strongly recommended Senate confirmation.

New Legislation

FRIDAY, SENATOR Strom Thurmond, South Carolina Republican, said President Johnson should have Negro leader Martin Luther King sign the voting rights bill with him in ceremonies scheduled for that day. Thurmond branded the bill the "most unconstitutional piece of legislation since reconstruction."

The House approved the bill, a result of a House-Senate compromise, by a 328-74 roll call vote. It differs from the usual acts of Congress in that it designates specific states for certain areas of federal enforcement.

The law will:

—Suspend literacy and other tests found discriminatory, and authorize appointment of federal examiners to register Negroes to vote in Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Louisiana, South Carolina and Virginia.

—Direct the Justice Department to begin court suits to challenge constitutionality of poll taxes used in state and local elections in Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

—Provide new criminal penalities for attempts to prevent qualified persons from voting or to threaten or harm civil rights workers assisting prospective voters.

Representative Emanuel Celler, of New York, chairman of the Judiciary Committee and main handler of the bill, called the House-Senate compromise the best possible under the circumstances. He said it would go a long way toward implementing voting rights "overdue for 100 years."

The legislation is based on the 15th Amendment, which prohibits denial of the right to vote because of race, color or creed just 13 months after passage of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The legislation would strike down all but the basic voting requirements, such as age, residence and mental competence.

Ban On Red Speaker

DESPITE WARNINGS that "you'll live to regret it," the Alabama Senate Education Committee approved a bill late Thursday to ban Communist speakers from college campuses in Alabama.

The vote on the measure, which has already passed the state's House and which has the support of Governor George C. Wallace, was 11-6.

It came after a four-hour committee session during which a former helicopter pilot holding aloft a bloody flight jacket told how he lost a leg in Viet Nam.

The onetime Army flier, Lt. John Givhan of Safford, Alabama, urged the committee to approve the bill.

Trying in vain to head off the favorable report which sends the measure back to the Senate, two committee members warned that its passage would bring hundreds of "left-wing beatniks" into the state to test the law.

Said Sen. L. D. Bentley of Blunt County: "You're going to have them converging on Alabama just for the sake of creating a disturbance."

THE BILL WOULD prohibit institutions of higher learning in Alabama which receive state funds from knowingly inviting Communists to speak.

Sabotage In Soap

HOT COMPETITION is in another field altogether from the "hot fringes" of the cold war. But last week's news came up with a case of "industrial sabotage" on the toothpaste promotion front.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Leonard Theberge said Eugene A. Mayfield, formerly a $12,000 a year junior executive for the Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., offered to sell the 188 page "Crest" toothpaste budget and promotion program for 1965 to Colgate Palmolive for $20,000.

The document was worth $1 million to a competitor, the government said.

Siberia: New Towns, Industries And Careers

By HENRY BRADSHER

IN SIBERIA (AP) — The old man sat down on a rock pulled out a can of tobacco and a piece of newspaper and with deliberate care rolled himself a cigarette.

His wife stopped planting potatoes in the dry, rocky little field sloping down to a reservoir on the Angara River near Lake Baykal. She just stood there, solidly and smilingly with the Russian peasant's natural good humor, as her husband talked with visitors.

The old man lit the cigarette and said he hoped to earn a little from the potatoes.

"It's not my land, of course. "Don't think it's anybody's here by the river. So I paid a man with a tractor to plow it for me.

"The piece of land I have in the village is too small, what with the house on it and the out house and all." He motioned toward a sawmill village of unpainted log houses sprawling off toward the pine forest.

"Maybe with the money I earn from these potatoes I can buy a little pig. We'll have meat. There hasn't been much meat here the last couple of years."

The man said he was 59 years old, although he looked older.

"I came to Siberia in 1937 from the Ukraine because there were too many people there and a man could earn more money here," he said.

And his wife? She smiled broadly. "Me, too, I came with him."

They had one child then. Now they have eight, with three in the village and the others married and gone away.

"I worked getting logs down the river to Irkutsk when I first came here," the man said. "But when the war started they needed other skills so I became a shoemaker.

"So I didn't have enough time as a lumberjack to get a pension at 55," the age for men who have done enough manual labor.

"I have to wait until I'm 60, next year.

"Now I'm working as a watchman at the lumber mill. It only pays 40 rubles $44.44 a month, but it's all I can do. The pension will be 40 rubles and maybe I can keep the job and have 80 rubles a month then."

The highest civilian honor in the Soviet Union is the Order of Lenin. For most, it comes as a reward for a lifetime of labor for communism.

A year earlier, in 1962, he became the manager of the Nakhodka commercial port. This beautiful harbor on the Sea of Japan, 55 miles east of Vladivostok, has in recent years become the most important foreign trade center in the Soviet Far East.

AN OLD MAN and his wife pause in their potato planting labors on the shore of a reservoir on the Angara River near Lake Baykal in Siberia. No one owns the land by the river, the old man said, so he and his wife have taken over a plot to plant potatoes in hopes that they will earn enough from their sale to buy a pig. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

Ostrovsky, father of an 8-year-old son and a 4-year-old daughter, is an example of the talented young technician who is playing a large role in pushing this country forward economically. Typically, he is a dutiful member of the Communist party, perhaps primarily because membership is usually a qualification for a top job.

Ostrovsky is a lean, tall man, laughs easily, speaks a little English and has been to see how they run ports in Western Europe and Japan.

"I grew up in Tambov (in European Russia) and kept reading and thinking about the sea. Romantic, I guess. But the sea has not yet come to Tambov so I went away to find it."

He attended the Odessa Institute of Marine Engineers after choosing a life of port management instead of actually sailing the sea. "I came here to Nakhodka as a yellow-mouthed bird child just like any other student," Ostrovsky said, using a common Russian phrase.

At first he worked as port dispatcher while Nakhodka was being built from a fishing port into a modern complex that last year handled four million metric tons of cargo. Then he became the manager's assistant in charge of production.

In early 1962 the manager was transferred to the Marine Ministry in Moscow. "I got his job, but he's still my boss from there," Ostrovsky says.

The selection of men for such jobs is made by the Communist party— which Ostrovsky joined in 1956 — and then put through ministerial channels. Ostrovsky has a record of steady progress up through party organizations.

Ostrovsky estimates that he spends only an hour or so a week on strictly party work but adds that everything he does is for the party.

He also collects stamps. But keeping ships moving smoothly takes most of his time.

"I haven't thought much about the continuation of my career," Ostrovsky says. "it was already a great deal to be a port chief at the age of 32, so I should not be in too much of a hurry.

"Nakhodka grew as I watched it, and so far nothing is pulling me away. It has a good climate, a good environment.

"My wife thinks the same, and I always consult her. I'm a very obedient husband," Ostrovsky adds with a smile.

"How can the Soviet Union surpass the United States if we don't have greater economy of labor?"

Sitting in his simple office in a temporary building in Bratsk near the world's largest hydroelectric power station now in operation, Konstantin Knyazev reeled off American electricity production figures.

Knyazev is an example of a new breed in the Soviet Union: the professional who studies the economy of the United States as a standard for judging his own work.

"I don't have the 1964 figures yet, but in 1963 the United States produced two and a half times more electricity than we did," said the chief engineer of the Bratsk power station. "To be exact, we produced 39 per cent as much.

"The difference was mostly in thermal power. We think we are far ahead in hydro power, and we've only touched our resources.

He said that the American total potential from water power was just over 500 billion, about one-sixth the soviet possibilities.

"I've been studying the economics of Grand Coulee, the biggest U.S. power plant. Its capacity is 1,974,000 kilowatts. Here we'll have 4.5 million soon and then we'll raise it to 5 million."

The Bratsk dam began producing electricity in the wilderness north of Siberia's Lake Baykal in November 1961. "Last year we produced more power than Grand Coulee—12.6 billion kilowatts here—and we'll reach 22.9 billion as soon as the reservoir fills, in 1970.

"Our operating expenses are twice as much," even with average wages of 204 rubles ($227) a month. "But we expect to overtake Grand Coulee this year in expenses per kilowatt hour and be cheaper than them next year.

"This is the kind of competition we need, in developing our resources."

"We have such great resources in the Soviet Union, we don't need any more. We don't have any desire to conquer anyone."

Knyazev is a member of the Communist party's local committee and of the party-selected Bratsk City Council. He spoke like a good party member in claiming the Soviet Union has shown great patience over Viet Nam.

But his main interest is electricity. Before coming to Bratsk, he ran the hydroelectric power station at Novosibirsk, also in Siberia.

"I came to Siberia when I was one year old. My father had been involved in student strikes in Kazan University, and the tsarist government would not allow him to stay in European Russia.

"His friends cried when they saw him off for Siberia, they thought it was such an awful place. But my parents found this a wealthy area. I love Siberia."

Knyazev, 55, has a married daughter working as a construction design engineer in the new Bratsk town built in the wilderness where the dam's electricity is drawing industry. Two other daughters are in school here.

He earns 550 rubles ($611) a month, lives in a small two-story house owned by the government and has a government car at his disposal. Like many Russians, Knyazev reads some American literature, especially enjoying Jack London's tales of the Klondike.

But the American literature he enjoys the most, in a blend of business with hobby, are translations of technical reports on the electrical generation industry in the United States.

When he came to work at 9 o'clock one recent Monday morning, mayor Yuri Viktorovich Domnin of Khabarovsk went right into a meeting with a group of citizens about construction of a new musical theater.

The city's Executive Council which Domnin heads had allocated a piece of land for the theater in its master plan for the growth of Khabarovsk. This economic center for the Soviet Far East now has 410,000 persons and is expected to grow to 550,000 by 1980.

Cultural officials agreed, but then they found a better place — where we plan to build a circus," Domnin related later. "On Saturday we drove around town and found a third place."

The Monday meeting was to coordinate views on the third place, the mayor explained as he sat at his massive old desk of carved black wood with a green felt top.

His job sounded like a lot of other mayors' jobs in other parts of the world, except for the substitution of Communist party power for competitive politics.

"Then a worker of the Pedagogical Institute came to see me. He wanted a different apartment." In the Soviet Union housing is owned and assigned by the government.

"His children had grown up and he wanted to trade apartments, to get one closer to his work. I told him it would be considered but I couldn't give a definite answer because no such possibility exists now."

The mayor then went to a meeting of a city district committee to discuss the land for the musical theater in that district. "We argued and argued and finally we came to a decision and adopted it." It was the third place.

Domnin said the five district committees often argue over which district is to get a new project like the concert hall. "Sometimes the arguments get so strong that I don't know where to seat representatives of the districts at a meeting."

The mayor explained that decisions follow lengthy study of problems. The Communist party, which makes the basic decisions in the Soviet Union, is represented.

"The fact that I am a party member testifies to the fact that the party participates in making decisions," the mayor said.

"Executive Council decisions never run contrary to trends of the party. The council adopts decisions aimed to help fulfill the party's tasks."

After still another meeting with still another group on still another problem he went home to lunch. He often eats elsewhere but his daughter had asked him to come home because it was a school holiday, the mayor explained.

A 41-year-old construction engineer, Domnin was elected by the Executive Council as mayor last March for a two-year term. There was no other candidate.

After lunch the mayor talked with two foreign correspondents. Then he had a 5 p.m. appointment. "Comrade workers of culture are coming. I don't know why they want to see me."

When would his day end?

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — For James Jarrell Pickle, "All the way with LBJ" is more than a catchy political slogan. It's closer to a way of life.

Once a Capitol Hill policeman through Lyndon Johnson's influence, Jake Pickle now is congressman from the President's home district in central Texas. He is being talked about as a potential Senate candidate, although he disclaims any such ambitions.

For nearly three decades, Pickle, 52, and Johnson, 56, have been personal and political friends. These close ties have had a lot to do with Pickle's steady ascendancy in Texas politics. These plus his native ability and hard-to-forget name.

As the President's congressman — and occupant of the House seat Johnson held for 11 years — Pickle commands close attention from Capitol colleagues. They sound him out on presidential thinking and watch his voting record with more than usual interest.

Actually, Pickle has not been a rubber stamp for Johnson — although he tries to go along with the "Great Society" blueprint despite some conservative misgivings.

Pickle probably spends more time in private sessions with Johnson than any of the 22 other House members from Texas. When the President commutes by jet to his Texas ranch, Pickle often is aboard as a guest.

Pickle, a political professional, goes out of his way to dispel any notion that he is Johnson's man in the House.

"I don't think of myself as the President's congressman," he says. "I prefer to think of him as my constituent."

Pickle is a husky, heavy - set man, medium tall, with dark but graying hair. When he smiles, which is often, his tooth fillings show.

The Pickle name is getting ever-wider notice as more people become aware of his link with the White House. He doesn't discourage jokes about the name. His campaign emblem is a green plastic lapel pin shaped like a pickle and emblazoned with the name Jake, and he credits his name with making him known quickly in campaigns.

The Pickle name has provided some laughs in Congress. Last year there was much merriment when Pickle joined Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., in sponsoring the "Pepper-Pickle bill" — legislation that would permit widows to remarry without surrendering their Social Security benefits as survivors.

Although friends do not think of Pickle as deeply committed to any political ideology, except the Democratic party, Pickle says, "I am by nature rather conservative."

Yet he was one of only six congressmen from Southern states to vote for House passage of the 1964 civil rights law — a measure not exceedingly popular in his district.

After that vote, Johnson awakened Pickle with a 1 a.m. phone call to offer congratulations plus a confession that he, Johnson, might have voted "nay" had he been in Pickle's shoes. In fact, the President did vote "nay" on civil rights when he represented the district.

Pickle was sworn in at 7:15 a.m. on Christmas Eve of 1963, taking over the House seat of the 10th district of Texas from Homer Thornberry. He was elevated to a federal judgeship. Thornberry had succeeded LBJ in the job.

Like most congressional newcomers, Pickle was eager upon arrival to meet Washington's movers and shakers. At his first formal social event, a reception at the Finnish embassy, he approached the most distinguished-looking man in the crowd and announced:

"I'm Jake Pickle, congressman from Austin, Texas. Who are you?"

"My name is Pierre," said the other man, "and I am your waiter. What would you like to drink?"

Pickle was guilty of another slip-up the day he arrived. He was driven to the Capitol by Rep. Frank Ikard, D-Tex., who asked what he thought of the Sam Rayburn Office Building they were passing.

"It doesn't look so hot to me," Pickle responded.

"I believe," said Ikard, "that marble is from the 10th District of Texas."

"You know," said Jake, "the closer you get, the prettier it looks."

Incidentally, Pickle collects political anecdotes as a hobby. He wants to put them in a book one day.

Other amusements: he is a self-taught piantist and harmonica player, practicing both arts occasionally at political gatherings. On Sunday mornings, Methodist Pickle often bangs out familiar hymns on the family piano for his attractive brunette wife Beryl and their three children.

The story of Pickle's political rise tells much about Johnson's own political success. Johnson, early in his career, captured the loyalty of a group of promising young Texans like Pickle and, by helping them to success, helped himself.

Like most members of this select group of LBJ proteges, Pickle was a poor boy — one of five children of a newspaper publisher and corner grocer who went broke in the depression of the 1930s.

Raised in Big Spring, in West Texas, Pickle entered the University of Texas in 1932 with total resources of $60. Taking a bare room in what was known as the "Poor Boy's Dorm," Pickle financed most of his education by peddling milk, collecting laundry and dry cleaning, and working as a student janitor.

Membership in the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity brought him into close association with John Connally, now governor of Texas and still a very close friend. It was Connally who introduced Pickle to Lyndon Johnson in 1937, the year Johnson went to Congress.

PRESIDENT LYNDON B. Johnson whispers into the ear of his longtime friend Rep. James J. Pickle. Pickle has been a staunch backer of LBJ for almost 30 years. He now probably spends more time in private sessions with the president than any of the other 22 House members from Texas, something that commands the attention of capitol hill colleagues who sound him out on presidential thinking. Common Mart Crisis Nears

BRUSSELS, Belguim (AP) — Europe's Common Market is moving toward a crisis at the end of this year. Charles de Gaulle's current boycott is only a symptom.

European Common Market officials and the ministers of the six member nations — France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg — have packed up for a long summer vacation.

While lingering on sunny beaches they will wonder what France's president will do about the market's future when he speaks at a news conference Sept. 9.

Speculation differs as to what methods De Gaulle will use in seeking to stave off growing European integration or even undo some of the power of the top leaders of the Common Market.

The issue is called supranationalism — meaning creation of new power to be exercised by political leaders not belonging to any national government. De Gaulle is its chief opponent.

Guide To Good Reading

1,109 New Books Now In Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

During the month of July a total of 1,109 new books were added to the book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. During the month 125 books were removed. This leaves us with a book collection of 103,860 volumes which is above the minimum standard. With the increase in books our circulation continues to climb. In the month of July we loaned to the people of the Parish a total of 68,375 books. New books added in the past week will appeal to a variety of readers. "Wanderers Eastward, Wanderers West" is the title of Kathleen Windsor's new book, which promises to be in great demand, especially with those who remember her "Forever Amber." The new title is set in the Montana Territory and offers a variety of characters, events and excellent description. An exciting novel of international intrigue is "The Looking Glass War" written by John le Carre, the author of "The Spy Who Came In From The Cold." This is a book which will be in great demand.

A very fine collection of short stories is "Tales of Cibola" by Ramon Jose Sender. The nine stories are laid in the American Southwest where the fabled cities of Cibola were once believed to be. With rare perception he conveys the aura of the country where Spanish, Indian and North American settlers mingle. "An End To Patience" by Mary Durant is a light, but interesting novel with the locale in a village in the foothills of the Berkshires. It concerns the adventures of a teacher in a boys school and the local little theatre movement. "A Scorpion On A Stone" by Gwyn Griffin is a collection of short stories with the setting in South Africa. They are well written and will appeal to the serious reader. For mystery addicts there are three new titles; "A Hive of Glass" by Philip M. Hubbard, "Police Blotter" by Robert L. Pike and "Shadow of a Man" by Doris Miles Disney.

Books of non-fiction offer a variety of material to interest all types of readers. "Ghosts I've Met" by Hans Holzer will interest those who like to read about the supernatural. "The Compassionate Christ" by Walter Russell Bowie is a good commentary on the book of Luke. "The Better Half" by Andrew Sinclair is an account of the emancipation of woman. His many friends in this area will be interested in "Latin American Mission" based on the work of the late DeLesseps Morrison. "Ornamental Trees for Home Grounds" by Harold O. Perkins will be of interest to gardeners. A useful book for campers is "Getting Out of Outdoor Trouble" written by William K. Merrill. Businessmen will find "Scientific Management" by Frederick W. Taylor a mose useful book.

The "Peanuts" books have a wide audience. The latest one is "The Gospel According to Peanuts" and it will be in demand. For those planning a trip aboard, there are two new books of interest; "Aboard and Abroad," the 1965 edition, by Harvey S. Olson and "All the Best in Switzerland" by Sydney A. Clark. "Barbarossa" by Alan Clark is an account of the Russian German Conflict, 1938-1945. A very well-written and interesting account of the presidential campaign of last year is "The Making of the President-1964" by Theodore H. White. "The Holocaust Kingdom" by Alexander Donat is a vivid account of life in the prison camps of World War II. Kenneth S. Davis is the author of "Experience of War; The United States in World War II". Carleton Beals has presented a different picture of the Civil War in "War Within A War" in which he portrays all of the internal struggles of the Confederacy. "Great American Cattle Trails" by Harry Sinclair Drago is required reading for all who enjoy books about the West.

There are several new biographies this week; "Pauline" by Pierson Dixon is the account of the life of Pauline Borghese, the favorite sister of Napoleon. "The Divorce" by Marvin H. Albert is another retelling of the career of Henry XVIII. "The Last Grand Duchess" by Ian Vorres is an interesting picture of the life of Grand Duchess Olga. "Stagestruck" by Maurice Zolotow is a story of the adventurous careers of Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontaine.

One of the most popular sections at the Main Library is that devoted to genealogy and there are a number of new books in this section. "Chronicles of the Scotch-Irish Settlement in Virginia" is a three volume set by Lyman Chalkley. It has just been brought back in print and will be valuable to everyone whose ancestors came from Augusta County. Kathleen Williams has compiled a record of marriages in "Louisa County, Va. for the Period From 1766 to 1815." "Virginia Frontier" by Frederick Kegley contains a wealth of information about early days in Virginia. "Early records of Hancock County, Georgia" is a book containing a vast amount of information.

The Printed Volumes of the 1790 Census of the United States are extremely valuable to genealogists, for they contain information about the heads of families in that year. They have long been out of print, but have recently been reprinted and the Ouachita Parish Public Library has acquired all of the volumes which we did not have. The new ones are those for Maine, New York, New Hampshire, Maryland, Rhode Island, Vermont and Connecticut. This gives us a complete set of the 1790 Census volumes. All of the genealogy books and many of the other lovely books were given to the Library as memorials and we wish to urge even more of you to remember departed friends in this manner.

Dotty Doctor Is Subject Of British Farce

THE SUMMER OF SIR LANCELOT. By Richard Gordon. Doubleday. $3.95.

The hero of this lively British farce is Sir Lancelot Spratt, a highly individualistic surgeon who has retired at an early age to savor the joys of trout fishing in Wales. But he doesn't stay retired very steadily.

Sir Lancelot is the sort of British eccentric to be found in many novels of one P.G. W — — —, the best known inventor of this brand of nonsense. And our hero slightly resembles a tart-tongued character of the American stage, some years back, Sheridan Whiteside, who had a tendency to make apopletic remarks about his fellow humans.

It seems that Sir Lancelot has some problems over his pretty niece Euphemia, who is being courted by a young doctor who does not inspire uncle's favor. There also is a great dither about staff politics over the appointment of Sir Lancelot's successor, at St. Swithin's Hospital. Not to mention our hero's slipped disc and a feud with a new neighbor.

The author, a qualified physician himself, quips lightly about medical matters, but his main forte is the sort of madcap buffoonery that springs from the British sense of the ridiculous. It's all quite pleasantly dotty.

Spy Thriller Spiked With Comic Flavor

MAY YOU DIE IN IRELAND. By Michael Kenyon. Morrow. $3.95.

These days, espionage novels come in more flavors than ice cream. This one has plenty of mayhem and trickery, but its main flavor is comic.

Its hero, Dr. William Foley, is an asthmatic, paunchy professor of mathematics in Chicago, who wouldn't know a secret agent if one asked him for a match, chum.

Foley gets word that he has inherited a castle in Ireland. His trip over there is arranged by a travel agency that happens to be a front for a spy operation. Innocent Foley doesn't know that his folder carries a microdot message for a bunch of bad guys, and the moment his plane lands in the Emerald Isle he is plunged into a hubbub about a secret formula developed in an Irish marine biology station.

Changes Revealed In Autobiography

PART OF THE TRUTH. By Granville Hicks. Harcourt, Brace. $5.95.

Hicks has made his way in the world as a man of books, and it is no small way.

He has been a scholar, an editor, a reader of manuscripts, an essayist, a novelist (one sold well), a teacher, and in later years a prominent critic.

But more significantly, he has been — from young sprout to elderly observer— a seeker, of restless truths.

After reading his autobiography, one might well speculate about his many changes. One came when he was a young graduate student. He was studying for the ministry, but dropped out for lack of belief. A major one came in the 1930s, when as a young intellectual he became a fellow traveller and finally a Communist; but he quit the party at the time of the Stalin-Hitler pact.

His story is uneven, but the whole of it is told in less than fortissimo style. Apparently determined to be as objective as possible, Hicks never seems to raise his voice. He refrains from breast-beating in describing his disillusionment with Communism, and gives that period of his life no more emphasis that his neighborly feuds in Grafton, N.Y., over the school board, the library and the fire company.

Hicks' review of his life is a curious combination of his associations with countless intellectuals and literati, contrasted with the minutiae of family trips and family ailments. He presents a calm chronological account of the changes in his beliefs and attitudes, but he does not make clear where those changes finally have led him.

Main Setting For Sampling Of Sly Humor

YOU SHOULD START SOONER. By John Gould. Little, Brown. $4.50.

On those occasions when the residents of Maine manage to overcome their congenital taciturnity, they are noted for their skill in creating dry drolleries in the space of a few words.

It is a collection of 50 "Dispatches from the Farm," contributed as a weekly column in the Christian Science Monitor by Maine farmer Gould.

He doesn't give you a hard sell. His humor is soft and sly, and low - pressure, but all the more satisfying for that.

Sometimes his topic is bucolic and nostaligic at the same time, as when he is ruminating upon the character - building virtues of sheep - catching, or driving the cows home. He relates how he mastered a contrary cat, but was defeated by a contrary chain - saw. He is proud of having concealed from his dog the news that dog biscuits now come in six delicious flavors.

Some of his best taunts are aimed at modern progress. He bares the case of a grocery wholesaler's computing machine that was used to predict perfectly the outcome of a yacht race.

Book Depicts Artistic Life Of Yesterday

YESTERDAY IS TOMORROW. By Malvina Hoffman. Crown, $7.50.

There is a cultural yesterday in Miss Hoffman's autobiography. The book is crammed with names, scenes, incidents and interpretations of the artistic life, mainly in the first half of this century.

It is yesterday's story because the author really is an artist in the 19th century tradition, untouched by modernity. Born in 1885 and a sculptor nearly all her life, she made her main mark as a disciple of Rodin.

Few creative artists have been in touch with so many developments in art, music, opera and the dance. Few have had so many associations with the famous names of recent times — whether they were fellow adventurers in the visual and performing arts, or the prominent individuals whose likenesses she created.

Boarding House Life Recorded

The Boarding House, by William Trevor (Viking, $3.95): The story of a few weeks in the lives of a group of people living in a boarding house in a London suburb. They have been handpicked by Mr. Bird, the owner, each for his apparent individual need, as lonely people to whom Mr. Bird feels he can give comfort and from whom he receives comfort in turn. His boarders live negative lives, having either sad or questionable hobbies or earning a livelihood in fruitless occupations.

Trevor is a capable, writer, but the unrelieved atmosphere of sadness in which his people exist makes for somewhat depressing reading.

MR. CARLTON HILLMAN, of The WOMAN'S SHOP SHOE Department, N. 18th and Roselawn, is seen assisting Miss Melinda Mabray and Miss Janet Vanderpool in selecting their shoes for the coming season. Among the favorites to select from is a wide collection of Olmaine Trotters.

Could you fix 1,500,000 breakfasts every morning?

It's a big order, and the Mexican government serves it up—and free, too—to 1,500,000 school children every morning. That's one of the things that makes real public education possible in this land where half the population is under 18. In five years alone, the number of students has increased by 50%.

A terrific challenge for any country—but Mexico is meeting it with an educational "11-year plan." Free breakfasts for a million and a half children are part of it. (Donations from private citizens and business firms help the government provide a nutritious meal.) Building thousands of new schools is part of it. Free textbooks are in the plan, too—last year 38 million rolled off the presses and into the hands of the young.

It's a big investment, too. The dividends will start to come in when today's students are tomorrow's adults, working for and sharing in Mexico's dynamic "Mañana."

British Protest Berlin Shooting

BERLIN (UPI)—The British protested to the Russians Saturday against a shot fired on the border at a West Berlin customs policeman by a Communist border guard. The shot missed.

Peter Hayman, acting British commandant, in a note to the chief of staff of the Soviet occupation army in Germany called the shooting an "outrageous action."

He demanded punishment of the East German soldier.

The border guard fired a shot from his sub-machine gun from cover at a distance of about 25 yards because he believed the Western customs policeman was standing in East Berlin territory. The bullet missed the policeman's head by about three to six feet.

'I Had A Fair Fatherland'

The dark and beautiful Main flows through forests and by picture card villages on its way to the Rhine and the sea. Once, there were no villages, only tiny settlements. Because the Main was very deep and moved with no little speed, it was possible to cross only at a ford. Some miles above the spot where the two rivers came together, there was such a shallows. The air was clear, and in summer the sunlight would creep through the high branches of the dark evergreens, and there were forest people who roamed the pine scented woods.

In time, the ford became a gathering place for travelers and passing merchants. A village appeared on the western bank. Later, armies moved across the Main at the ford. The forest people, who became the Franks, moved from beneath their dark conifers, and crossed the Rhine. In Gaul, they founded a mighty empire and renamed a land. At the ford of the Franks on the Main, the small village became a great and stately center.

VERY BEAUTIFUL

and very beautiful flows and very veautiful, flows silently by the magnificent new city which is Frankfurt. Along the river, on both of its banks, are immaculate parks. Flowers are in great abundance, and the trees grow in orderly fashion almost as if told to do so. River commerce is brisk, and heavily laden barges move down the channel and break the silence of the water with their horns. Somewhere, a church clock strikes the hour, and in the distance a streetcar trundles across one of the bridges.

Frankfurt is an ancient new city. In the not to distant past, it endured severe times and great tragedy. In the late thirties and early forties of the present century, its great factories poured a stream of lifeblood into the fighting machine of a busy, warbound Fuhrer. Because of its location and great importance as a rail and manufacturing center and the reputation of its hard working people, the city was a major target for allied bombers which came in the nights and days. When the Fuhrer finally brought his land to a flaming, crashing Wagnerian end, the city at the ford of the Franks was a tragic, burned out, and silent wasteland. As far as the eye could see, there was only rubble.

"One thing about Frankfurt," the American businessman said with awe, "you can't sleep after seven in the morning. There's too much noise. The people are all working and the streets are filled with cars and bicycles." The wasteland of 20 years ago is once again a beautiful alive city, and everybody is busy. Everywhere one looks, there is new construction with miles of new houses and impressive buildings.

The city is spotlessly clean, and in the window of the houses and buildings are boxes filled with myriads of many colored flowers. Streets bustle with traffic, and even the famous Frankfurt police are sometimes at a loss to bring order out of chaos.

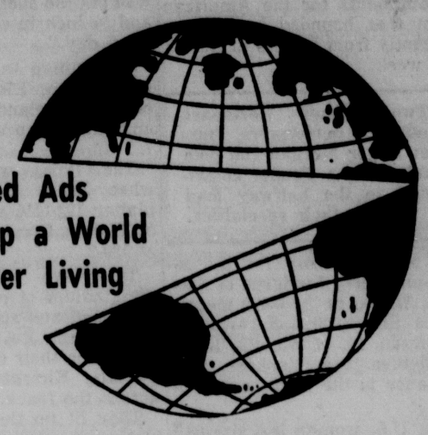

There are only a few scars of the terrible saturation bombing, and if some of the people think of the hard days, they don't talk about them. Today is good, and tomorrow is surely going to be better. Never was this spirit more pronounced than at Maicr Gustl's Bavarian Bierbetriebe. At Gustl's, there is a real gemutlichkeit in the old manner, and delighted patrons quaff Bavarian beer while an enthusiastic little musette band plays the favorites. Diners enjoy roast ox and dumplings. The place is an immediate favorite of any American who walks through the door.

At the sedate and gracious Frankfurter Hof, wealthy German businessmen savor fine wines amidst sumptuous surroundings while an orchestra plays waltzes.

At night is a good time. The city glows and sparkles with a million lights and the tram tracks are as sterling ribbons on the dark surface of the street. There is music, and the bratwurst houses do a booming business as fat sausages pop and brown behind busy counters.

U.S. Bounces Back To Lead Polish

Two Former Indian Standouts Victors

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Irena Kirszenstein, a 19-year-old Warsaw University student, burst past America's Wyomia Tyus at the wire in the women's 100-meter dream race Saturday but the United States men's team bounded back for a 60-45 lead over Poland at the halfway point of their two-day track and field meet.

The Polish women led 33-28.

The long-striding Miss Kirszenstein, co-holder with Miss Tyus and teammate Ewa Klobukowska of the pending world record of 11.1, also spearheaded a repeat triumph of the Polish women in the 400-meter relay. The Poles had beaten the U.S. girls in the Tokyo Olympics in world record time.

An upset victory for the Polish men's 400-meter relay quartet over the injury-riddled American sprinters and the breakdown of Ollan Cassell, the top U.S. quartermiler, in his 400-meter duel with Olympic bronze medalist Andrzej Badenski provided the only other disappointments for the American team that bounded back magnificently from its loss to Russia last week.

A plucky victory for the 19-year-old Gerry Lindgren of Spokane, Wash., in the 5,000 meters and a fine 1,500 meter run by Jim Ryan, 19, of Wichita, Kan., highlighted the Yankees performance in the men's competition.

The U.S. women got strength from unexpected quarters and go into Sunday's final events trailing their favored Polish rivals by only five points.

RaNae Bair, a rangy 21-year-old from San Diego, Calif., heaved the javelin 184-11½ for an American record. Janell Smith, a pretty 18-year-old strider from Fredonia, Kan., won the 400 meters in 53.7, the fastest ever run by an American girl.

Boosting America's point total in the men's competition were Roger Morgan, Monroe, La., George Anderson of Baton Rouge, La., who won the 100 meters in 10.3; John Pennel of Miami, bounding back in the pole vault with 16-5; Ralph Boston of Nashville, Tenn., winner of the broad jump at 26-7¾ and Randy Matson of Pampa, Tex., who put the shot a casual 66 feet and ¼ inch in what he called a "bad day."

In addition to Miss Bair and Miss Smith, Eleanor Montgomery of Cleveland won the women's high jump with a leap of 5-7.

The Poles won the discus when Zenon Begier spun the platter 192-11½ with Dave Weill of Walnut Creek, Calif., second at 190-2.

Thirty-five thousand packed the stadium ot overflowing and screamed and applauded almost every event. But the Poles went wild when their darling, the leggy Miss Kirszenstein, streaked across the track.

The women's 100-meter race was a thriller although run in the comparatively slow time of 11.4.

Miss Tyus, slow at the break, shot to the front at the 50-meter mark but Miss Kirszenstein forged to the front just before the tape. Miss Tyus was clocked in 11.5, with Miss Klobukowska and Diana Wilson of Los Angeles trailing.

It was a tremendous third leg by Miss Kirszenstein that gave the Polish girls their repeat triumph in the relay.

She was about seven yards back when she got the baton but she shot ahead and gave the blonde Miss Klobukowska a three-yard edge. Miss Tyus, running anchor, couldn't catch her.

The Americans had to use a makeshift men's relay team, made up of Don Owens of Los Angeles, Jim Hines of Oakland, Calif., Adolph Plummer of Los Angeles and Anderson. The Poles, anchored by Marian Dudziak, won in 39.2, equalling the European record. The Yanks were clocked in 39.5.

Morgan and Blaine Lindgren of Torrance, Calif., gave the Americans a one-two finish in the men's 110-meter hurdles. Morgan won in 13.8.

The two 19-year-olds, Lindgren and Ryun, proved to be the day's American stars.

The scrawny Lindgren, running out of his 10,000-meter specialty, waged a shoulder-to-shoulder fight with Poland's Lech Boguszewicz over the last two laps and won in 13:45.4. The Pole was two steps behind in 13:46.6.

Ryun staged a stirring finishing kick to take the metric mile in 3:49.9, beating Poland's Witold Baran.

Dodgers Score 4 In First, Trip Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Four consecutive walks by Cincinnati's Sammy Ellis plus Don LeJohn's two-run single highlighted a four-run first inning that triggered the National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-3 triumph over the Reds Saturday night.

Maury Wills started the game with an infield single but was out trying to steal second. Ellis, seeking his 15th victory, then walked Wes Parker, Jim Lefebvre, Ron Fairly and Lou Johnson for one run. LeJohn singled to center field, driving in Lefebvre and Fairly.

Howie Reed, making only his second start of the season, stopped the Reds on six hits through seven innings. Ron Perranoski finished up.

Vada Pinson hit his 16th homer for the Reds in the first inning, and Gordy Coleman got his 11th in the third. Cincinnati also scored in the second on doubles by Art Shamsky and Leo Cardenas.

McBean Cools Phils' Threat, Pirates Win

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Relief ace Al McBean thwarted a bases-loaded, none-out threat in the fifth inning and blanked Philadelphia the rest of the way, as the Pittsburgh Pirates edged the Phillies 4-3 Saturday.

After the Pirates broke a 3-3 tie in the fourth, with Andre Rodgers scoring the go-ahead run on pitcher Vernon Law's double play grounder, the Phillies routed Law in the fifth.

Rich Allen led off with a double and took third on Dick Stuart's single off Rodgers' glove. Frank Carpin relieved Law and walked pinch hitter Alex Johnson.

McBean then came on and got Wes Covington and Bobby Wine to tap into successive force plays at the plate before retiring Pat Corrales, ending the Phils' bid.

Ed Bailey's two-run homer and a solo shot by Roberto Clemente gave the Pirates a 3-1 lead in the third but the Phillies tied it in their half on successive homers by Johnny Callison and Allen.

Racer Is Killed When Wheel Lost

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A San Jose, Calif. race driver was killed Saturday when his sports car lost a wheel and flipped over during the National Championship Road Race at Candlestick Park.

He was Ken O'Neill Jr., 26. His Merlin Climax plunged over a guard rail after the wheel came off. His wife, Sharon, was in the pits when the accident occurred.

A's Pull Rally In Seventh To Take Win, 7-4

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jim Landis cracked a three-run homer in the seventh inning, capping a six-run rally that carried Kansas City to a 7-4 victory over Baltimore Saturday night.

The loss dropped the second-place Orioles 7½ games behind American League-leading Minnesota, giving the Twins their biggest lead of the season.

Trailing 2-1, the Athletics got started in the seventh with a leadoff walk to Dick Green. Singles by Ed Charles, Tom Reynolds, Rene Lachemann and Jose Tartabull brought in three runs. Then Landis, who drove in a run with a sacrifice fly in the first, unloaded his homer off reliever Dick Hall.

The Orioles, who scored twice in the second on Dick Brown's double, came back for two more in the eighth on Brooks Robinson's single and a sacrifice fly by Paul Blair.

After giving up the first-inning run, Baltimore starter Steve Barber allowed only one hit until the Athletics exploded in the seventh. Barber suffered his eighth defeat in 18 decisions.

Kelso Takes Win By Nose During Whitney Stakes

The 8-year-old gelding owned by Mrs. Richard C. duPont picked up $35,360 for his third Whitney triumph and pushed his record earnings still closer to the $2 million mark, at $1,954,144.

Kelso, beaten by Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Pia Star in the Brooklyn two weeks ago, ran a near-perfect race under regular jockey Milo Valenzuela, making up four lengths in his drive from fourth that swept past Pia Star and just caught the front-running Malicious at the wire.

Kelso, the even money favorite and top-weighted at 130 pounds, returned $4.40, $3 and $2.20. Malicious, who cut out most of the pace but couldn't fight off Kelso's driving finish, returned $4.20 and $2.20.

Pia Star, who had an three-pound advantage at 127, faded after making a bid on the turn and finished third, paying $2.20.

Amateur League Starts Downhill With Full Slate

Monroe's American Legion Amateur League starts on the downhill side this week with a full slate of action as the season draws near a close.

Thursday, Aug. 19, the regular season will conclude after a contest between Piggly Wiggly and Ouachita Bank.

Semifinals will be held Aug. 21-23 and finals will be played on the 25th through the 27th.

League officials are considering a possible game between Monroe's Dixie Senior team and either an Amateur League all-star squad, or the league champion.

A game scheduled for Aug. 17, has been called off and will be moved to the following day because of a wrestling match.

Today — Falstaff vs. Pepsi Cola; Monday — Pepsi Cola vs. Falstaff; Tuesday — KTVE vs. Ouachita Bank; Wednesday — Pepsi Cola vs. Falstaff; Thursday — Falstaff vs. Rack Service; Friday — Rivers Ford vs. Piggly Wiggly; Saturday — Motor Supply vs. Pepsi Cola; Sunday — Rack Service vs. Rivers Ford.

Tournament Set In Delhi, Tallulah

Delhi meets Oak Grove at 6:30 p.m. and Tallulah goes against the league's fourth place team. A playoff game between Robinson and Lake Providence was held last night to determine the spot in the standings.

Games will alternate each night between Tallulah and Delhi and in the event of a rain out, the schedule will be delayed one day.

JACK NICKLAUS, right, grimmaces and clenches a fist as he urges a 14-foot putt to drop for an eagle three on the 5th hole in Saturday's third round of the Philadelphia Golf Classic at Whitemarsh Country Club. Tony Lema, left, practices the same technique as Nicklaus as he urges his 40 - foot putt towards the cup for a possible eagle on the 17th green. The ball rimmed the cup and Lema had to settle for a birdie. Champagne Tony shot a five under par for a two stroke lead after 54 holes with a 207 — nine under par for 72 holes of competition. Tony Lema Shoots 67, Takes One Stroke Lead

WHITEMARSH, Pa. (AP) — Champagne Tony Lema, recovered from an aching back and dosed with pills for an ailing shoulder, shot a five-under-par 67 Saturday and grabbed a one-stroke lead after 54 holes in the $125,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic.

The 31 - year - old Lema emerged the leader with a 207—nine under par—after three rounds of the 72 hole competition in a see-saw battle with the veteran Doug Sanders, Masters Champion Jack Nicklaus, and rookie Dick Sikes.

Sanders, who by his own admission was leary of even qualifying until he caught fire on the back nine Friday, scored a 35-32—67 for a total of 208, and a tie with Sikes, leader of the first two rounds.

Nicklaus, the big, blond Masters champion, had a 35 going out but fell apart on the homecoming nine, finishing with a 73 and 209, putting him alone in fourth place. Randy Glover of Florence, S.C., and Joe Campbell each had a 210. Seven others, including U. S. Open champion Gary Player, were grouped at 212.

Lema, insisting he was not playing as well as he was scoring, carded six birdies, canning putts of 6 and 12 feet on the first and second holes, reaching the green in two and two putting for a bird on the par five fifth, notching a 10-footer on 10, a 6-footer on 16, and cutting a stroke off par on the 17th.

Sanders punctuated his fine round with an eagle three on the 515-yard 17th where he reached the green in two and holed a 14-footer, and a birdie on 18, chipping in about 50 feet.

The 25-year-old Sikes complained of being tired, bothered by the 88 degree heat and was a little irked at times waiting to play through.

Nicklaus had a three stroke lead over the field when he made the turn — then ran into all kinds of trouble.

On the 10th his ball glanced off a television wire and caromed into a spectator with Big Jack settling for a bogey five. On the 11th he hit a tree and was in a bunker for a double bogey. In all, he had 15 birdie putts and made only one.

Relievers Save Tilt As Yanks Win, 6-5

DETROIT (AP) — Relievers Hal Reniff and Whitey Ford combined to pitch out of a two-on, none-out jam in the ninth inning, saving a 6-5 victory for the New York Yankees over Detroit Saturday night.

Reniff came on after the Tigers had scored two runs in the ninth and had Don Demter at third and Jake Wood at first. He struck out Bill Freehan and got pinch hitter John Sullivan on a short fly to left field but then walked Don Wert loading the bases.

Manager Johnny Keane then called on Ford for his first relief appearance of the season, and the veteran left-hander got the left-hand hitting Jerry Lumpe to hit into a force play at second.

Mel Stottlemyre, who brought his record to 13-6, allowed the Tigers only three hits, including Lumpe's two-run homer in the eighth, until the ninth.

Al Kaline and Willie Horton singled in the ninth and Demter doubled for one run. Steve Hamilton replaced Stottlemyre, but Wood singled in Horton, and Reniff relieved Hamilton.

The Yankees took a 5-1 lead after five innings. Tom Tresh hit a two-run homer in the first inning, and Mickey Mantle connected with none on in the fifth.

Bobby Richardson doubled in the ninth and eventually came home with the deciding run as Ray Barker flied out.

Astros Back Farrell, Blank Braves, 4-0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Houston Astros backed up Dick Farrell's shutout pitching with a 12-hit attack, including a home run by Bob Aspromonte, and romped to a 4-0 victory over Milwaukee Saturday.

Farrell, who limited Milwaukee to five hits, allowed only one Brave to reach third as he posted his eighth victory of the season and his third shutout. He struck out five and did not issue a walk.

Ken Johnson, seeking his 13th victory, took his sixth defeat instead. He gave up 10 hits and three runs, one of them unearned, before being knocked out in the sixth. Dan Osinski, Bob Sadowski and Phil Niekro finished, Sadowski yielding the final run in the eighth on Aspromonte's fifth homer of the year.

Grant Hurls Twins By Bosox; 14th Win

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Jim Grant became the first American League pitcher to win 14 games Saturday, hurling first-place Minnesota to a 9-4 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Grant, who has beaten Boston four times this season with the Twins scoring 46 runs in those games, checked the Red Sox on nine hits, including the 15th home runs for Carl Yastrzemski and Felix Mantilla.

Grant has lost only three.

Don Mincher's 15th homer, with a man on base, capped a three-run Minnesota burst in the fourth inning that broke a 1-1 tie.

The Twins snapped the tie on Bob Allison's sacrifice fly after Tony Oliva walked and Jimmie Hall singled him to third. Hall was on base when Mincher homered.

Minnesota added three more runs in the fifth on Grant's double, Zoilo Versalles' single, Oliva's sacrifice fly, Hall's triple and Allison's single.

Versalles also hit his 15th home run in the first inning.

Huarte Receives MVP Award For All-Stars

CHICAGO (AP)—Quarterback John Huarte, Notre Dame's 1964 Heisman Trophy winner, was named most valuable All-Star football player Saturday by an overwhelming margin over linebacker Dick Butkus of Illinois.

Huarte, who inspired a rally after entering Friday night's game in Soldier Field in the third period that cut the winning margin of the National Football League champion Cleveland Browns to 24-16, received 66 of 96 votes cast by newsmen covering the 32nd annual classic.

Butkus drew 27 votes. Single votes went to end Alphonse Dotson of Grambling; fullback-placekicker Chuck Mercein, Yale; and safetyman Al Nelson, Cincinnati.

The 22-year-old, 180-pound Huarte of Anaheim, Calif., who set Notre Dame passing records last season, will be presented a silver trophy at halftime ceremonies of next year's All-Star game.

Halfback Charley Taylor of Arizona State, who won National Football League rookie honors last season with the Washington Redskins, was the 1964 most valuable selection.

Huarte didn't get the quarterback call Friday night from All-Star Coach Otto Graham until 7½ minutes were gone in the third period.

By that time the Browns were bustling along with a 24-3 lead.

In thunder, lightning and a downpour, Huarte capped two 80-yard drives with touchdown tosses. He completed nine out of nine passes for 132 yards in the streak.

Linebacker Butkus of Illinois, meanwhile, was in on 15 tackles and also blocked Lous Groza's fourth period field goal try.

Why did Graham wait so long to unleash Huarte, the $200,000 property of the New York Jets who again must fight for a starting job against the club's $400,000 plum, Joe Namath?

Graham chose California's Craig Morton as his replacement. Morton (Dallas Cowboys) directed an attack that gained only 12 yards in 15 plays.

Another quarterback, Michigan's Bob Timberlake (New York Giants) was hunched on the bench with a sore elbow. Huarte got the call.

"I know I'll be second-guessed for months," Graham said afterwards. "On the basis of practices and our scrimmage with the Chicago Bears, Huarte was third in our preferences for quarterback.

"Huarte is a great competitor and a take-charge guy. But be knew he was No. 3 on our list. He's one of those players who is much better in a game than in practice."

Huarte praised the great support he had from his receivers and blockers, adding:

"'I really don't think I deserved to get in before I did. I didn't have a good practice. It's not that I held back. I'm used to football in October and November and December. It takes me a while to come around."

Butkus, who now joins the Chicago Bears, received accolades from the coaches, some of whom thought he might be the best All-Star player in 10 years.

"He's got to be the game's most valuable in my book," said Graham. "He's just great and gives you 110 per cent all the time."

If it weren't for Butkus, Cleveland's all-time NFL ground gainer, Jim Brown, might have swooped for 248 yards instead of 148.

"Butkus is everything they say he is — fast and strong," said Brown. "I'm glad the game is over."

Canada Wins Americas Cup For First Time

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Canada scored 7½ points in the final singles matches late Saturday and wrested the Americas Cup away from the United States for the first time in the 16-year-history of the international amateur golf match.

Canada finished with a total of 22 points. The United States, which had won all seven of the previous biennial competitions, finished second with 19½. Mexico trailed at 12½.

Keith Alexander was the big gun in Canada's upset. He teamed with Nick Weslock to beat both their U. S. and Mexican rivals in Saturday's three-ball sixsomes, then scored two victories in the wind-up 18-hole singles matches of the two-day tournament.

The United States, led by Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., Mark Hopkins of Texas City, Tex., and Downing Gray of Pensacola, Fla., scored eight of a possible 12 points in the singles, but couldn't make up Canada's three point lead, 14½-11½ after the sixsomes.

Campbell, Hopkins and Gray each won two singles matches. Campbell took Mauricio Urganeta of Mexico 2 and 1 and Johnnie Johnston of Canada 2 up. Hopkins scored 5 and 4 decisions over Weslock and Mexico's Tomas Lehmann, while Gray took Bert Ticehurst of Canada 4 and 3 and Robert Halpern of Mexico 5 and 4.

Willie Kirkland Singles In 11th As Solons Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie Kirkland's two-out single in the 11th inning drove in Joe Cunningham, giving Washington a 2-1 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Saturday night.

Cunningham led off the inning with a single, was sacrificed to second and moved to third on a fly ball before Kirkland singled to center.

Relief Pitcher Pete Richert held the Angels hitless in the last four innings, striking out six and evening his record at 9-9.

George Brunet shut out the Senators on three hits until the eighth when they tied the score. Don Zimmer opened with a single and alertly tagged up and advanced to second on Don Lock's fly to deep left. Zimmer then scored as Doug Camilli singled up the middle.

Shreveport Tops Two Others In Swimming Meet

GRAMBLING (Special) — A strong Shreveport team sparked by "The Flying Dolphins" won the first annual state wide Swimming and Diving Championship meet at Grambling College here Saturday night.

The winners amassed 250 points in copping the meet championship. Monroe was second with 175 points, three points over third place Grambling.

Shreveport lead the way in the 400 meter free style, one meter diving and the 200 meter medley relays.

Knute Rockne Represents Ultimate College Success

By BOB HOOBING
Boston Herald
Written for The Associated Press

Knute Rockne represents the ultimate in college football coaching success 35 years after his last Notre Dame team took the field.

Okay, his locker room orations to "win one for the gripper" are passe. But as a man who could lure talent, get the most out of it and organize a winner there's never been anyone quite like the raw-boned Norwegian immigrant.

The two stand far ahead of the field in the all-time rating of major college coaches who plied their trade more than a dozen years. Another pair who crack the top 10 — Frank Thomas and Sleepy Jim Crowley — learned what they taught the hard way under "Rock."

Just prior to his untimely death in a plane crash, Rockne whipped his famed 'Shock Troop teams of 1929-30 through a 19-game unbeaten streak. For his 13 years at the helm, the record shows 105 victories, 12 losses and five ties for an .897 percentage.

Leahy was 107-13-9, .892 over a similar span at Boston College and Notre Dame and boasted a 39-game unbeaten string with the Irish. At South Bend he turned out six unbeaten clubs to Rockne's five but the latter was more consistent.

The late Gen. Robert Neyland of Tennessee occupies the third position because he devoted 21 seasons to building Vol greatness on sweat and the single wing. His .848 batting average is only .003 ahead of the one posted by Fielding Yost, the fast-talking, wise-cracking West Virginiaian who made Michigan — Point-a-Minute teams and all — the power of the West.

Jock Sutherland, the silent Scot; Percy Haughton of Harvard fame and Bud Wilkinson, who left the Oklahoma sidelines only last year, are tightly bracketed. Then comes Thomas, dour Gil Dobie and Crowley, member of Notre Dame's illustrious Four Horsemen backfield.

Dr. Henry Williams, the Yale man who started something big at Minnesota, and current Mississippi maestro John Vaught complete the leading dozen.

Although he devoted a lifetime to the game, Yale's Walter Camp does not qualify. Listed as an advisor much of the time, he was actually a coach of record only eight campaigns when he rang up an astounding 79-5-3, .940 mark.

Howard Jones was king of the bowl games, his Southern California legions winning five-for-five in post-season play.

Exhibition Roundup

Eagles Stunned

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The Washington Redskins stunned the Philadelphia Eagles 37-0 in a National Football League exhibition game Saturday.

Th cerushing defeat was climaxed by a 99-yard touchdown pass from rookie Richie Badar to rookie Jack Dean.

The play was the low ebb of a bad day for the Eagles, who couldn't seem to get going until the final quarter when, with the aid of a 15-yard pass interference penalty, they moved to the Redskin one. But the Redskin defense stopped two thrusts at the middle.

The Eagles then fumbled for the fifth time and Washington recovered, also for the fifth time. Badar's pass to Dean, who snagged it on the 27 and raced another 73 yards for the score, caught the Birds with their hands in their pockets.

Through most of the game, and with Badar staying on the bench through the first three quarters, the Redskins' defense and the pinpoint passing of Dick Shiner spelled the difference.

Rookie John Seedborg booted field goals of 30, 35 and 34 yards and converted on all four extra points.

Defense Shines

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers' defense outclassed the offense Saturday in the National Football League club's first intrasquad game.

The defense stopped the offense from making a first down 16 times and Myron Pottios and Irv Woodson each intercepted a pass, setting up field goals of 39 and 40 years by veteran Mike Clark.

The club set its down scoring rules to allow the defense to get on the scoreboard.

Coach Buddy Parker used Nelsen, Dave Mathison, Ed Brown and Tommy Wade at quarterback for one period each.

Parker praised the defense and said it was far ahead of season practice.

49ers Scrimmage

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers staged their second big scrimmage Saturday in preparation for their National Football League exhibition opener next Sunday.

The 49ers played before 32,000 at Redwood City High School. During the hour and twenty minutes practice session, the offensive team scored two touchdowns.

Coach Jack Christiansen said he was pleased with the scrimmage and he thought John Brodie, who engineered both touchdown drives, moved the team well.

The 49ers cut free agent Woodie Prude, a flanker from Compton Calif. Junior College. With the five men reporting from the all-star game, the squad is now at 65-man strength. More cuts are expected Sunday and Monday.

Trull Shines

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Don Trull, a high-priced bonus baby himself in 1964, stole the thunder from the highly touted Joe Namath Saturday night as the Houston Oilers dumped the New York Jets, 21-16, in a preseason American Football League exhibition.

Trull struck three times on long scoring passes, a 30-yarder to Charlie Frazier and 55-and 48-yard heaves to Sammy Wier, a 165-pound rookie flier from Arkansas State.

The second scoring toss to Wier overcame a 16-14 Jet lead midway in the fourth period to wrap up the game.

Namath, a $400,000 beauty from Alabama playing for the first time against AFL opposition, completed six of 14 passes for 110 yards, one a 49-yard toss to Bake Turner that set up a Jet touchdown in the third quarter.

The Alabama rookie played the second and third quarters. His ball-handling was smooth and deceptive, but his passing was spotty. At times he was precise. At other times he was off the mark — several times badly.

Trull, who sat out most of last season watching veteran George Blanda run the team, staged a strong bid for the top job. He completed nine of 12 passes for 225 yards, three touchdowns and had one intercepted.

Blanda was one for 12 for minus two yards and had one intercepted.

For New York, Jim Turner contributed three field goals. He kicked a 24-yarder in the second quarter, a 20-yarder in the third and sailed in a 44-yard boot in the fourth period to give the Jets a brief lead.

Namath moved the Jets 68 yards in six plays in the third period for their only touchdown. Bill Mathis bulled from the one for the score.

Blues Top Whites

BALTIMORE (AP) — Lou Michaels, doing the kicking for both teams, booted a 38-yard field goal with two seconds remaining to give the Blues a 13-10 victory over the Whites Saturday night in Baltimore Colts' intrasquad game.

The 13th annual contest drew a crowd of 34,783 to Memorial Stadium, with proceeds from the $1 admission charge benefitting the Baltimore Police Boys Clubs.

The winnig field goal by Michaels, who will replace retired star Gino Marchetti at defensive end this season for the National Football League club, was his third of the game and the only score of the second half.

The Blues, composed of the first string defense and the second string offense, had scored earlier on quarterback Gary Cuozzo's one-yard keeper play and Michaels' 25-yard field goal.

The Whites scored on a 51-yard pass from John Unitas to Raymond Berry and a 41-yard field goal by Michaels, who also booted an extra point for both teams. The first-string offense and second-team defense comprised the White squad.

Films of the game will be shown on nationwide television (CBS, 1 p.m., EST) on Sunday.

Milt Plum Stars

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Milt Plum did most of the scoring work for both teams in the Detroit Lions' intrasquad game as the Blues defeated the Whites 28-6 before a capacity crowd of 8,000 Saturday night.

Plum accounted for two touchdown passes for the Blues, one a 30-yard toss to Pat Studstill and another on a 76-yard sensational pass-run play to newcomer Joe Don Looney.

Spitball Spray Lingers On After 45 Year Ban

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been 45 years since the spitball was outlawed as a legal pitch but the spray lingers on.

There are those, mostly frustrated batters, who insist the spitball is thrown more often today than at any time since 1920.

The increased use of the damp pitch has brought added heat and humidity to an already controversial baseball season.

From Los Angeles to New York, from Minneapolis to Houston, irate managers are charging pitchers with throwing the notorious pitch. Gene Mauch, dynamic manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, asserts that 25 per cent of the pitchers in the National League throw the spitter to some degree.

Bobby Bragan, explosive skipper of the Milwaukee Braves, charges every club has at least two pitchers who throw a spitter.

Al Lopez, contemplative pilot of the Chicago White Sox believes the use of the spitball has increased by some 30 per cent in the last five years. Not so long ago he declared that Dean Chance of the Los Angeles Angels throws a spitter that would have made Burleigh Grimes proud. Grimes is generally regarded as the greatest spitball pitcher of all time.

Rival clubs contend that Whitey Ford, brilliant left-hander of the New York Yankees, throws the best spitter in the American League. Ford's counterpart in the National League is said to be Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers, with Bob Shaw of the San Francisco Giants not far behind.

Testimony, given in private, indicates that some of the best pitchers in baseball are throwing the illegal pitch.

National League pitchers allegedly throwing the wet pitch, according to locker room and dugout gossip, are league player representative Bob Friend and Don Cardwell of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Dick Farrell of the Houston Astros, Larry Jackson and Bob Buhl of the Chicago Cubs and Bob Purkey of the St. Lous Cardinals.

Other National Leaguers said to be wetting one here and there include Jim Bunning, Ed Roebuck and Lew Burdette of the Phillies; Ron Perranoski and Johnny Podres of the Dodgers; Roger Craig of the Cincinnati Reds and Bob Sadlowski of the Milwaukee Braves.

Pedro Ramos of the Yankees and Orlando Pena of the Detroit Tigers have often been accused of serving a spitter. Both have denied it. Ramos refers to the challenged pitch as "my Cuban palm ball" while Pena calls it his Cuban fork ball.

Other alleged American League saliva slingers such as Ronnie Kline of Washington, Larry Sherry of Detroit, Earl Wilson of Boston, Frank Lary and Hoyt Wilhelm of the White Sox merely laugh off any notion that they are depending upon the barred pitch. Why, they wouldn't even know how to throw one, they agree.

The umpires have been accused of laxity by the complainers. League Presidents Joe Cronin of the American and Warren Giles of the National have taken a dim view of the protests.

"I have received no written complaints from anyone over the alleged use of the illegal spitball in baseball games," said Giles. "Besides, I don't think the pitches (spitters) are as numerous as the batters claim."

The penalty for using a spitter is severe. Once an umpire charges a pitcher with throwing a spitter the pitcher must leave the game and a 10-day suspension follows.

The last umpire to call a pitcher for using a spitter was Cal Hubbard, now the supervisor of umpires in the American League. During a game in St. Louis in 1944, Hubbard threw out Nelson Potter of the Browns for throwing a spitball against the Yankees.

The difficulty of detecting a spitter stems from the rule permitting the pitcher to go to his mouth before throwing the ball providing he wipes his fingers with the resin bag or on his uniform before making the pitch.

Pitchers can cheat in various ways. The most common way to cheat is for a pitcher to provide some extra saliva on the heel of his hand. Even when he wipes off his fingers, he still has the material on the heel of his hand.

A pitcher can also get moisture by wiping his forehead or using the perspiration that trickles down his arm and remains on his wrist. Some pitchers are so brazen they employ vaseline, which they apply to the back of their neck or deposit on the underside of the bill of their cap or behind their belt buckle.

A pitcher uses a spitter in tight spots, usually with runners on base and a good hitter with two strikes against him. The pitch is thrown with an overhand or three quarter motion and it rides into the batter with little or no spin. As the ball nears the plate, it suddenly dives into the dirt, leaving the batter swing at something that isn't there.

"It's easy to detect a spitter," said Hobie Landrith, who caught for many years in the National League. "I know of only two pitches that have no spin on them — the spitter and the knuckler. When you can see the seam on the ball and you know the guy does not throw a knuckler, then it's got to be the spitter."

Pitching coach Jim Turner of the Cincinnati Reds maintains the spitball is not difficult to throw as some pitchers would have you believe.

"On the contrary," he says, "anyone can learn to throw the spitter. It's not hard to throw, not difficult to teach and is easy on the arm. It hasn't the bad muscular effects of the screwball, slider or knuckler. It sinks and makes a fine mixer with the high, hard one."

Of all the pitchers who have thrown the spitball consistently since it was outlined, only Preacher Roe of the Dodgers, Joe Page of the Yankees and Red Barrett of the Cardinals admitted they employed it. They admitted it, of course, only after retiring.

Mays' 2 Homers Signal Giant Win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Willie Mays boomed his 28th and 29th home runs of the season Saturday, each with a man on base, breaking open a close game and boosting his San Francisco Giants to a 10-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The score was tied 3-3 in the fifth when Mays cracked No. 28 about 425 feet to left center field. Then he gave the Giants two insurance runs in the seventh with a homer to left after Jesus Alou had doubled. Willie McCovey hit a two-run homer for the Giants in the third.

Cardinal third baseman Ken Boyer knotted the score in the fourth with a three-run homer to left, his 10th of the season. It came after a walk to Curt Flood and a single by Bill White.

The Giants got one run in the first on a walk and two singles, and two more in the third on McCovey's 25th home run, a long slash to right center.

They got three more in the eighth on singles by Matty Alou and Hal Lanier, two walks and a fielder's choice.

Yanks Remove Stafford From Disabled List

Catcher Doc Edwards was optioned to Toledo of the International League on 24-hour recall to make room on the 25-man roster for the hurler.

Stafford was placed on the disabled list July 7 when he came up with tendonitis in his right shoulder. His record is 3-4, with an earned run average of 3.04.

Edwards was obtained from the Kansas City Athletics on May 3 in a deal with sent pitcher Roland Sheldon and catcher John Blanchard to that team. Edwards had a .190 batting average with New York in 45 games.

Beans, Beans, Beans, Beans

With Sam Hanna

And More Beans

From the air Northeast Louisiana is a series of farms with a patch of woods here and there and an occasional large tract of timberland with a lot of lakes and streams thrown in.

It's a tame-looking section.

From Monroe, which is beginning to look like a city with its flashy new highway, Bish Lee, a young, capable pilot for Fleeman's Flying Service, headed the Cessna west to the Mississippi River.

Down the lake-dotted Delta we flew until the steeples of old Natchez came into view, then we cut across the Cocodrie and back to Monroe. It was all much the same.

From the cockpit, looking in any direction, you could see small patches of smoke drifting skyward. New ground was being broken everywhere.

Beans are taking the country.

In the last three years some 260,000 acres of hardwood timberland have been cleared in Louisiana — most of it in Northeast Louisiana, according to Richard Yancey, assistant wildlife director who got his information from the forestry industry.

And the land-clearing trend continues in a big way in this area. Landowners, who certainly have the right to clear their property if they so desire, are going into soybeans.

The loss of timberland spells trouble for the sportsman, especially the deer hunter who has looked to the hardwood bottoms for his favorite sport for too many years now.

Dick Yancey said Louisiana doesn't have 260,000 acres of hardwoods left.

The trend toward soybeans — so we are told by reliable sources — began up in Missouri a few years ago, and since then down the Mississippi Valley it's come. The big upsurge started in Louisiana about two or three years ago.

Last year was the biggest for soybeans in Louisiana. Some 6.1 million bushels were raised in Northeast Louisiana on 234,300 acres. That's the Fifth District, plus LaSalle.

East Carroll Parish was the biggest in Louisiana with 60,000 acres in soybeans, but Morehouse was close behind with 54,000 and Madison with 41,000.

Ouachita had 9,000; hilly Union, 100; Franklin, 30,000; Richland, 19,000; Tensas, 35,000; West Carroll, 36,000; Catahoula, 18,000; Concordia, 27,000; and LaSalle, 200.

Indicative of the growing trend is an explanation from Max McDonald, Madison's county agent who estimates the Madison soybeans acreage this year at 50,000 acres. He says there are several reasons for the shift to beans, including a good price from around $2.25 per bushel to $2.50 and as high as $2.75 for the last two years.

Max also points out that drainage has put the area in a position of taking advantage of soybeans, the area's know-how has improved, landowners are turning loose of their property because of the land market and of course the market for soybeans is varied.

Multiply $2.50 per bushel times 6.1 million bushels and that explains why we saw patches of smoke from here to the river, down the Delta and back again.

But it doesn't eliminate the possibility of an acreage allotment on soybeans in future years — a belief shared by many people whom we've talked to in agriculture.

The transition of swampland to farmland also has led to much speculation over the future of the large tracts of hardwood timberland in our area — tracts like the Chicago Mill & Lumber Co. property in Madison, Tensas and Franklin. That's the Chicago Mill Game Management Area, consisting of over 100,000 acres leased to the Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission.

At a stockholders meeting last March 10th, Chicago Mill was purchased for $20,334,600 by a partnership headed by W. H. Gonyea, president of E. L. Bruce Co., Inc., and Jay A. Pritzker, a director of Bruce, which is also in the timber business.

A Bruce official confirmed that in the past the company has bought raw materials from Chicago Mill. And since the purchase, there has not been any indication that Chicago Mill would change its operation, although rumors have been circulating the company's timberland would be cleared and sold.

At any rate Chicago Mill spokesmen couldn't confirm any such plans for the future and the wildlife commission hasn't been notified of a lease change on the Chicago Mill tract, but the fact remains the company changed hands.

It could be, however, that in the future hardwood timber will be more valuable than soybeans or rice or cattle land. It depends on who owns it.

As Bish Lee nosed the Cessna toward the Ouachita, that 14,000-acre tract of timberland owned outright by the state forevermore out in Lafourche Swamp — the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area — looked awfully important.

Form Birddog Club

The North Louisiana Pointer & Setter Club was organized last Wednesday night with plans to hold an amateur field trial this fall for members only.

Over 20 birddog enthusiasts gathered for the organizational meeting.

Larry Hudson, a Monroe insurance adjuster who more or less ramrodded the formation of the group, was elected president with Bob Taylor as vice-president and Joe Zuber as secretary-treasurer.

They'll also serve on a five-man board consisting of Dr. Armand McHenry and Ronald Lee Davis, both of Monroe.

The club is open to all birddog people at a membership fee of $10, which will be good for a year. This also will entitle the members to participate in the upcoming field trial.

Plans now call for having the trial probably in November on property around Perryville, but another meeting will be held soon to work out the details.

Club members felt it would be best to hold a members-only trial the first time out, then come back later with a sanctioned event to bring in top dogs from other parts of the country.

If you're interested in joining, contact one of the above-mentioned officers, or watch the paper for the next meeting. It looks like the birddog field trial has come to this part of the state finally.

Little Man's Corner

It was fine weather and the fishing was good and the little men made news afield.

Out at Black Bayou, John Taylor and James Parker of Monroe landed 35 really big specs. Not to be outdone, Butch Martin of West Monroe caught the limit of 100 bream.

And James L. Doss of Monroe was back at it again. He landed 14 bass weighing a total of 38 pounds. One almost went five pounds. Doss came back the next day and caught 10 weighing 30 pounds.

Black Bayou also paid off for Albert Jones, who caught 80 bream, and Mike Pickett landed the limit of 100. Sam Smith caught 50 specs. Bobby Wing caught 65 bream.

In the bass-fishing category, Danny Hoak landed a 4½-pounder, plus 4 others. But Johnny Danna had a big day. He and a partner landed 27 weighing about 60 pounds.

From West Monroe, Wiley Jones got the limit of bream in Lake St. John. Ronnie Osborn of West Monroe did too.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Williams of Oak Grove landed a nice string of white perch two days at Gassoway.

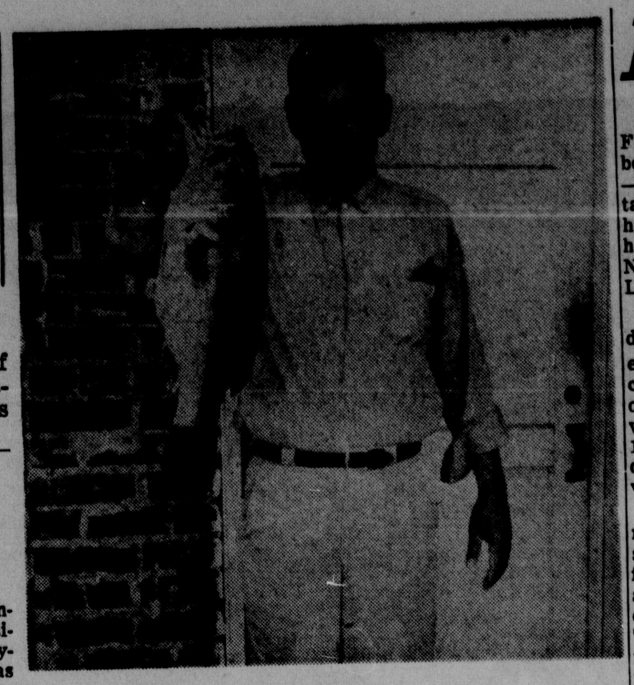

Locally, E. R. McDonald Sr., the former wildlife commissioner, of Newellton is recovering nicely from surgery. Friday, at the St. Francis, he was anxious to go home.

Ed McDonald cut us in on a big secret. He said he is not going to quit.

The solunar periods, during which there is maximum fish and wildlife activity, are printed below. Major periods began at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours. Minor periods are shorter.

FRED NIELSEN, a Winnsboro bass fisherman, holds up a 7¼-pound bass which he caught on a Purple Worm in Well's Lake. Fred caught three others that weighed close to five pounds each. He's been having a lot of luck bass fishing this season, but this one is the biggest this year. Fred also has been known to kill a quail or two when he's not bass fishing.

Tenth Inning Rally Gives Chi Sox Win

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, helped along by Max Alvis' tangle-foot act, rallied for two runs in the bottom of the 10th inning Saturday and edged the Cleveland Indians 4-3.

The Sox, who had to rally from a 2-0 deficit to send it into overtime, trailed 3-2 going into their half of the 10th, and had one out when Alvis had his trouble.

With pinch runner Al Weis on first, J.C. Martin popped down the third base line. But Alvis tripped over the bag, the ball dropped safely and runners were on first and second.

The Sox were held hitless by Luis Tiant until the fifth, when they broke through for two runs, tying it for the first time. Moose Skowron broke the no-hitter with a single, and a walk and sacrifice followed.

British, U.S. Teams In Wightman Wins

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — British and United States teams each won a singles victory in Saturday's opening Wightman Cup matches. Mrs. Ann Haydon Jones upset the U.S. No. 2 player, Billie Jean Moffitt, 6-2, 6-4 in the opener, then Nancy Richey crushed Britain's No. 3 player, Miss Elizabeth Starkie 6-1, 6-0.

The 22-year-old Miss Richey, the U.S. top-ranked singles player, scored the most onesided victory since 1950 in Wightman Cup competition. The Dallas, Tex., star sent strong forehands deep into the corners of the court and out of Miss Starkie's reach time after time.

Mrs. Jones, like Miss Richey, played a baseline game and repeatedly passed the rushing Miss Moffitt with hard forehands.

"Ann made me make the mistakes," the 21-year-old Long Beach, Calif., netter said. "You had to beat her, because she's not going to beat herself."

Miss Moffitt had service troubles, double-faulting seven times in the two sets.

"I just wasn't getting my toss up high enough, and it was too far forward," she explained.

Miss Moffitt was trailing 2-0 in games when she won her first game of the first set. The second game she won left her behind 3-2. In the second set, the American managed to tie the games at 3-3 but then lost eight consecutive points to fall behind two games. Mrs. Jones held her service in the next and final game of the match.

There were no service aces in the second match. Miss Starkie's only game was on her second service after Miss Moffitt had taken a 2-0 lead.

The best-of-seven series goes through Monday. Doubles pairings had been held up because of an ankle injury to Christine Truman, star of the British team.

Mrs. Carole Graebner of the U. S. goes against Virginia Wade in Sunday's singles match.

Laurel Valley Draws Golfers

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Virtually everybody who is anybody in pro golf — and a long list of somewhat talented nobodies — will be on hand when the pro tourists and home folks gather for the 47th National PGA Championship at Laurel Valley Aug. 12-15.

Warren Cantrell, PGA president, released the almost-final entry list of 172 Saturday. It includes 21 former PGA champions — from Paul Runyan, who won the first of his two titles in 1934, to Bobby Nichols, who will defend the title he won last year with a record score of 271.

Then there are the winners of major tournaments co-sponsored or approved by the PGA from last year's championship at Columbus, Ohio, to the start of this year's championship. There's an outside chance that a name or two could be added if next week's Philadelphia Golf Classic.

Snead is eligible as a three-time PGA champion, the current PGA Seniors champion, as a tournament winner this year and as one of the 10 leading 1965 money winners.

Completing the list are 32 of the 34 PGA sectional champions and those who qualified in sectional tests. Most of them aren't very well known but there are a lot of very good golfers among them — guys like big John Barnum, Wes Ellis Jr., Pete Cooper, Jim Ferree, Jack Fleck, Bob Bolt.

Bolt, the 1958 U.S. Open champion, had to qualify on tour this year; Ed Furgol, the 1954 Open winner, got in because he was among the low 24 last year and Fleck, who beat Ben Hogan in a playoff for the 1955 Open title, made it as Illinois sectional champion.

Hogan, a two-time PGA champion, is scheduled to return to test his skill against such mighty modern hitters as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Tony Lema. The PGA lists of eligibility reasons doesn't mention it, but Hogan also the U.S. Open four times and the British Open once.

They'll be playing on the brand new Laurel Valley course, which can be stretched out to nearly 7,100 yards and which, according to the few who have tested it, can offer some surprises to those who haven't. It's Palmer's home course and the PGA title is one Arnie never has won so he wants it badly.

Mediterranean styling has a romantic appeal, a graceful charm that's hard to resist. Used tastefully as an accent the classic beauty of a Mediterranean chandelier is as timeless as the classic and ageless arts from which it stems. In traditional white with antique gold finish, or hand-rubbed antique gold finish with the elegance of sparkling crystals, this Mediterranean chandelier will bring a sophisticated charm to any dining room. "Majorca" . . . P4544 . . . $35.25.

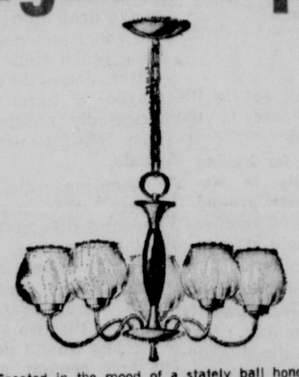

This Danish-inspired design blends beautifully with traditional as well as contemporary decor! The walnut trim on solid brass rectangular arms adds warmth while the satin triplex glass shades assure soft, glare-free light. "Copenhagen" . . . P4037 . . . $36.75.

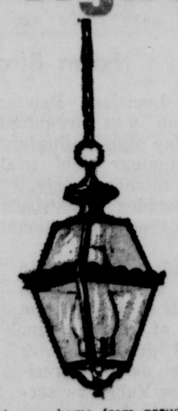

When our nation was young, handsome fixtures such as this shed romantic candlelight on dashing gentlemen and exquisite ladies doing the minuet. Crystal-clear hurricane shades enhance the rich glow of Solid Brass in Antique or Polished finishes. "Heritage" . . . P4019 . . . $41.95.

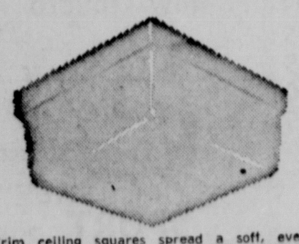

Progress lets you dial the light to suit the mood . . . The Mesa series is straight out of the Old West, authentically detailed in the hearty style of the early Plainsmen with quaint glass chimneys and the rustic beauty of antique copper and black. Full range built-in continuous electronic dimmer switch lets you dial the light to suit the mood—any level of light from total darkness to full bright. "Mesa" . . . P4596 . . . $47.25.

Created in the mood of a stately ball honoring Generals Washington and Lafayette, and their gallantry at the Battle of the Brandywine, this graceful chandelier will enhance homes of almost any period! Crystal-clear optic shades have Edison-based sockets; walnut column on chandelier. "Brandywine" . . . P4015 . . . $18.05.

Help protect your home from prowlers with a wall or ceiling lantern that will bathe your doorway, porch or patio in light! Constructed of cast aluminum, guaranteed to stay free of rust for the life of the product! Satin black or white . . . P5520 . . . $22.90.

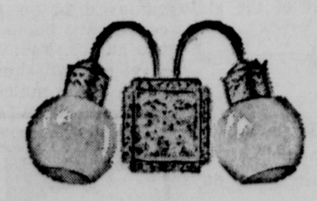

Trim ceiling squares spread a soft, even glow in a smart, new way! Walnut-framed styles cast a pleasant pattern through white textured glass diffusers. Metal-framed models have concealed torsion springs for quick, easy bulb-changing. Solid aluminum for outdoor installation, as well. Model P3731 . . . $13.90.

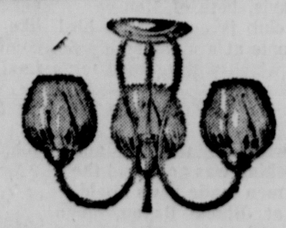

Lighting a small area can be just as important as lighting the larger sections of your home and every fixture should be chosen with equal care. Model P3733, shown above, is properly proportioned to dramatize, but not dominate, and to spread light well. . . . $8.25.

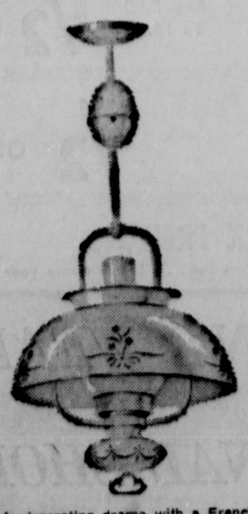

House of Light
18TH & AUBURN MONROE DIAL 387-1950

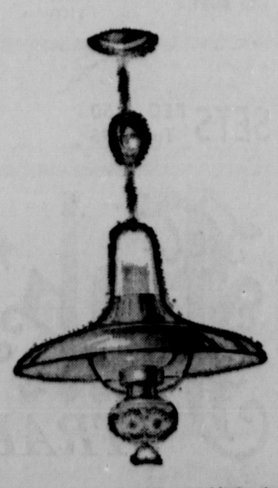

From the romantic Mediterranean, came the inspiration for this gay and decorative wall fixture. Fanciful filigreed metal in antique white-and-gold finish holds luminous triplex glass shades. Equally at home in bathroom, hall or kitchen. Model P3019 . . . $11.95.

Here is decorating drama with a French accent! Authentic Tole designs are recreated in gleaming white, artfully hand-finished and crowned in gold, with metal shades over opal glass diffusers. Excitingly, every fixture of this popular series is, in spirit, finish and design, a perfect match for all the other models. "Tole" . . . P4460 . . . $27.75

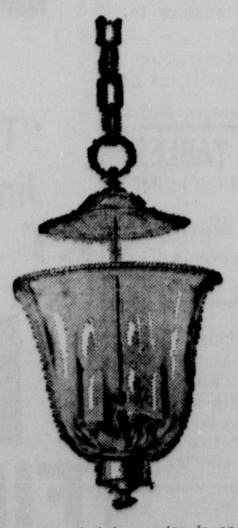

We borrowed the tawny tones, black strap hinges and easy informality of the early Western settlers and added modern pull-down convenience plus big, modern light capacity. The warmth and romance of another time, adapted to contemporary living. "Homestead" . . . P4043 . . . $24.15.

A Progress post lantern will lend a cheery note of hospitality to your home, brighten dark walks or driveways, add hours of fun to lawns and patios! Cast aluminum lanterns are guaranteed rust-proof for life and fit all 3" diameter posts. Equally at home with traditional or contemporary exteriors. Model 5408 . . . $20.25.

Looking for a way to lighten and brighten an entrance hall, kitchen, dining area, workshop or laundry? With opal glass fixtures, you get the right amount of soft, well-diffused, glare-free light for the job plus handsome, modern styling. Model P3749 in Chrome, Polished Brass or Polished Copper. . . . $4.25.

Make a dazzling first impression in an entrance hall, foyer or any other small area with this attractive design. Traditional styling imparts a feeling of graciousness and good taste that is always in vogue. Model 3719 in Polished or Antique Brass . . . Crystal shade with three 40W flame-type candelabra base . . . $22.15.

A Progress wall lantern will frame your doorway in hearty hospitality. Built of weather-resistant cast aluminum to last a lifetime and protect your home's exterior from unsightly rust streaks. Model P5824 in Satin Black & amber optic glass . . . $18.00.

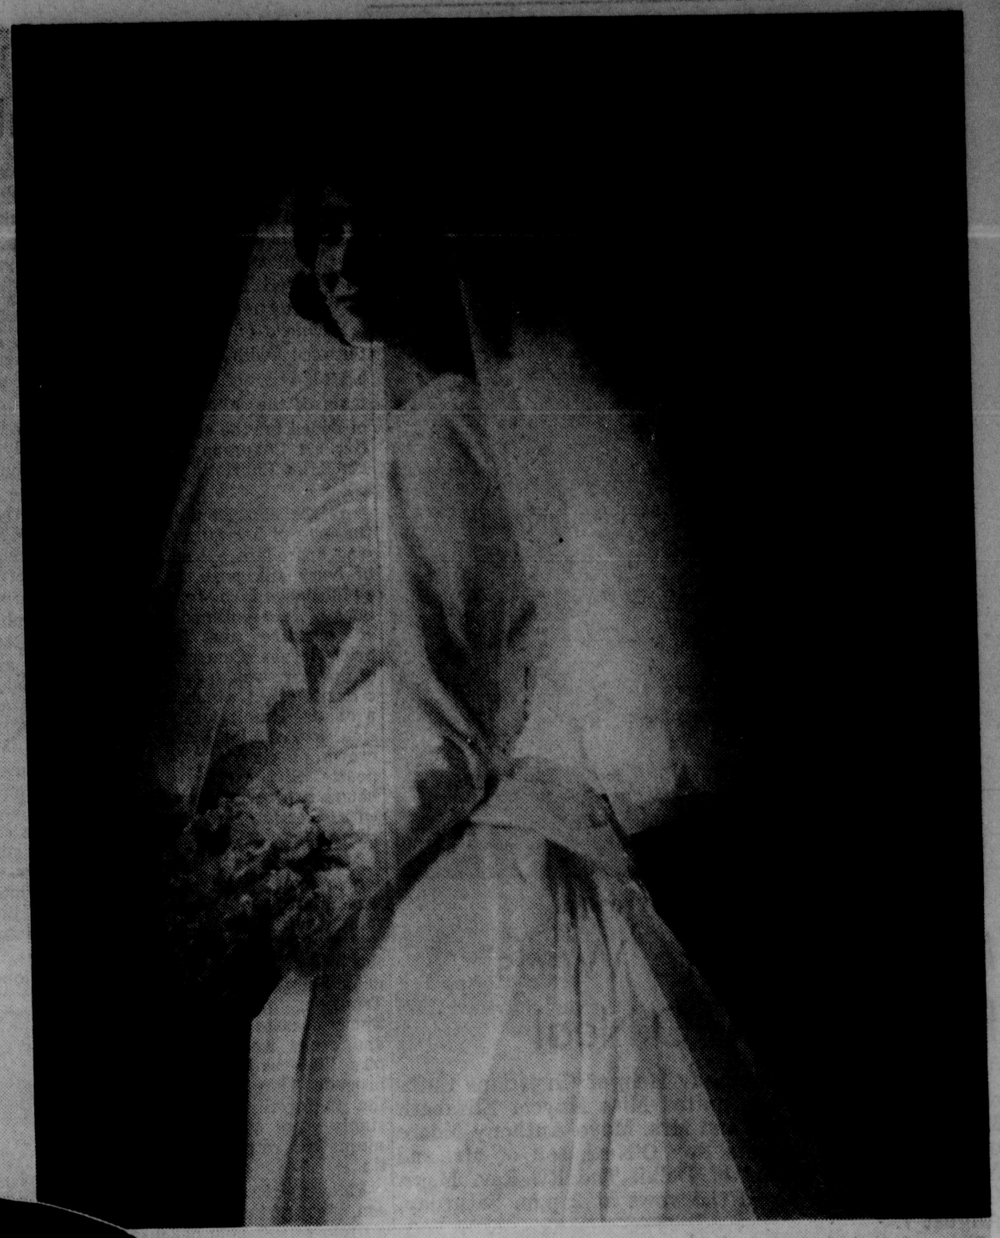

The World For WOMEN

August 8, 1965

At left: Miss Rosemary Upshaw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Jefferson Upshaw, Sr., became the bride of Randy Lew Ewing Saturday, August 7. The Rev. Ira Flowers officiated at the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Methodist church. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Ewing of Jonesboro.

At right: A reception at Bayou DeSiard country club followed the ceremony uniting Miss Carol Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winnie E. Cole, and John Davidson Nies, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nies of Denver, Colorado. Dr. William F. Mansell of Vicksburg, Mississippi, heard the exchange of vows in First Presbyterian church in Monroe, Friday, August 6, at 6:30 p.m.

Below: In a candlelight ceremony in Ruston Presbyterian church, Saturday, August 7, Miss Linda Sue DeFreese became the bride of John Fred Richmond, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Richmond of Ruston. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lonnie DeFreese of Ruston, entertained at a reception in the church parlors.

Below at center: The marriage of Miss Opal LaFran Ferguson of Monroe and Alfred Hudson Hempen of Alexandria was celebrated at nuptial mass at eleven a.m. August 7 in St. Matthew's Catholic church. Mr. and Mrs. Thurl Ferguson of Crossett, Arkansas, are parents of the bride, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hempen of Alexandria.

Above: College Place Baptist church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Martha Elizabeth Foster and Wendell Clarence Sanders, Jr., Friday, August 6. The Rev. T. Earl Ogg was officiating minister. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Jefferson Foster, and the groom is the son of Wendell Clarence Sanders of Eros and the late Mrs. Sanders.

Below: The Rev. A. L. Sampson officiated at the ceremony which united Miss Carolyn Sue Wilhite and Richard E. Maddox, Saturday, August 7, in Ridge Avenue Baptist church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilhite of West Monroe, while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Maddox of Monroe.

MRS. FRANCIS ROY O'NEAL

Mayola Moore Weds Francis Roy O'Neal

A ceremony in Our Lady Help of Christians Catholic church in Jennings united Miss Mayola Elizabeth Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Anthony Moore of Jennings and Frances Roy O'Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Ted O'Neal of Delhi. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Charles E. Marin heard the vows at 2 p.m. Saturday, August 7.

White gladioli decorated the church. Two large bouquets were placed on the central altar, with similar arrangements in baskets on the steps at each side. As guests were being seated by the ushers, Doug Moore, brother of the bride, and Jimmy Hopson, a pre-nuptial concert was provided by Mrs. John A. Liesch at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a floor-length gown of imported white silk organza over cotton sateen with empire waistline and semi-fitted skirt. Guinevere sleeves were fitted to the elbow and then flared to the fingertips. The sleeves were faced with alencon lace applique and finished with narrow cuffs. A mantilla of Rosepoint lace covered her hair and fell to her waist. Her bouquet was a mixed cascade of stephanotis, sweetheart roses, and miniature carnations centered with a white cattleta orchid.

The bride's attendants were Miss Nannette Benoit, maid of honor; Miss Jan Gallaugher and Miss Kay Mary Domengeaux, cousin of the bride, bridesmaids; Miss Kim Moore, sister of the bride, and Miss Marti Moore, niece of the groom, flowergirls. Their floor-length gowns of Nile green dotted Swiss featured empire waistlines accented with darker green velveteen ribbon. They wore large white picture hats of braid trimmed with velveteen. Each carried a basket filled with daisies and ivy and tied with green ribbon.

Dr. W. Ross Heck was Mr. O'Neal's best man. Groosmen were Charles Moore, brother-in-law of the groom, and Tommy Mathieu.

A large basket of daisies centered the refreshment table. The cake, which was wreathed with daisies and ivy, was served by Mrs. Charles Partin, Mrs. Gene Fulton, Mrs. Wayne Dupuis, Mrs. Gary Burnett. Tea girls were Misses Patti and Vicki Moore, sisters of the bride; and Misses Claire Thayer and Cecile Raggio, her cousins.

Miss Wilhite, R. E. Maddox Pledge Vows

Miss Carolyn Sue Wilhite, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wilhite of West Monroe, and Richard E. Maddox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Maddox of Monroe, were married Saturday, August 7, in Ridge Avenue Baptist church. The Rev. A. L. Sampson heard the exchange of vows in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length dress of soft white crepe. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a white peau pillbox embellished with seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a crescent bouquet of white orchids and fleur d'amour.

Mrs. Leo Wall served as her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. Her costume was of blue linen with matching accessories, and she wore a white carnation corsage. Mr. Maddox was his son's best man.

Mrs. Wilhite chose for the wedding a dress of bronze crepe with matching accessories. Mrs. Maddox was attired in royal blue silk with white accessories. Their corsages were of white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a small reception was held in the church parlor. The couple left on a wedding trip to Shreveport, after which they will be at home in West Monroe.

McGinn-Rushing Vows Pledged In Oak Grove

Alvin Joseph McGinn Jr., of Monroe claimed as his bride Miss Betty Sue Rushing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Harrison Rushing of Pioneer. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Joseph McGinn of Monroe. The Rev. Jeard Jermain heard the vows in Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Oak Grove Saturday, August 7, at ten in the morning.

Bouquets of white gladioli alternated with large standing baskets of emerald fern framed the altar. Music was provided for the service by Mrs. Herbert Chapman at the organ and Miss Charlotte Welch, soloist.

As she entered the church on the arm of her father, the bride was attired in a wedding gown of ivory silk peau de soie and peau d'ange lace. Jeweled appliques of lace outlined the rounded neckline and formed the brief sleeves. Controlled fullness of the skirt was drawn back into a bustle effect which flowed into a chapel train. Her veil of illusion was held by a Swedish crown of crystal and seed pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses looped with strands of pearls and satin ribbon.

Mrs. Robert L. Vining of Abilene, Texas, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Harry Rushing of Monroe, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Charlaine Turner of Ferriday; and Miss Donna Traweek, the bride's cousin. Their dresses of gold brocade and crepe were styled on empire lines with back panels of brocade. They wore bow hats of the material. Each carried a single large bronze chrysanthemum tied with moss green satin.

Flower girl was Sherri Nicholson, niece of the bride. She wore a dress of soft gold organza and wristlet of white carnations as she scattered white rose petals before the bride.

The groom was attended by his father as best man. Groomsmen were Rudolph Becker III of New Orleans, brother-in-law of the groom; Harry Rushing of Monroe, brother of the bride; and Lee Neal Gunn of Monroe.

Mrs. Rushing wore for her daughter's wedding a three-piece ensemble of champagne lace and crepe. She chose matching accessories and a mauve orchid corsage. Mrs. McGinn, mother of the groom, was attired in a shell pink sheath with jacket scalloped in white. Her corsage was a pink-throated white orchid.

The refreshment table was covered with gold linen and lace. White roses arranged with leather leaf fern formed the centerpiece, which was flanked with white tapers in branched candelabra. Mrs. Harry Henderson, Mrs. John Brown McIntosh, and Mrs. Ben B. Ross, Sr., served. Tea girls were Mrs. Sherwood Kelly, Miss Sue Crowe. Miss Kaye Rushing, and Miss Frances Futch.

When Mr. and Mrs. McGinn left on a wedding trip to the Gulf coast, the bride was wearing a coat dress of imported ice blue silk accented with a tiered crepe collar. Her corsage was of white roses. Upon their return, they will make their home in Monroe.

Mrs. McGinn is a graduate of Pioneer High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college. The groom, who is a graduate of Neville High school and of Northeast, also attended Louisiana State university, where he was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Unique Wedding Gift Can Be Work Of Art

If money is no object in your quest for the perfect wedding gift, why not give the bride and groom a painting?

On the theory that hanging something on the wall is as vital to the new bride as having china and silver on the table, a Chicago art gallery has set up a bridal registry for paintings. According to Business Week, the gallery offers works dating from the mid-19th Century to the present, at prices from $150 to $375,000. The engaged couple looks over the gallery's selection and registers their preference. All you have to do is present the gallery a big fat check and your gift worries are over.

Especially helpful is the gallery's traditional policy of allowing an exchange after five years. Or, if the marriage is dissolved in that time, the couple may turn in their original choice for two pictures with the same value. Now isn't that thoughtful?

Hempen-Ferguson Vows Pledged At Nuptial Mass

Miss Opal LaFran Ferguson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thurl Ferguson of Crossett, Arkansas, became the bride of Alfred Hudson Hempen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hempen of Alexandria Saturday, August 7. The Rev. Edward Deevy officiated at the double ring ceremony and nuptial mass in St. Matthew's Catholic church, Monroe, at eleven a.m.

Large arrangements of white galdioli and white chrysanthemums decorated the center altar and two side altars. Miss Glenda Faye Roberts at the organ and Miss Mary Elizabeth Williams, soloist, provided music.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a wedding gown of white peau de soie with lace bodice. Appliques of lace ornamented the skirt and long train. The bride's only jewelry was a string of pearls, gift of the groom. Her headdress of white peau de soie roses held her waist length veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Attendants were Mrs. Tom Noble of Dallas, Texas, sister of the bride, matron of honor; and bridesmaids, Mrs. Larry Land of Crossett, Arkansas, and Mrs. Frank Hempen of Alexandria. They wore identical dresses of blue peau de soie ornamented with brocade roses, and headdresses of blue illusion. They carried single long-stemmed red roses tied with blue streamers.

The groom's father, Herbert Frank Hempen, was best man. Groomsmen were Frank Hempen Jr., brother of the groom, and William B. Huffstickler of Baton Rouge. Lace Roberts of Monroe and Macil Wilkie Jr., of Baton Rouge were ushers.

Mrs. Ferguson, the bride's mother was attired in deep peacock blue crepe styled with a three-tiered skirt. She chose matching accessories and a corsage of cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Hempen wore mauve silk linen with accessories of identical color and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Y.W.C.A. In the foyer was a white-covered table, ornamented with a memory candle, where the bride's book was placed. Miss Margaret Hendrix invited guests to register.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of white stock and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Geneva Hayden and Mrs. Allen Gwens served punch, while the bride's cake was cut by Mrs. O. D. Patton and Mrs. Robert Sehon. Tea girls were Misses Ann Ervin, Betty Lynn Tyson, Doris Nolan and June Winnon. Rice bags were distributed by Holiday Hempen, niece of the groom, and Tommy Noble, II, nephew of the bride.

When the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Florida, Mrs. Hempen was wearing a dress of yellow whipped cream fabric topped with a yellow lace coat. She wore yellow accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return, the couple will be at home in Alexandria.

The bride is a graduate of Crossett High school and Bish Mathis Institute in Monroe. Mr. Hempen received his bachelor's and his master's degree from Northeast Louisiana State college, where he was a member of Pi Sigma Epsilon.

Jewelry Trends

Among the leading jewelry trends for fall are pendant watches, a diamond and sapphire bracelet which can be built link by link as gift occasions come up, a mother's pin which adds birthstones for each child's birth and rings with interchangeable gems. These trends and others accent the fact that real jewelry has taken a fashion lesson from costume jewelry.

MISS MYRA ELIZABETH COX

Miss Myra Cox Is Engaged To Charles Wylie

The engagement of Miss Myra Elizabeth Cox of Fulton, Arkansas, to Charles William Wylie of Monroe is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cox of Fulton. The prospective groom is the son of Charles Wylie of Clarksville and the late Mrs. Mildred Wylie.

The wedding is to be at 6:30 p.m., Saturday, September 11, in Fulton Union church, Fulton, Arkansas.

The bride-elect attended Belhaven College, Jackson, Miss., and was graduated from the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. At the university she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Mr. Wylie attended the University of Arkansas and Henderson State Teachers college. He is presently employed in Monroe, where the couple will make their home.

Miss Wilks, Emmett Futch Pledge Vows

The Rev. William E. Clark of Stuttgart, Arkansas, officiated at the ceremony which united Miss Patricia Ann Wilks of West Monroe and Emmett P. Futch of Springhill. The vows were pledged Friday, August 6, at 7 p.m. in St. Paul's Methodist church in Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wilks of Ruston are parents of the bride. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Futch of Rayville.

Spiral trees of candles stood at each side of the bouquet of white gladioli which decorated the central altar of the church. Boxwood roping garlanded the chancel rail. Music was provided before the ceremony by Ronnie Brothers at the organ. He also accompanied the soloist, Jerry Futch of Monroe, brother of the groom.

As she entered on the arm of her father, the bride was wearing a full length gown of white peau de soie with lace appliques on bodice and short chapel train. A satin pill box held her veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. C. E. Cotton was her sister's matron of honor. Her dress was floor length pink taffeta with a white chiffon overskirt, styled with scoop neckline and a controlled bell skirt. Her headdress was of pink velvet flowers and tulle and she carried a nosegay of pink and white flowers.

The flower girl was little Miss Laura Carol Cotton, niece of the bride, who wore a full length dress of white chiffon over light pink taffeta. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Bobby J. Thrower of Monroe was Mr. Futch's best man, and ushers were B. F. Anderson of Monroe and Kenneth P. Futch of New Orleans.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Wilks, was attired in a beige lace sheath with accessories in a deeper shade of beige. Mrs. Futch chose blue peau de soie with white accessories. Their corsages were white cymbidium orchids.

MRS. EMMETT P. FUTCH

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Mrs. B. J. Thrower presided at the guest book, which lay on a table decorated with silver candelabra and the wedding bouquets.

The refreshment table, covered with pink satin overlaid with white net, was centered with an arrangement of pink and white summer flowers. Miss Sarah Elizabeth Young and Miss Joan Kupionis, both of Ruston, assisted in serving.

When Mr. and Mrs. Futch left on a wedding trip to Galveston, Texas, the bride was wearing an aqua A-line dress with matching jacket, aqua hat, and white accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid. Upon their return, they will live in Springhill.

Miss Knowles, R. J. Simon Jr., Reveal Plans

Miss Sherry Kaye Knowles of West Monroe is engaged to be married to Rene Joseph Simon Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene J. Simon of Baton Rouge. The announcement is made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond L. Knowles of West Monroe.

The wedding is to be celebrated at a nuptial mass at 11 a.m. Saturday, August 28, in St. Paschal's Church. The Rev. Father Vitus Duschinsky will officiate.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Duke Sr., and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Parker Knowles, all of West Monroe. As her attendants, she has named Miss Laurie Cagle, maid of honor; and bridesmaids, Miss Janice Hinton, Miss Penny Waites, and Miss Connie Simon of Baton Rouge, sister of the groom.

MISS SHERRY KAY KNOWLES

Grandparents of the prospective groom are Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Jobe of Baton Rouge. Mr. Simon is a graduate of Chamberlain-Hunt Military academy in Port Gibson and is presently a student at Northeast Louisiana State college.

Larry Bullion Jr., of Baton Rouge is to be best man. Leon Horsby and Vincent Purpera of Baton Rouge and Danny Duke III of West Monroe, cousin of the bride-elect are to usher.

Prevent Tarnish

Tarnish has no opportunity to form if table silver is washed in hot soap or detergent suds promptly after meals, rinsed with hot water, and dried with a soft towel while still warm.

Eyebrow Brush

Those tiny brushes used to apply eyebrow color need to be washed often with warm soap or detergent suds. To keep them flat, one manufacturer advises placing them under a book while drying.

Vary Dressing

Joyce Murray Is Engaged To E. H. McDowell

September 4 is the date selected for the wedding of Miss Joyce Elizabeth Murray of Bastrop and Edward Harper McDowell of Vidalia, according to announcement made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Murray of Kilbourne. Mr. McDowell is the son of Mrs. G. V. McDowell of Kilbourne and the late Mr. McDowell.

The Rev. M. J. Martin will be the officiating minister for the ceremony at 6:30 p.m. in the First Baptist church of Kilbourne.

Miss Murray has seleced as her attendants Miss Charlotte Edwards of Benton, maid of honor; and Miss Martha Stockstill, Rayville, bridesmaid.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Joyce of Kilbourne and of Mrs. J. H. Murray of Kilbourne and the late Mr. Murray. Miss Murray is a graduate of Kilbourne High school and of Northeast Louisiana State college. She has been employed as assistant home demonstration agent in Morehouse parish.

Mrs. Jane Newell of Kilbourne is the maternal grandmother of the prospective groom. His paternal grandfather is Fletcher McDowell, also of Kilbourne. The groom-elect was graduated from Kilbourne High school and from Louisiana State University. He is employed as assistant county agent in Concordia parish. The couple plan to live in Vidalia.

Advice Given For Care Of Heirloom Lace

Here are some tips from the National Institute of Drycleaning for new brides who want to care for old lace at home.

Don't clean the lace with sudsy soap unless you use a water softener. Then thoroughly remove all soap with a clear rinse. Otherwise the alkalies in the soap may remain in the fabric and turn it yellow.

Synthetic detergents in lukewarm water are preferable. In both cases use as little agitation as possible. And be careful of bleeding colors if the lace contains any dye.

IN THE ENGLISH MANNER

One new flavor in contemporary home decorating is the trend toward the "old English manor" style. Furniture manufacturers have brought our new lines emphasizing the warm, traditional feeling epitomized by the rural British life of a more easygoing era. The perfect floor surface to carry through with this decorating scheme is unglazed ceramic mosaic or quarry tile. The rich colors in the non-reflecting surface will retain their beauty indefinitely with a minimum of up keep and provide the height of authenticity.

Savory Filling

If you want a savory filling for miniature cream puffs to be served as an appetizer, you can use blue cheese mixed with cream cheese and a little sherry.

Benson-Goss Vows Heard In Natchez Church

Miss Mary Beth Goss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Goss of Natchez, became the bride of Clifford Odis Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Benson of Monroe, Friday, August 6, in the First Presbyterian church of Natchez. Dr. Jack Ruffin officiated at the double ring ceremony at six in the evening.

An arrangement of white stock, chrysanthemums, and asters, flanked with white tapers, decorated the altar of the church. Music was provided by Harold L. Koerber, organist and Mrs. Don Cameron, soloist.

Mr. Goss escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. Her wedding gown was of white silk organza appliqued on the fitted bodice with Chantilly lace. The skirt was designed with inverted pleats which fanned into a chapel train. Appliques of lace reembroidered with pearls and sequins trimmed the skirt. An openwork crown of pearls held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a nosegay of white butterfly roses.

The bride's attendants were Miss Betty Foster of Natchez, maid of honor; Miss Johnette Sentell of West Monroe, niece of the groom; and Miss Delores Lanehart, of Natchez cousin of the bride, bridesmaids. They wore identical dresses of embroidered maize yellow silk organza, styled with raised waistlines and two-tiered, floor-length skirts. Their bouquets were crescents of yellow Fuji mums.

Richard Roy Byrd of Monroe was best man. Groomsmen were Jack Alvin Lanehart, of Natchez, cousin of the bride, and Hank Hamilton of West Monroe. Candles were lighted by Joe Allen Tompkins and Mike Worley of Monroe. Cecil Green of Huntsville, Alabama, brother of the bride; Kelly and Bruce Green, of Huntsville, the bride's nephews; and Thurman Dickey of Winnsboro were ushers.

Mrs. Goss, mother of the bride, was wearing a dress of rose silk chiffon over crepe with short sleeves and a double circular panel skirt. The groom's mother, Mrs. Benson chose an aqua blue two piece crepe trimmed with embroidered roses beaded in rhinestones and pearls. Each wore an orchid corsages.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception at home following the ceremony. Arriving guests were registered by Mrs. Gregg Sentell, sister of the groom.

A silver epergne filled with white flowers centered the lace-covered refreshment table. The bride's cake and punch bowl were at either end of the table. Those who assited with serving were Mrs. Tommy Floyd, Mrs. R. J. Foster, Mrs. A. H. Lehmann, Mrs. A. A. Ainsworth, Mrs. Gene Ballew, Miss Priscilla Floyd, Miss Charlotte Smith, Miss Joy Lewis, Mrs. Bud Byrd.

When Mr. and Mrs. Benson left on a brief wedding trip, the bride was wearing a suit of blue silk linen with flower hat and a corsage of white roses. On their return they will be at home in Monroe.

MRS. CLIFFORD ODIS BENSON

MR. AND MRS. MARVIN LARRY HALEY

Carolyn Head, Marvin Haley Are Married

Miss Carolyn Gaye Head and Marvin Larry Haley were married Thursday, July 29, in the First United Pentecostal church. The Rev. E. L. Tanner performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Leon Head, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Haley, all of West Monroe.

The vows were pledged under an arch covered with magnolia leaves and ornamented with two large white wedding bells. Baskets of pink gladioli and candelabra with burning pink tapers stood at each side.

The bride, who entered the church with her father, wore a wedding dress of white satin with bodice appliqued with lace. A seed pearl tiara held her veil of illusion appliqued with lace medallions. She carried a bouquet of white stephanotis centered with a yellow-throated white orchid.

Mrs. Sheila Townsend was her sister's matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. David Reeves, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Sue Telano. They wore dresses of deep rose antique taffeta with headdresses of matching fabric with attached veiling. Their bouquets were pink asters. Candles were lighted by Misses Tina Rhodes and Gail Wood.

Glenn Quick of Columbus, Georgia, cousin of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were David Reeves, brother-in-law of the groom, Sonny Telano, Maxey Renfrow and Bobby Haley, cousins of the groom.

Summer, though hot, is not forever. There are beginning to be signs of the approaching conclusion of summer activities. Some of our campers have returned home, and some of our travelers are getting back. KERRY BRUCE is home after spending seven weeks at Camp Windywood near Pollock.

Kerry, who has been to Windywood several summers, was a counselor-in-training there this year. She was awarded the sterling silver bracelet which is the traditional annual gift to the outstanding C.I.T. Kerry brought home with her ANN KINNEBREW, daughter of the C. A KINNEBREWS of Shreveport. The girls have been at camp together for the past three years.

On Tuesday Kerry's grandmother, VEL DAVIS, entertained at luncheon honoring Ann. Eight girls of the high school set were invited to share the occasion in the Davis home at 1610 Emerson. Vel decorated her living room with green hydrangeas and centered her table with a large arrangement of fresh fruit.

A patio supper last Saturday night at the home of LUCILLE TURPIN on Loop road honored her visiting granddaughter, EVELYN LIGON and husband WALT LIGON, who are home from Nuremberg, Germany The Ligons will be here several weeks before reporting to their new station. For her party, Lucille created an informal atmosphere with the use of luau lights and votive candles surrounding the patio overlooking the bayou. Supper was served from a table centered with banana blossoms and greenery. The menu included charcoal ham, turkey, green salad, asparagus casserole, and assorted dips.

Dessert was served in the dining room. Here the table was decorated with a white china Cupid container filled with white chrysanthemums and gladioli. Guests were offered a choice of chocolate or lemon cake, with Lucille's marvelous coffee punch.

Lucille is president of the National Society, Colonial Dames, XVII Century. In this capacity she made an official visit to the Magnolia chapter in McComb, Mississippi, Thursday, speaking to the group on national goals of the society. LESSIE GARRETT accompanied her on the trip. They spent the night in McComb, returned home Friday.

Guests of SUZANNE and TOMMY GRANT were GEORGIA and BOB KUHNER of Pass Christian, Mississippi, who were here from Monday until Wednesday of this week.

On Tuesday afternoon, Tommy's mother, MARTHA GRANT, entertained at a mother-and-daughter-in-law party honoring Suzanne and Georgia. About thirty-six ladies were invited to this affair on the glazed porch at Bayou DeSiard country club. A large green container was used for the arrangement of white gladioli, and yellow daisies which centered the green-covered table. Minted iced tea was served in green glasses. Also on the menu were chicken salad sandwiches, cucumber sandwiches, cheese straws, and hot and cold hors d'oeuvres.

Visitors from Memphis last weekend were JUNE MORRIS and her son, MIKE, who were guests of PAT and MAX FUNDERBURK from Friday until Sunday. June and Pat were roommates at Baylor. The former came down to catch Pat's performance in "The King and I" at Strauss Playhouse. Saturday at noon, WAENO MAYO invited a group of six ladies for lunch and a visit with June and Pat at Bayou DeSiard country club. They ate in the dining room while a poolside party was going on for the young people: LYN, KIM, and MINOR FUNDERBURK, Mike Morris, and JOHN MAYO.

A prospective newcomer to the city, JOAN LEVY, was introduced to several members of the college set at a luncheon given by DORIS McDOWELL last Friday at Bayou DeSiard country club. Joan was here with her parents, who will soon be moving to Monroe from Salt Lake City, Utah. For the party, Doris centered her table with a brass compote filled with rusty-red asters. The menu served to seven guests included chicken cordon bleux, broccoli and onion casserole, tossed salad, white cap tomatoes, and for dessert, Kahlua pie.

Just because she felt like having a party, PAT SUGAR invited a group of ladies for luncheon before the duplicate games at Bayou DeSiard country club last Friday. Echoing the private dining room decor were the table decorations: pink carnations arranged with strawberries. Ruby-red glasses completed the appointments. Sixteen ladies were invited to share this occasion.

The table, which was covered with a lace cloth, was decorated with a bouquet of pink summer flowers, flanked with candles. The birthday cake was placed at one end, and a bowl of pink punch opposite. Thirty-eight boys and girls were invited for dancing to the record player between four and six. Favors given to the guests were barrettes for the girls, combs for the boys.

FRANCES McHENRY left Friday for a three week trip to the Hawaiian Islands. She is to travel with MARY B. STOKES of Spartansburg, South Carolina, a friend who has been a frequent visitor to Monroe; and with her aunt, MRS. A. B. MOORE and cousin, LUCY MOORE of Arkadelphia, Ark. They are travelling to Honolulu aboard the S. S. Lurline, and will visit the outer islands, including that on which the movie "South Pacific" was filmed.

Home again from a trip to Europe is MILLIE HISLOP of West Monroe. Millie who travelled with a tour visiting a number of different countries, was away nearly three months, got home Saturday.

Another returning traveler is DOROTHY SHOLARS, home again after six weeks on Nantucket Island. Dorothy visited in the little town of Siasconset, where she was the guest of the FORD CURRIERS of Shreveport. (She is Dorothy's niece, the former Caroline Sholars of Monroe.) Also in the party was the Currier's son, THOMAS S. CURRIER, who teaches law at the University of Virginia.

Two weeks in California was a treat for MABEL DOWDY, who returned from her vacation Saturday. She visited her children, the THOMAS R. DOWDYS, in Lompoc, near Vandenburg Air Force Base. She flew to Los Angeles and visited Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm, and other points of interest in Southern California.

REGINA and HENRY HAMMONDS returned the first of the week from a trip to the Gulf coast. They were accompanied by daughter ANN and her friends, MARY ANN WALKER, CANDY CAIN, and SALLY WILLIAMS. During eight days away, the group visited Mobile, Panama City, Destin, and New Orleans.

Miss Marsh, D. R. Clarkson Are Married

Miss Betty Jo Marsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Marsh of Sondheimer and David Roy Clarkson, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Clarkson of Lake Providence, were married at the First Baptist church of Sondheimer, July 30 at 7:30 p.m. The Rev. Earl Williams officated at the double ring ceremony.

Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums were alternated with branched candelabra to form a background setting for the ceremony. Miss LaDonna Dupree, pianist, presented nuptial music.

The bride, who was escorted by her father, wore a street length gown of white chiffon over taffeta with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of yellow pearlized roses centered with a yellow throated orchid mounted on a white Bible.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Patricia Ann Mayberry of Shreveport, cousin of the bride. She wore a street-length dress of yellow with pleated bodice and gathered skirt. Her bouquet was a nosegay of yellow roses and carnations. Bob Colley of Lake Providence attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were the bride's brothers, William and Jimmy Marsh.

Mrs. Marsh chose for her daughter's wedding a tailored pale blue jersey with pleated skirt and white accessories. Mrs. Clarkson was attired in beige silk linen. Both wore white carnation corsages.

The bride's parents entertained at a reception at home following the ceremony. The refreshment table was covered with white net over taffeta and centered with yellow roses. Miss Linda May Berry of Shreveport served punch and Miss Jean Tippin of Tallulah cut the cake. Others who assisted were Miss Debbie Clarkson, Lake Providence; Mrs. A. L. Schrempp, Dallas, Texas; and Miss Alice Eubanks, Tallulah.

Richmond-Defreese Vows Heard In Ruston Church

Miss Linda Sue DeFreese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lonnie DeFreese of Ruston, became the bride of John D. Fred Richmond Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Richmond of Ruston on Saturday, August 7, at 7:30. The Rev. James W. Lipscomb performed the double ring ceremony in the Ruston Presbyterian church.

A center arch of candles flanked on either side by candle trees with white tapers decorated the altar of the church. Garlands of English ivy twined the choir rail, with standards holding massive bouquets of white gladioli, chrysanthemums, and leatherleaf fern at each side. Music was provided by Jim Lipscomb at the organ and Mrs. W. Y. Thompson, soloist.

Mr. DeFreese escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. Her dress of white peau de soie was styled with Sabrina neckline embellished with Chantilly lace and iridescents; fitted front panel and back fullness drifting into a train. Her shoulder length veil fell from a a coronet of pearls. She carried a cascade of feathered white carnations centered with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the groom.

The bride's attendants were Miss Patricia Dianne Henry of Ruston, maid of honor; and Miss Kathleen Higgs and Miss Mary Katherine Richmond, sister of the groom, bridesmaids. They wore floor length dresses of pale blue taffeta with slim skirts and jackets of matching chantilly lace. Their headdresses were blue Chanel bows with blue tulle. They carried bouquets of white carnations with English ivy, tied with long blue streamers.

The groom's father, J. F. Richmond was best man. Groomsmen-ushers were Brody Dean Telford and Phillip Ray Lawson, both of Ruston.

A reception in the church parlors followed the wedding ceremony. A nine-branched white candelabra holding votive candles and entwined with English ivy and stephanotis adorned the table where Miss Mary Elizabeth Darling invited guests to sign the bride's book.

The refreshment table, overlaid with an imported linen cloth, was centered with a white spiral bridal taper flanked with colonial bouquets of white feathered carnations and English ivy, Mrs. Stillman Willis of Doyline, Louisiana, cousin of the bride, served the bride's cake. Mrs. M. L. DeFreese of West Monroe, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. A. L. Brooks of Sicily Island, cousin of the bride, alternated at the punch bowl. Tea girls were Misses Camille Duschene of Ruston and Nan Brooks of Sicily Island, cousin of the bride.

Church Ceremony Unites Carol Cole, John D. Nies

Dr. William F. Mansell of Vicksburg officiated at the ceremony which united Miss Carol Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winnie E. Cole of Monroe and John Davison Nies, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Nies of Denver, Colorado. The vows were heard in the First Presbyterian church Friday evening, August 6, at 6:30.

A pyramid of magnolia foliage was placed at the base of the Cross which centers the altar. At each side was a spiral candelabrum flanked with seven branch candelabra and large California Woodwardia trees. Two large arrangements of gladioli, chrysanthemums, agapanthia, and pom pons filled urns atop white pedestals.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Ernest Seago of Vicksburg at the organ and Garland Shell, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of ivory pure silk peau de soie with scoop neckline outlined with a band of imported alencon lace. The semi-belled skirt was topped with a double detachable cathedral train reembroidered with motifs of lace. On her head she wore a lace cap with shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of white bride's roses centered with a white Cattalya orchid against a background of miniature English ivy.

Miss Roslyn Ann Walker of Columbia attended the bride as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Clayton Cole, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Owen Owen, both of Monroe. They wore ensembles of powder blue silk linen with floor length skirts and waist length jackets. They each carried a single long stemmed Golden Rapture rose.

Junior bridesmaid was Miss Catherine Sullivan Cole, sister of the bride, who wore powder blue silk linen styled on empire lines and trimmed with matching velveteen ribbon. She carried a miniature nosegay of yellow roses in a lace holder. The bride's niece, Deborah Ann Cole, was flower girl. Her flowers were yellow roses and ivy in a lace and satin basket.

Owen O. Owen of Monroe was Mr. Nies's best man. Donald A. Styron of Houston, Texas; William M. Faust of Rayville; and William H. Epperson of Denver, Colorado, were groomsmen. The bride's brother, Henry Cole and Clayton Cole of Monroe, were ushers.

Mrs. Cole chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of pale green crepe with cowl neckline and softly gathered skirt. Mrs. Nies wore yellow raw silk with matching accessories. Each wore a white orchid corsage.

Reception

The bride's parents were hosts for a reception at Bayou DeSiard country club. Mrs. John M. Yeldell and Mrs. Ralph Brockman greeted guests in the foyer. Here, atop a table set before a gold-leaf mirror, was a three-tiered arrangement of white blossoms set in opaque stemmed containers.

Two large lemons trees were placed at the entrance to the ballroom. Mrs. John Jordan, Mrs. George M. Snellings III, and Miss Jan Adcock invited guests to register in the bride's book.

On the grand piano was massive bouquet of mixed yellow blooms arranged around a nine branch brass candelabra holding votive lights. Outside, visible through the glazed porch, was a thirty-branch candle tree, decorated with magnolia foliage and lighted with green votive candles.

The refreshment tables were covered with floor length cloths of yellow satin overlaid with embroidered French organdy. The bride's cake, iced with pale yellow with deeper yellow roses and a single white orchid, centered a long table. At each side were glass candlesticks in graduated sizes holding champagne-colored candles. Brass candelabra with lighted tapers stood on pedestals which formed a background for the table. Mrs. John Eby, Mrs. C. S. Foster, Mrs. Foster Wallace, Mrs. W. F. McGehee of Vicksburg, Mrs. J. L. Adams, and Mrs. Robert McDowell cut the cake.

Similar decorations were used on the table for the groom's cake, which was placed on the porch. This cake was served by Mrs. C. J. Turpin, Mrs. Lawrence Shipman, Mrs. David Marchman, Mrs. James Wallace, Mrs. John Tolson of Lafayette, Mrs. Kenneth Inabnett, and Mrs. Louis Peters.

Each of two punch tables was centered with a tree of fresh grapes and foliage. Punch was served by Mrs. T. H. Woods, Mrs. Fred Amman, Mrs. J. B. Johnston Jr., Mrs. Charles Ledoux, Mrs. E. J. Curran and Mrs. L. S. Dunlap of Mobile, Alabama, Mrs. Roy McCue, Mrs H. W. McSherry, Mrs. Arthur Grant, Mrs. Guy Campbell, Mrs. V. H. Rivers and Mrs. R. J. Caverlee.

Sandwiches were passed by Mrs. Fred Polen, Mrs. L. E. Ducote, Mrs. Joe Goyne, and Mrs. Truman Van Veckhoven. Tea girls were Miss Carol Genung, Mrs. Guy Luno, Mrs. Conroy Hines, Miss Charlene Bogle, Mrs. Henry Cole, Mrs. Morris King, Miss Ellen Ferguson, Miss Natalie McDuff, Mrs. James Wroten, Mrs. Dickie Culpepper, Mrs. Henry Biedenharn III, Mrs. Dixon Johnston, Miss Carol Koontz, Miss Sandra Fitch, Miss Ann Biedenharn of Vicksburg, Miss Sherry Wood and Miss Betty Lou McDowell of Texarkana, Ark., Miss Betty Ann Inabnett, Miss Kathy McSherry, Miss Minta Goyne, Miss Carolyn Wroten of New Orleans, Miss Susan Sudduth of Vicksburg, Miss Harriet Murray and Miss Maidye Jean Strickland.

MISS JANICE ANN CLARK

West Monroe Couple Plan August Vows

The chapel of the First Baptist church in West Monroe will be the scene of the wedding of Miss Janice Ann Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William I. Clark and Larry DeWitt Pittard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Pittard, all of West Monroe. Dr. Clifton Tennison will hear the vows at 7:30 p.m., August 19.

Miss Clark has chosen as her attendants Mrs. Joe F. Wisenor and Mrs. Dickie Worthey. The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Ellen Collie and the late Lawrence Collie; and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Clark. A graduate of West Monroe High school, she attended Northeast Louisiana State college. Her sorority is Beta Delta.

The prospective groom has named Dickie Worthey as his best man. Groomsmen are to be Roy Charles Pittard, brother of the groom, Ricky Riser, and Billy Rushton.

Mr. Pittard's grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Pittard and R. W. Kemp and the late Mrs. Mat- Monroe High school and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute.

The couple will live in West Monroe.

Fashion Gets Reverse In Fall Coat Picture

The nation's trend-setting designers are displaying coats that are as good on the inside as they are on the outside and can be worn either side out.

Often, the inside story is a soft touch — fur, real or synthetic. The reverse coats that are all fabric frequently feature a plaid or a check on the inside and a solid color on the outside.

The new love for the reverse coat was among trends noted by members of the New York couture group and American designer showings.

Fur accents on suits and coats included fur ascots, fur circling hems, necklines and cuffs.

Designer Anne Fogarty has never seen a purple cow but she's had a vision of yellow rabbits. It was so strong that she dyed rabbit skins yellow and made a coat out of them.

Monkey Suit

Three Ritter costumes in monkey fur showed a touch of whimsey. The "monkey suit," was a two-piece slender column of black monkey fur.

Miss Rosemary Upshaw Weds Randy L. Ewing

Memorial Methodist church was the setting for the wedding Saturday, August 7, of Miss Rosemary Upshaw of Monroe and Randy Lew Ewing of Jonesboro. The Rev. Ira Flowers officiated at the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Jefferson Upshaw Sr., of 2410 Katherine Drive, Monroe. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ewing of Jonesboro.

Three tiers of branched candelabra holding cathedral tapers extended the length of the altar. Gothic pedestals topped with bouquets of white stock, gladioli, chrysanthemums and calla lilies stood at each side of the prie dieu. Music was provided by Mrs. Claude Dillingham, organist, and Mrs. Estelle Sanders, soloist.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of antique ivory silk peau de soie was designed with empire bodice of reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. The narrowed A-line skirt, appliqued with medallions of lace, flowed into a full length cathedral train. A shoulder length tulle mantilla framed with matching imported lace formed the bridal headdress. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of white bridal roses, stephanotis, and ivory satin streamers.

Attendants of the bride were Miss Doll Burgoyne of Monroe, maid of honor; Mrs. Elton Jefferson, Upshaw, Jr., sister - in-law of the bride, matron of honor; Miss Susan Ferguson, cousin of the bride, and Miss Ellen Ferguson, both of Monroe; Miss Nancy Bickham, Shreveport; Miss Toddy Gomilla, New Orleans, Miss Susan Dietrich, Minden, bridesmaids; and Miss Janet Vaughan of Monroe, junior bridesmaids.

They wore identical ankle-length dresses of champagne beige English lawn, styled with gently scooped necklines outlined with matching tatting. Elbow length sleeves were accented with Edwardian ruffs of ecru Cluny lace. A band of ivy green velvet ribbon with long streamers accented the lifted waistline. Their headdresses were tiaras of English ivy. Each wore wrist length beige kid gloves and carried a single long stemmed yellow Rhapsody rose with satin streamers.

Terry O. Ewing, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Elton Jefferson Upshaw, Jr., brother of the bride; John Blackman of Monroe; Steve Reeves and George Ronald Woods of Arcadia; John P. Garrett and James L. Phillips of Jonesboro. Paul Stinson and Ed Stinson, III were ringbearers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Upshaw selected a two piece ensemble of seafoam green with blouse of Venetian lace and skirt of stardome silk twill. Her coif was of matching Venetian lace and she wore green silk shoes. Her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids. The groom's mother, Mrs. Ewing, chose soft yellow imported silk crepe with back panels edged in silk tassels. Her hat was a pillbox of flowers in yellows and green, overlaid with maline; and her other accessories of yellow silk. Her corsage was yellow cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Upshaw Jr. were hosts at a reception at Bayou DeSiard country club. They greeted the guests in the foyer, which was decorated with a mass arrangement of white stock, carnations, chrysanthemums, and calla lilies in a footed silver urn.

Just inside the ballroom was the bride's book table with a memory candle in a silver bowl with white carnations, maline, and tube roses. Mrs. John W. Wilson, cousin of the groom, invited guests to register. At either end of the room were Gothic pedestals topped with bouquets of white stock, carnations, and calla lilies.

A white linen cutwork cloth covered a round table where the tiered wedding cake, decorated with fresh yellow garnet roses, was placed. Atop the cake were the miniature china bride and groom which were used at the grooms' parents' wedding. Mrs. Ed Walker Stinson Jr., Mrs. Bess H. Burns, and Mrs. Travis Harris cut the cake.

Twin refreshment tables, overlaid with imported linen and lace cloths, were centered with white stock, carnations, chrysanthemums and tuberoses in footed silver tureens. Tapers burned in five-branch candelabra tied with maidenhair fern. Mrs. J. R. Waites, Mrs. Joseph Reeves, and Mrs. Leon Walker presided at the punch bowl. Coffee was served by Mrs. W. M. Greene, Mrs. H. W. Ayres, and Mrs. Morris Wright of Shreveport, and Mrs. Otto Ferguson of Monroe.

Following the reception, the young couple left on a wedding trip to the Cumberland mountians. The bride was wearing a suit of emerald green basket weave linen with slim skirt and two button Chelsea jacket accented with a hand rolled rose. Ragland sleeves fell in soft puffs to the elbows. She wore a black velvet pillbox, other accessories of black kid, and a white rose corsage.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Ewing will be at home in Baton Rouge, where both are seniors at Louisiana State university.

Tote Bag Seen As Favorite

Fall's favorite tote bag will be in the shopping bag shape started by Bonnie Cashin in 1962. At that time she did a full-size shopping bag in crushed leather which became the favorite tote of fashionable women everywhere.

In subsequent seasons Miss Cashin scaled down the shopping bag to a medium size that could double as a shoe tote. Last winter she introduced the "Dinky" tote, a cocktail bag shortened and pared down.

Cocktail totes in shopping bag shape are a big fall fashion. In these days when women carry a half dozen items even for dress-up, the tote is a needed item for evening. Besides every kind of grained and smooth leather, the tote now appears in brocades and satins, with a zip pocket added inside.

Allen-Blair Vows Read In Pastor's Study

Miss Frances Gail Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Blair, 508 Vernon, West Monroe, became the bride of Jerry Calvin Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Allen, 216 Lilac, West Monroe, in a ceremony solemnized Friday, August 6.

Vows were exchanged in the pastor's study of the First Baptist Church, West Monroe, with Dr. Clifton Tennison performing the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m.

The bride wore a street length gown of white cotton lace, styled with scoop neckline, long tapered sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her veil of white tulle fell shoulder length from a headpiece of tulle petals. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of tuberoses and carnations, showered with long satin streamers.

Miss Martha Browder, maid of honor, wore a two piece frock of yellow snow-flecked cotton with white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations. Bobby Blair, brother of the bride, attended Mr. Allen as best man.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a pink sheath with white accessories and the groom's mother wore a light blue sheath with beige accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the reception room of the First National Bank in West Monroe. The bride's table, covered with white net over a yellow cloth, was centered with a massive arrangement of yellow and white flowers.

The yellow and white theme of the wedding was carried out in all appointments. The white wedding cake, trimmed in yellow was served by Mrs. Betty Cobb and alternating at the crystal punch bowl at opposite end of the table were Mrs. Doris Browder and Miss Claudette Campbell. Mrs. Laura Walter presided at the guest book.

For going away the bride changed into an antique white three piece knit ensemble with cranberry red accessories and the corsage from her bouquet. After a short wedding trip the couple will be at home in Bastrop where Mr. Allen is employed.

MRS. ROBERT LANE TERRAL

Kaye Barrett Is Bride Of Robert Terrall

Miss Kaye Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Barrett of El Dorado, Arkansas, became the bride of Robert Lane Terral, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Terral of Farmerville on Friday, July 30. The Rev. Curtis Johnson officiated at the double ring ceremony at 8 p.m. in Harmony Baptist church.

Baskets of white gladioli and an arch of candles decorated the church. Music was provided by Mrs. Shirley Vines, pianist, and Mrs. Billy Roy Donahue, soloist. Candles were lighted by Miss Becky Aldridge, niece of the groom, of Virginia, and Miss Susie Henderson, Ruston, cousin of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full length dress of Chantilly lace over taffeta and a veil of nylon tulle. Her bouquet of white carnations was centered with an orchid.

Her attendants were Miss Francis Peace of Junction City, maid of honor; and Miss Myrtis Smith of Junction City and Mrs. Stan Pipkin of Camden, bridesmaids. Their dresses of pink satin were worn with jackets of embroidered nylon. The flower girl, Faye Henderson of Shreveport, wore pink organza over satin.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Barrett, was attired in a dress of blue seeded crepe with beige accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations. Mrs. Terral, mother of the groom, wore a similar corsage with her dress of rose silk linen.

Wood Types Described For Furniture Guide

CHICAGO (UPI) — Puzzled about the type of wood to choose for furniture? The Fine Hardwoods Association recommends six types of hardwoods.

Birch and Maple — the natural blondes adapt well to lighter-toned modern furniture. Strong, satiny-smooth birch also is good in warm, brown tones for provincial pieces. Maple, which is extremely hard, makes sturdy furniture for children.

Oak — Durable enough for flooring, it is masculine looking, with a coarse grain and more texture than other woods. Used in boys' bedrooms or dens, it can give the suburban home a "country estate" air.

Cherry — The only true fruitwood now in general use ranges from a tawny tone to a soft brown in its natural state. Its inconspicuous grain and subtle figure pattern make it an excellent choice for the single "important" piece. Long used in provincial furniture, cherry recently has been styled into sleek modern lines.

Miss Fontenot Is Engaged To Thomas L. Day

Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Fontenot Sr., of Jennings are today announcing the engagement of their daughter, Miss Bonnie Fontenot of Monroe, to Thomas L. Day, also of Monroe. Parents of the prospective groom are Mrs. B. M. Crooks of Pineville and Dick Day Sr., of Columbia.

The ceremony is to be at 2 p.m. Sunday, September 12, in Our Lady Help of Christians Catholic church in Jennings, with Father Marine officiating.

Miss Fontenot has chosen her sister, Mrs. Charles Dupre, as matron of honor. The bride-elect is a graduate of Jennings High school and attended the University of Southwestern Louisiana.

Mr. Day's best man will be James V. Downey. Ushers are to be Rondal G. Dees and Allen W. Fontenot Jr.

The prospective groom is a graduate of Columbia High school and is presently a student at Northeast Louisiana State college, where he is a member of Phi Delta Chi. The couple will live in Monroe.

Martha Elizabeth Foster Weds W. C. Sanders, Jr.

On Friday, August 6, Miss Martha Elizabeth Foster became the bride of Wendell Clarence Sanders Jr., in a ceremony performed by the Rev. T. Earl Ogg in College Place Baptist church at 7:30 p.m. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Emett Jefferson Foster, while the groom is the son of Wendell C. Sanders of Eros and the late Mrs. Sanders.

Church decorations included pedestal baskets of large white mums and standards of glowing tapers entwined with smilax. Mrs. Claude L. Dillingham, organist, and Max Dillingham, soloist provided a pre - nuptial concert.

Mr. Foster escorted his daughter to the altar. She was wearing a full length gown of candlelight silkface peau de soie with bodice appliqued with alencon lace. Medallions of lace were appliqued on the bellskirt and separate chapel train. She wore a headdress of tiny handmade roses surrounded by a fingertip veil of silk illusion. Her bouquet was a cascade of glamellias and camellia forliage.

The bride was attended by Miss Mickey Burford of Waco, Texas, maid of honor; Mrs. Charles McCullen, matron of honor; and Miss Paulette Helm, Slidell, Miss Marjorie Ann Hammons, Monroe, and Miss Gloria Jeanne Sistrunk, Lake Charles, bridesmaids. Their identical full length gowns of montego peau de soie were designed on empire lines with scoop necklines and flowing back panels. Their headdresses were clusters of tiny roses encircled with montego illusion. Each carried a cascade of white calla lilies and camellia foliage.

Mr. Sanders attended his son as best man and groomsmen-ushers were Charles McCullen, Robert E. Crowe, III, of Ruston, William Davis and Wayne Bunn.

Mrs. Foster wore for her daughter's wedding a street length ecru linen sheath with bodice overlaid with imported French lace, complimented with matching accessories and a green orchid. Mrs. Wayne Bunn, sister of the groom, chose lime green crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of bronze orchids. The bride's maternal grandmother Mrs. W. F. Odom, was attired in a delphinium blue silk ensemble with a white orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Miss Linda Blair invited guests to register in the bride's book, which was placed on a table draped with run length satin caught with bows of white net and lilies of the valley.

The bride's cake and the groom's cake were served from identical round tables, covered with white satin and decorated with fleur d'amour and tube roses. Mrs. Ray Foster, Mrs. Fairell Ketchell, Mrs. Howard Stanley and Mrs. James Taylor cut the cakes.

A silver candelabra - epergne holding fleur d'amour, tube roses, and aqua tapers centered the satin - covered refreshment table. Mrs. Marshall Sistrunk and Mrs. Kenneth Beck served punch from silver bowls at either end of the table. Tea girls were Misses Susan Stanley, Deborah Edminston, Ruth Evelyn Brooks, Jeanne Page Foster, Kay Sanders, and Julianna Hales.

Rice bags were distributed by Misses Jo Ann Stanley, Terri Edminston, and Rhonda Tonore. Others who assisted were Mrs. Jesse Edminston, Mrs. H. C. Sutton, Mrs. L. N. Larche, and Mrs. J. Y. Brooks.

Your Problems

Snub Of Attendants' Parents Is Bad Taste

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A girl I know (but have never been close to) asked me to be a bridesmaid at her wedding. I tried to refuse graciously but she was so insistent I finally accepted.

I spent $40 on a dress and $12 on shoes. I also bought her a shower gift and wedding gift. My parents paid for everything because I am a high school student and have no money of my own.

The wedding invitations were sent out last week and I was sure my parents would receive one. They did not. The mother of the bride met my mother at a party yesterday and told her she was sorry they could not invite them to the wedding because the church was so small.

I am very upset. My folks want to see me in the wedding procession and I want them to be there. Who is wrong and what should be done?—OFFENDED

Dear Offended: The parents of the attendants should always be invited to the wedding — regardless of the size of the church. Tell the bride exactly how you feel. If your parents don't receive an invitation promptly your friend's family is guilty of atrocious taste.

Dear Ann Landers: On New Year's eve my husband and I made a pact to quit smoking. Hank was a much heavier smoker than I was so I knew it would be more difficult for him to quit. Well, Ann, he hasn't touched a cigaret since the night we made the agreement, but I started three weeks ago when I found half a pack of cigarets which had been left by a guest.

Last night when Hank came home he saw a cigaret butt in the garbage pail. He asked me who had been smoking. I lied and said the plumber had come to fix the sink. He picked the cigaret butt out of the garbage pail and said, "Since when did the plumber start to wear lipstick?" I felt like a trapped rat.

Now Hank insists the only way I can square things is to quit smoking for good. I don't want to quit. (Perhaps I should be honest and say I don't think I can quit. Furthermore, I resent his bossiness. Please give me your most broadminded, liberal opinion.— LYDIA

Dear Lydia: My most broadminded, liberal opinion is that a woman who made a deal with her husband should keep it. You say you can't quit. I say anybody can quit if he makes up his mind. A person who is addicted to tobacco will find it very difficult, but not impossible.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope

MR. AND MRS. A. EARL BEARD

Susan Harnar, A. Earl Beard Are Married

Miss Susan Gaile Harnar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgie Harnar, and A. Earl Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Beard of West Monroe were married Friday, July 30. The Rev. Leon Sims performed the ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in Mount Pleasant Congregational church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white lace. A crown of seed pearls held her waist length veil. She carried a white Bible topped with a bridal bouquet.

Miss Gayle Beard, cousin of the groom, was the bride's only attendant. Jess J. Heckford was best man. Ushers were Phillip Sims and Johnny Wayne Clark. Music was provided by Mrs. E. B. Coughlin, organist, and Mrs. S. D. Crawford, soloist.

A reception was held in the social room of the church following the ceremony. Miss Barbara Sims attended the bride's book.

The bridal table was covered with pink net and centered with an arrangement of pink and blue flowers. Mrs. Beatrice Mann and Mrs. Myra Herrod, grandmother of the groom, served the punch. Mrs. Leon Sims cut the cake.

MISS LURA DIANE McCAIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James William McCain of Winnsboro, is engaged to be married to Lowen Bloice Loftin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowenthal B. Loftin of Holly Ridge. The wedding is planned for 7 p.m. Saturday, September 4, in the First Baptist church of Winnsboro with the Rev. Joe Mongle officiating.

MISS CAROLYN WORLEY, daughter of Mrs. Pearline Worley of West Monroe will become the bride of Rodney Howington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howington of Wisner. August 19 is date set for the wedding. Mr. Howington, a graduate of Wisner High school, is presently a student at Northeast Louisiana State college.

MISS LINDA ANN DESTEFANO

Local Couple Plans August Wedding Vows

The engagement of Miss Linda Ann DeStefano to Michael T. Ultzsch is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo DeStefano of Monroe. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Ultzsch, also of Monroe. The wedding is planned for August 20.

Mrs. Sharon Humble is to attend Miss DeStefano as matron of honor. The groom has named Jimmy Brasher as best man.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Embanato, and was graduated from Ouachita Parish high school. Also a Ouachita graduate, Mr. Ultzsch is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Reynolds and Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Utlzsch.

The couple plan to live in Monroe.

Luncheon Salad

Ever add sliced water chestnuts to a shrimp salad for lunch? Moisten the salad with oil-and-vinegar dressing.

Quick Sauce

Eat, Eat, Eat Yet Lose Weight

It's no news that if you starve yourself, you'll lose weight, running the risk of serious vitamin deficienceis and damage to your health. But did you know that you can actually lose weight faster while eating quantities and quantities of food, and in the bargain, increase your vitality and improve your physical condition.

This is explained in simple terms with a diet guaranteed to take the pounds away, and never go hungry.

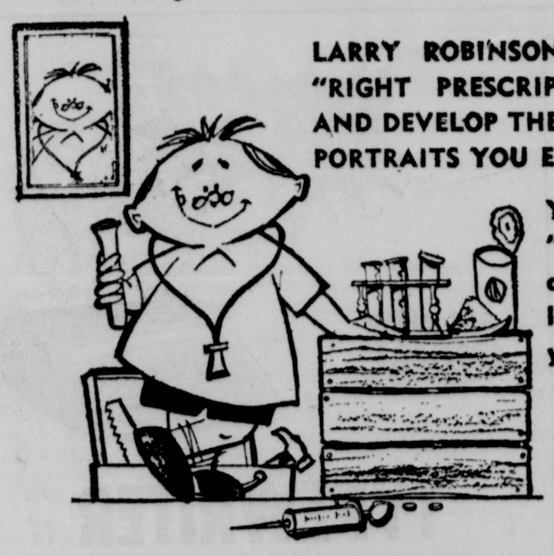

This surprising Paradox is the conclusion arrived at by Dr. Heinz Humplik of Vienna, after fourteen years of study and clinical experience, on the relationship between food and weight.

The scientific explanation sounds so simple, it seems extraordinary that no one had figured it out before: The decisive factor in gaining or losing weight is not the total number of calories you eat, but the form in which the calories are eaten. Dr. Humplik has taken into adequate consideration the body's role in converting food into energy. And this turns out to be the crux of the whole thing. Dr. Humplik's whole concept of plus-calorie foods and minus-calorie foods is not only news, but a revolutionary breakthrough to a deeper understanding of body function and diet.

In contrast to a hard-boiled egg is relatively easy to digest and represents plus-calorie food. So do fruit juices. But whole oranges and grapefruits eaten with their pulp, unpeeled apples and pears, all count as minus - calorie food. The more you eat of these minus-calorie foods, the more fat reserves you must deplete to digest them, and consequently, the more weight you will lose.

If you have ever had the dreary experience of trying to lose weight by limiting daily calorie intake, you should revel in this new kind of diet.

MRS. WILLIAM WAYNE BASSETT

William Wayne Bassett Claims Bride In Florida

A ceremony performed Saturday, August 7, in North Miami, Florida, united William Wayne Bassett of Rayville, and his bride, Miss Margaret Melodye Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moulton of North Miami Beach. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bassett of Rayville, formerly of Monroe.

The Rev. James Moriarity officiated at the double ring ceremony at noon in The Church of the Holy Family. Gold capped cathedral candles were placed on the altar, with two fountain arrangements of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums. At each side were white pedestals topped with baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. Pre-nuptial music was provided by Mrs. A. Buzone at the organ.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Mr. Moulton. Her floor-length gown of Swiss crepe and silk peau de soie was styled with bateau neckline and long sleeves. The slim skirt was topped with a wide beaded contour belt which held the chapel train. Her elbow-length veil of French illusion was held by a double Austrian crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a formal cascade of white bridal roses.

Miss Valerie Moulton, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Jane Nilon and Miss Cynthia Geake of Miami and Miss Barbara Sedlacek of Fort Lauderdale. They wore identical floorlength gowns of pink crepe with bateau necklines and elbow length sleeves. Emphasizing the raised waistlines were contour bands of burgundy satin which ended in bow at the back. Their headdresses of pink illusion were held by handmade flowers of pink crepe. They carried formal cascades of pink carnations and deep red roses.

Flower girl was little miss Chari Ann Chiodo, niece of the bride, who wore a floorlength dress of pink silk organza over taffeta. Her headdress was a wreath of miniature pink roses, and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink and red roses with pink satin streamers.

Mr. Bassett attended his son as best man. Ushers were H. L. Bassett of Orlando, Florida, cousin of the groom; John F. Harkness Jr., and Donald Alpaugh of Miami. Chad Chiodo, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Moulton was wearing a three piece costume suit of silver blue imported silk. The chiffon shell blouse was embroidered with blue bugle beads and crystals. She wore a small blue feather hat and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Bassett, mother of the groom, chose beige silk organza embellished with Schliffi embroidery. She wore matching accessories and a deep pink orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony, the couple were honored at a wedding dinner in the Rubaiyat room of the Algiers hotel in Miami Beach. Mrs. James W. Goodwin, of Beaumont, Texas, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book. Others who assited in receiving were Mrs. Loyd Sharbono of Houston, sister of the groom; and Mrs. W. M. Anderson of Monroe, grandmother of the groom.

The bride's table was covered with pink pleated satin and centered with pink roses and white bridal doves. Individual tables, covered with pink linen, were decorated with silver candelabra tied with pink roses and stock. Arnie Barnett's orchestra provided music during dinner and for dancing later.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to Nassau, Mrs. Bassett was wearing a suit of silk linen with navy skirt and white double breasted jacket. Upon their return, they will be at home in New Orleans.

The bride, a graduate of Notre Dame Academy in Miami, is to receive her degree from Loyola university in January, 1966. She is on the Dean's List, and is a member of Theta Phi Alpha and Lambda Sigma Lambda sororities. Mr. Bassett is a graduate of Neville High school and Louisiana Tech, where he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha. He is presently enrolled in Loyola University School of Dentistry, and is to receive his degree in dentistry in June, 1966. He is a member of Delta Sigma Delta professional fraternity.

Brush and Palette

Art work - work of art - work-in your mind-you race over the word work not realizing that is what is, work! The bold splashes of color on canvas seemingly brushed on at great random with such happy flourishes, present an enigma to the beholder. The painting inevitably mocks its Creator and the artist always feels that it was never quite completed. Always, he puts part of himself into his painting, never with the satisfaction that he evolves from a mere thought, a painting, such as: composition, color, value, and technique — the artist struggles, and when he confronts that stark white canvas he is invariably faced with an acute moment of terror! Besides his own private battle within himself and all his own misgivings; the artist is tempered somewhat by the discriminating "critics," most of whom refuse to accept any new movement that might offer "the great challenge." So he says to himself, "I will please myself" and he never does.

The well-known painter and sculptor, Alberto Giacometti, now featured at New York's Museum of Modern Art is referred to as "the agonizing sculptor and painter." He has been known to work for months on sketches and drawings for a painting, and after many hours of self-condemnation will throw all away in complete frustration. He considers his work a stepping stone to what he will later accomplish. In his own words, "When I see an exhibition of my own things, I'm the first to think that they're better than anyone else does. Then I realize that that has absolutely no relationship to what I hope to be able to do, so I conclude that they are really no good at all."

Recently, I had the privilege of seeing his present show in New York. His gaunt metal sculpture of the human form ranged in size from a minute ¼ inch to a soaring 25 feet. Each personified Giacometti's attitude toward his work — he is never quite satisfied with himself. But I stood in awe before this great, honest man's work because he has put himself into every powerful, magnificent piece — and I walked away knowing him, and in some odd way knowing myself a little better. For artists have this feeling toward their work — all to some degree, and it is comforting to know that a truly great one shares the inherent plight that seems to befall our lot!

LOCAL ART NEWS

The Masur Museum of Art will open its doors September 12, 1965, with a truly fine exhibit by Shreveport's Contemporary Art Group. Ark-La-Miss patrons may look forward to another impressive season of carefully selected art work. The exhibits are scheduled to run as last season, with a new show each month. The Art Center, Inc. reports that the coming shows will be especially interesting to the people in our area.

MR. AND MRS. B. J. POST will be honored this afternoon with a reception at their home in Bernice on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. Hosts for the party between the hours of two and five are to be the couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Waymon Post of Farmerville, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Post of Ferriday, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Otwell of Ruston, and C. E. Post of La Puenta, California.

Committee For Day School Meets Friday

The Parents' Committee of Covenant Day school met at the home of the chairman, Mrs. C. G. Pearce Jr., Friday, August 6 to hear reports on preregistration.

Mrs. J. A. Faucett, kindergarten teacher, reported a full enrollment. There are a few vacancies still to be filled in the new department for four-year-olds, to be taught by Mrs. John Ensminger.

DOESN'T PLAY WHAT HE MAKES

BEATTYVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Donally Cole can't play a musical instrument. He can't even tune one.

Cole, a 50-year-old locktender at nearby Heidelberg, is right handy, though, as a craftsman. Using hand tools and woods native to the Kentucky mountains, he's turned out a guitar, banjo, violin and started on a ukelele.

Coty Awards Stir Fashion Controversy

By Florence de Santis

The Coty Fashion Critics Award is regarded by designers as the most important of fashion prizes, although it consists solely of a gold statuette called a Winnie. Sponsored by the big cosmetics company, it is given each year by a jury of the magazine and newspaper fashion editors based in New York.

Seldom does it fail to arouse controversy, either over who got it or who didn't get it. Two years ago, when Rudi Gernreich, America's most avant-garde designer, won the Winnie, dean of designers Norman Norell sent back his three-time Winnie which had retired him as one of only four designers to be elevated to a permanent Hall of Fame.

This year, for the first time in the nearly quarter of a century that the Coty has existed, the 70-odd ladies of the jury awarded no Coty. Instead, they elected to give citations to a group of what they called "young designers," who had been influential in what is usually called sportswear.

They passed over the darlings of the fashion Establishment. No Bill Blass, no Molie Parnis, no Geoffrey Beene, no Donald Brooks — and especially no John Moore. Mr. Moore is almost the only Establishment designer who has not yet had a Coty. It seemed a good bet he would get this year's, but "Women's Wear Daily" mounted an ill-advised campaign to push his candidacy (quite without Mr. Moore's wishes) and the jury balked, as women will when told what to do.

Killed In Bar

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Police said Ewell (Ray) Menard, 32, New Orleans, was killed Saturday during a quarrel with a bar owner.

The owner, Stratton Hembree, 38, told officers he ordered two men out of the bar and snatched up his .38 revolver and fired when one of them drew a pistol.

Police said Hembree was booked with murder.

Hembree said both men were drunk when they entered his bar and he had refused them service. He said the man with Menard fled after the shooting.

Police said Tom Jump, 37, was arrested later. He was booked on disturbing the peace.

Money Stolen

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— Mrs. Louis Holland, 65, told police Saturday two men disguised as house painters robbed her of $3,500 after threatening to kill her.

Mrs. Holland said the men asked to inspect her home to see if it needed painting.

She said after she let them in, one of the men threatened to shoot her, took the money, then put her in a room and fled.

Graduate Divisions

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)— A university-wide graduate division and graduate schools on two New Orleans campuses have been established by the Louisiana State University Board of Supervisors, it was announced Saturday.

The new division, which will coordinate graduate studies on all campuses in the LSU system, is comprised of the existing graduate school on the main campus here and newly-created graduate schools at the medical center and at LSU's lake front campus in New Orleans.

Women Lawyers

Crowville Church

CROWVILLE (Special) — The First Baptist Church of Crowville will hold a youth-led revival Monday, Aug. 9, through Sunday, Aug. 15.

Bible study will be held daily at 10 a.m. and evening worship services will begin at 7:30 p.m. following 7:15 prayer services.

Young men from Winnsboro and Crowville will be guest speakers and the public has been invited to attend.

Rayville Meeting

Rayville (Special) — The Rayville Town Council will meet Monday at 7 p.m., at the City Hall.

Horses Drawing Surrey Charge Into Spectators

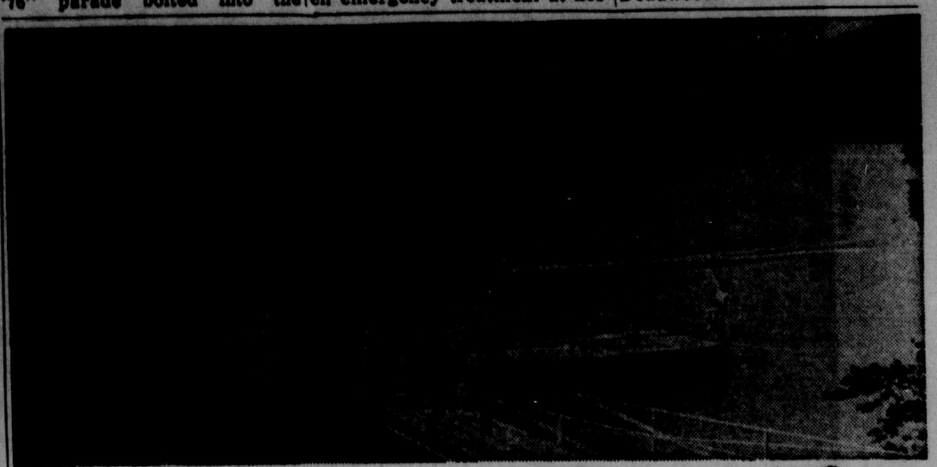

DEADWOOD, S.D. (AP) — Two horses pulling a surrey in Deadwood's annual "Days of '76" parade bolted into the crowd Saturday, injuring seven persons.

One boy, James Pickett of Lead, was hospitalized with undetermined injuries after a wheel of the rig passed over his body. Helen Harrington of Central City was hospitalized with a back injury.

Sheriff Richard McGrath said the horses bolted when the tongue broke on the surrey, driven by Robert Clausen of Eagle Butte.

"Days of '76" is celebrated each year in recollection of the Gold Rush days of the last century when Wild Bill Hickok and Calamity Jane were residents of Deadwood.

Pilots Cautioned

BELLE CHASSE, La. (UPI)— River pilots have been cautioned about navigating near Belle Chasse on the Mississippi River following Friday's accident in which a 360-foot leg from an oil rig collapsed and sank.

The Coast Guard said the submerged leg of the LeTourneau, or jack-up type rig, poses a navigational hazard to river traffic in the river near here.

Two men on the rig at the time of the collapse were hospitalized, but not seriously. A Plaquemines Parish deputy sheriff said A. L. Sherill of Trout, La., and Donald Olano of Alexandria, La., were able to swim ashore after the accident.

Vaccinations

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — It seems no one can escape the needle these days. Some 7,000 longshoremen get this coming week.

The city's health workers will start vaccinating all longshoremen Monday morning and continue until all have got the smallpox protection.

Presently all ships' crews and passengers go through quarantine as one check against introduction of disease via ship. The longshoremen's vaccinations make it a "total barrier," as the city health director calls it.

To Enter Race

EUNICE, La. (AP) — A 40-year-old druggist said Saturday he will enter the 7th Congressional district race.

Landry Surrenders

Landry said that he had chased Charles to his Sorrell home in connection with a traffic violation. He said that when he stopped Charles, Charles threw something at him and Landry fired on instinct.

Landry was released on $3,000 bond.

Party Support

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party said today it is supporting passage of the new state voting laws at the Aug. 17 election.

Edwin King, Tougaloo College chaplain, and a member of the MFDP's executive board, told a news conference that his group is working to gain passage of the new laws.

King said that although the MFDP demonstrated to protest the special legislative session that drafted the laws, it feels they will make it easier to register Negroes in Mississippi.

Under the new federal law, he said, federal registrars would be pulled out of a county where 50 per cent of the people are registered.

"The state bill will make it easy to register the remaining 50 per cent," he said.

King also said the MFDP welcomes federal registrars to Mississippi.

"We'll try to keep them busy when they get here," he said. "We are glad Mississippi was picked as the first stage because we think it's the worst."

Traffic Death

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — Mrs. Bertie Lee Evans, 34, Pineville, was killed Saturday when a car swerved off the old Hot Wells Road, overturned and caught fire.

Injured was Clarence Decker, 30, Pineville, a passenger. He was listed in good condition.

Back Pay Debts

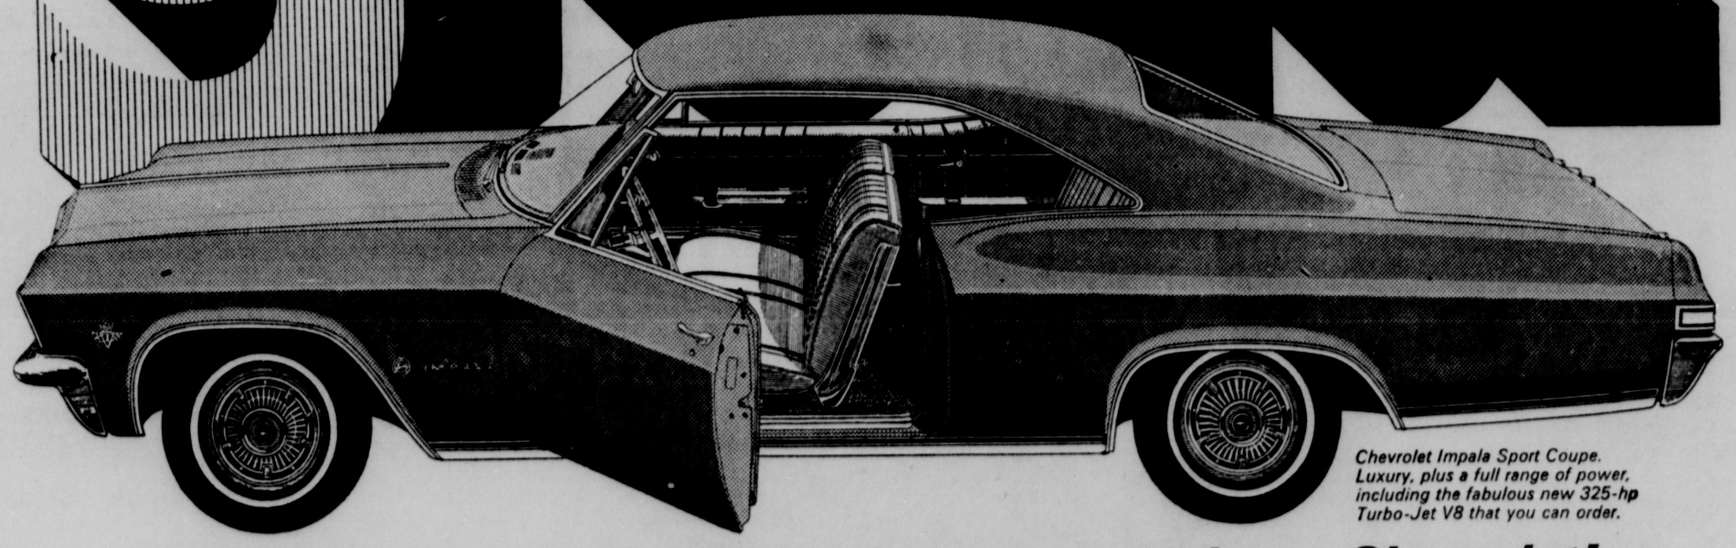

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— The Labor Department said Saturday it found employers in a nine - parish New Orleans area owed workers almost $1 million in back pay for the past fiscal year.

The department said a check of wages in about 475 establishments in the area showed employers paid $911,000 less than the minimum required by the Fair Labor Standards Act.

SIMPLE but sturdy lines of this four-bedroom house give promise of practical floor plan on the inside — a promise fulfilled by excellent placement of features and flexibility of the design.

The House Of The Week

Solid One-Story Design

By ANDY LANG

Each year, architects and builders are faced with a mounting demand for more bedrooms, more bathrooms, additional storage space and such things as family rooms and laundry areas.

Meeting this demand poses continuous problems, because incorporating them into house designs means an increase in the cost of labor and materials. The problems are especially difficult when those looking for additional living space are insistent that all the rooms be on a single floor.

Solution Difficult

There is no easy solution, perhaps no solution at all, since it is basic that a larger home, with extra features, will cost more money. However, architect Herman H. York has come up with a one-story house which satisfies many such demands yet is within the economic framework of the average middle-income family. It calls for a fair-sized lot, with over-all dimensions of 70'4" by 33'2", including a one-car garage — but the living area has been held to 1700 square feet.

By minimizing the number of breaks in roof intersections, using simple construction details and locating bathrooms next to each other, architect York has been able to reduce costs. This has been done with no sacrifice in the practicality of the floor plan. The living room, dining room, family room, kitchen and laundry are all on the right side of the house, the four bedrooms on the left. Note the flexibility of the plan. The fourth bedroom can be used as a nursery, with a location for a connecting door from the owner's bedroom. Such a door can serve to make a two-bedroom suite of the rear area or a library or lounging room of the extra bedroom.

Another Alternate

Another alternate to the plan is the elimination of the based front entrance; a twin-lavatory in the hall bath; a dressing area and walk-in closet for the owner; a corner fireplace in the family room; an outdoor barbecue with a flue in the main chimney; nine feet of sliding glass doors in the family room; a pantry, mud closet and broom closet in the laundry area; and direct access from the garage to the service area of the house.

Brick Or Stone

There are many parts of the country where home owners demand exterior walls of brick or stone. This house is shown in brick, but would not be less attractive if stone were used. If a combination is wanted, the architect suggests that the stone be limited to the center section, the wall of the living room and dining room . The reason is somewhat technical ,but designers have discovered that it usually is better to change a wall material on an inside rather than an outside corner.

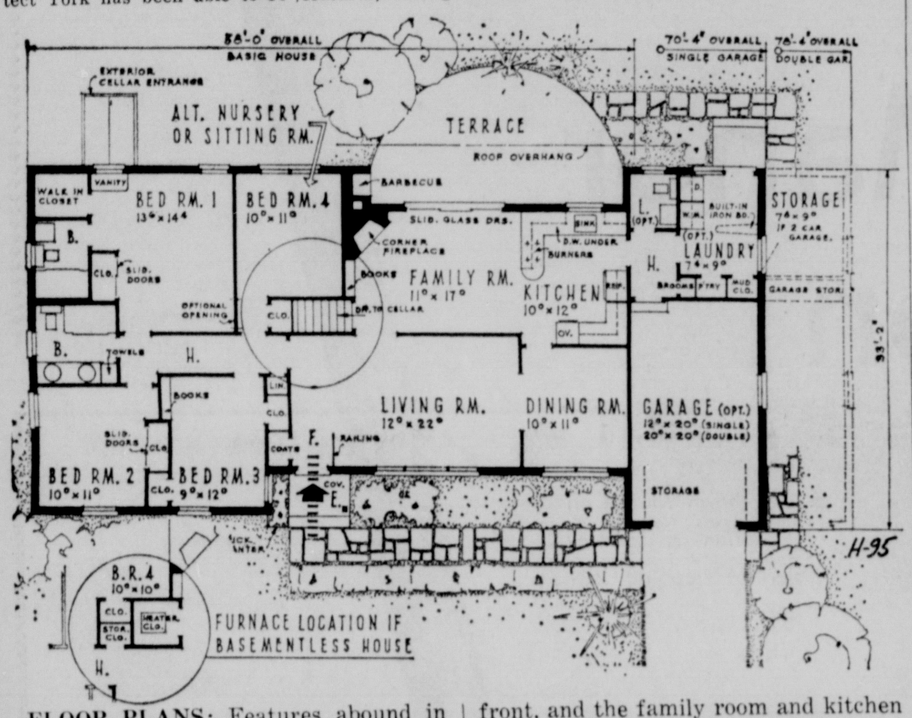

For those who might wish a two-car rather than a one-car garage, the plan shows how this can be done. It will add 8' to the length of the house, but will provide, in addition to space for an extra car, a sizable storage area.

Many Chores In Garden

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

These cool morning have been delightful for those garden jobs. And speaking of jobs, now is an excellent time to divide and replant crowded day lilies.

For fall color, plant lycoris bulbs radiata (red) aurea (yellow).

Remove surplus camellia buds as soon as you can distinguish flower buds from vegetative or leaf buds. The flower buds are rounded and vegetative or leaf buds are pointed. By removing the surplus buds the blossoms will be of much better quality, fewer blossoms, but larger and of better quality.

Home, Garden Week

There will be a reception from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday, August 16 in the Royal Catillian Ballroom of the L.S.U. for all Home and Garden Week visitors.

On Monday night the program will be a fiesta musical "Gypsy," in the Union Theater. Eight hundred tickets at one half price have been received for those attending Home and Garden Week. The prices are: Upper balcony, $1; lower balcony, $1.25; and orchestra $1.50. If you Mrs. Homemaker, are planning to attend, it is suggested that we send the money in advance. So if you will call the Agricultural Extension Office by Wednesday, we will be glad to make the reservation for you. Those who do not get tickets in advance may be able to obtain them at the registration desk in Pleasant Hall, or at the Union Box Office.

There will be a tour of the Baton Rouge refinery on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. Ouachita Parish has been mailed eighteen tickets, so if you, Mrs. Homemaker, want to make this trip, call me and I will write your name on the ticket. Ouachita has nine for the Tuesday tour and nine for Wednesday. Transportation will be furnished from the campus to the refinery.

Stretch Fabrics

If you need some help in sewing the stretch woven fabric of dacron, cotton and lycra, here are some tips. There are no limitation on the type of pattern you select for using a fabric of "dacron," cotton and lycra. However because this fabric has "give" in the horizontal direction, it is suggested you bear this in mind. If you wish to have the "give" in the vertical direction, you may need to turn the pattern around. Because this fabric has a give, it is possible that you will not need to allow as much for ease. It is preferable to use sewing thread of either nylon, "taslan" textured nylon or "dacron."

Feed the fabric evenly through the machine, avoid undue pulling or pushing as you sew. Set the machine for 14-15 stiches per inch. When seams cannot extend with the fabric, the thread will break.

There is no difference in sewing a zipper in this fabric.

If you line the garment with a fabric that does not stretch, you will not be able to take advantage of the fabric's "give."

Usually buttonholes are more satisfactory when placed in opposite direction to the stretch of the fabric. Be sure to use an interfacing fabric at the buttonhole area for firmness.

The fabric looks like and feels like a blend of "dacron" and cotton has the added benefits of "lycra". The fabric lends itself especially to sheath, skirts and dresses, active sportswear such as shorts, culottes, and children's sportswear.

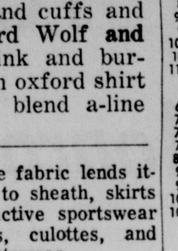

Do you, Mrs. Homemaker, know how much debt you can afford? Most families can safely carry a total installment debt (not counting a mortgage) up to 15 per cent of their annual take-home pay. For example, a five thousand income family can charge up to seven hundred, fifty dollars without serious difficulty of financial harm. It doesn't pay to stretch your credit beyond what your income can cover. This means that after the monthly expenses have been paid there should still be enough left to meet credit payments.

Lily Society Show Held

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The annual show of the Ohio Lily Society was held this year at the beautiful Kingwood Center in Mansfield. It was not surprising that the outstanding flowers in the show were the new yellows and greenish yellows which the lily breeders have been featuring for several years now.

Top honors went to Mrs. Carl Johnson of Fremont, Ohio who is in the habit of running off with the prizes. Her superb stalk of Golden Sunburst greeted us when we entered the hall.

The Kingwood Center is fast becoming a little horticultural mecca by the public and is probably one of the first of such centers which will be dedicated to the public's enjoyment as the late Charles Kelly King did in Mansfield. Several national meetings have been held there in the past few years. Forty-two acres of rolling land with all sorts of buildings like the beautiful King mansion, exhibition and lecture halls, greenhouses and gardens of many kinds comprise a real gem of a place. In Columbus, a lady from Mansfield told me that, when the Kingwood Center first opened, there were long lines waiting to get into the house and library every time she went there.

Important Area

Ohio is one of the most important states for horticulture as witnessed by the hundreds of nurseries which are well known over the country. At Wooster, I visited the arboretum of Ohio State University which has all sorts of experiments going on at Wooster. Anyone travelling anywhere near Wooster which is between Columbus and Cleveland would find it worthwhile to drive and walk through the fascinating pinetum where some of the blocks of conifers were planted as long ago as 1912.

A stroll through the needle scented groves of pines, firs, hemlocks and other conifers from all over the world is delightful. In most boretums, we usually see single specimens or small groups of different kinds of foreign trees, but at Wooster, there are whole blocks of as many as 50 trees, and the mature forest thus formed transports you to Japan or Scotland or to the Rockies or wherever these trees are native.

Dawes Arboretum

Straight south from Wooster and near Zanesville, the pottery town the Dawes family established, years ago, is another arboretum. In it are gorgeous beech forests which were there before the arboretum began. One fine specimen after another of different kinds of trees has been dedicated to a famous person in this country.

The collection is fairly well representative of the trees of Ohio and others which will grow there. An unbelievably long planting of clipped American arborvitae spells out DAWES ARBORETUM so that it can be read from airplanes on their way to land in Columbus!

PLANTING WHISKY BARRELS

LOUISVILLE (AP) — A distillery has launched a do-it-yourself project in raising whisky barrels.

The distillery set out 13,000 hardwood seedlings in Kentucky, many of them white oak. In about 50 years, these will be mature enough to turn out the barrels in which whiskey is aged.

Garden Center Notes

Some Notes On The Birds

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Do you take the time out to really observe the birds that come into your yard every season? Can you call them by name or tell some of the interesting characteristics about them — maybe just a few of them.

It is surprising how few of us can do this, even recognize their song. Yet, we are more than pleased to have them visit and sing for us. It you do take the time you will soon be aware of the fact that there is a seasonal changing spectacle that is never quite the same again for two months in a row.

National Pastime

"In England the study of birds is a national pastime and is becoming so in the United States. There is not a more ideal place to know the birds than in Louisiana. Our state bird list is considered to comprise 377 species. This is more than half of all the birds known to occur regularly in North America. Only five states (California, Texas, Florida, Massachusetts, and New York) have bird lists that include more species than does that of Louisiana.

There are several great flyways which the birds use when they migrate. The heaviest being the Mississippi Flyway, where we are located. While in some places the migration of birds is heavier than in other places, there is probably no single mile in our land which is not crossed each fall by migratory birds. The great bulk of the birds, both as a species and number of individuals, crosses the Gulf to eastern Mexico, while to the eastward their numbers steadily diminish.

In the season of migration nearly all of the species of the eastern United States and at the same time a strong representation of western species is in Louisiana.

The birds could stay over land and go down through Texas, but most of them fly 500 to 700 miles across the Gulf of Mexico. Even the tiny hummingbird prefers this flight. The birds usually start at night. It is a two nights and one day flight. When they leave our land it is usually a little distance from the coast line.

Gaps Of Knowledge

There is still a great deal to know about birds. Some of the greatest gaps of knowledge of the birds are concerned with problems that the student can tackle in his own back yard. The life history of even the most common bird is not so well known as to preclude further careful study.

They prove a seasonally changing spectacle that is never the same for two months in a row.

Just what sets migration in motion has yet to be determined with complete certainty, but day lengths are unquestionably of great importance. Weather is also a factor.

There is still much to be learned about migration. Once, not too long ago, people thought that swallows went under the water to spend the winter. Now they know that the swallows migrate at night.

Listen! Which bird is that?

Flower Show School No. 2 will be held in Ruston, at Tech, Sept. 27, 28, and 29.

October 30 - 31, Chrysanthemum Exposition, LSU, Baton Rouge.

Here's The Answer

By ANDY LANG

QUESTION: I have to fix several leaky faucets. My hardware dealers says I should try a new kind of leak-stopper that uses rivets instead of screws to hold the washers in place. Do you know anything about this, and is it better than just replacing the old washers?

ANSWER: There are many kinds of gadgets on the market intended to prevent faucets from dripping when the water is shut off at the sink. Some are good, some are not good. The kind you mention is relatively new. It is installed by shutting off the water at the main valve or the shut-off valve under the sink, removing the faucet stem, taking off the old screw and discarding them. A tiny plastic cup is placed in the washer seat and held in place with what is called a split rivet. The propersized rubber disc is forced into the plastic cup, and the faucet is reassembled. Its manufacturer claims it will assure a longlasting seal. One way to test it is to install a regular washer in one faucet and the new arrangement in a similar faucet. Time will provide you with your answer.

SMOKE TREE
$1.00 ea. (3 for $2.50) (6 for $4.50) (2 for $1.75)
In June, when most other trees have quit blooming, the beautiful "Pink Mist" Smoke Trees (Cotinus coggygria) burst forth with big clusters of light pink panicles resembling big clouds of smoke so dense you can't see through them. The tree resembles one large cloud of smoke — like a pink cloud resting on a tree trunk. And then in the fall the tree is ablaze in a beautiful array of red, scarlet and orange foliage. Grows to about 15 feet. Especially lovely when three are planted together. You receive sturdy plants already growing in a 2¼" wooden band which holds earth firmly around the roots for safe planting. SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay $1.00 for 1, $1.75 for 2, $2.50 for 3, or $4.50 for 6 trees, plus COD charges. We pay postage on prepaid orders. If not 100% satisfied, just return shipping label for refund of purchase price . . . you keep the trees. Free planting guide included with every order.

Mrs. LBJ Helps Mother Regain Young Daughter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A young Canadian mother regained custody of her 3-year-old daughter, Mellinda, on Saturday with the help of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

"The case is heart-rending, to say the least," said Circuit Judge Henry L. Balaban. "Here is a man whose whole life seems to be wound up and bound up in the welfare of the child. But there's nothing in the record of the mother that indicates she should be deprived of being a mother."

Balaban was told that the Sussmans were married in Paris in April 1961, but separated many times before the final parting in May 1964. Their differences led to Toronto Family Court, without final adjudication.

The two decided they should move to Paris, where her family lives. Mrs. Remais went to find them a home, but Sussman stayed in Canada, with Mellinda.

Mrs. Remais returned to Canada, but couldn't find her husband. She went to New York, met a 45-year-old chiropractor who loaned her $1,000 to go to Mexico and get a divorce. She married the chiropractor last Jan. 1.

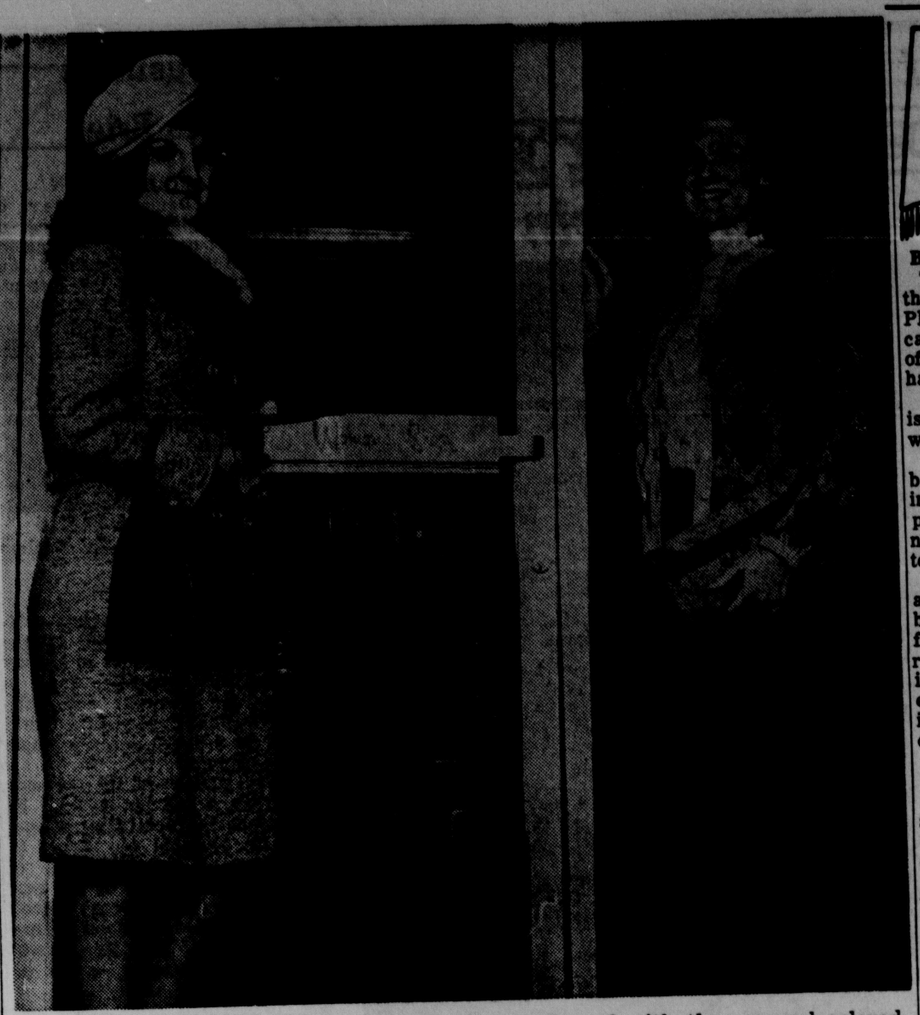

Sussman wrote to Mrs. Remais several times from Miami Beach, but would not give his address.

Housewife Close As A-Bomb Hits But Not Injured

TOKYO (UPI)—The newspaper Mainichi reported Saturday that a Japanese housewife with two sons in the United States escaped uninjured from the atom bombing of Hiroshima, although she was barely half a mile from ground zero when the bomb went off.

Mainichi said Matsuyo Fujikuni was knocked unconscious and thrown more than 300 feet by the blast, which went off while she was sweeping the street in front of her home, but that she was unhurt.

The newspaper said Mrs. Fumikuni found herself in a wasteland of destroyed buildings, with the ground covered by fragments of roof tiles, when she came to. Women with bleeding faces, clutching babies in their arms, were wandering through the ruins pleading for help.

IF YOU HAVE been trying to get that certain college or hi-school girl on the phone and can't, it's because she is at THE WOMAN'S SHOP selecting her back-to-school wardrobe in their new, magnificent sportswear department on N. 18th street. Miss Melinda Mabray is so pleased with the caramel colored princess style double breasted coat with red fox collar. Seen with her is Miss Janet Vanderpool in heather brown skirt, matching oxford cloth blouse and Argyle sweater, coordinating knit by Dalton.

Soviet Scientist Says Solar Area Much Larger

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet scientist said Saturday the solar system is 700,000 times as big as men now believe it to be. He said it contains, "new, yet unknown planets."

Cleb Chebotarev, head of Leningrad's Theoretical Astronomy Institute, said the solar system extends for more than 21 trillion miles from the sun — nearly 6,000 times the distance from the sun to Pluto, the most distant planet now known.

"Existing instruments give astronomers a chance to study only an insignificant part of the huge solar system," Chebotarev said "it is necessary to seek new, yet unknown planets which are farther from the earth than Pluto."

CURTAIN CALL

By JACQUE BIEGENWALD

This is the time of year when things are fairly quiet at Strauss Playhouse. The summer musical has gone out in its blaze of glory and the fall season hasn't started yet.

So, if the column this week is a little thin, just wait, things will pick up soon.

We said something awhile back about theater people being the world's most dedicated party lovers. Well, Saturday night a week ago saw the party to end all parties.

After the Saturday performance, cast and crew assembled en masse at the Embers for a mid-night supper. After rapidly devouring some 90 steaks in the dining room they adjourned to the Persian Room, having been promised some rare entertainment by the crew.

Original Satire

The program started off promisingly enough with some songs by Barbara Addison (mother superior in "The Sound of Music"). From that, things rapidly slid into an original satire entitled, "The Kink and I." The fun loving crew gave a very sharp needle to just about every member of the cast.

In the skit, "Anna" (originally Dawn Gandy's role) was played by Frances Yeldell, who wore an enormous hoopskirt and a gray sweatshirt, emblaznoed with the letters N O U. She was described as being the "athletic director" of NO University.

"The Kink" was Ed Alger (lampooning Ed Beakey's role), barefooted and wearing a fright wig. Since the skit was very nearly as long as the show, we won't try to go into any details except to say that no one was allowed to escape the crew's needling, from the director on down. Some of the dialogue was so priceless it literally knocked the "audience" out of its seats with laughter.

Like we said, no one has more fun than theater people.

Chris and Suzy West will be leaving for their new position in Missouri about the middle of the month. We're certainly going to miss them, and Chris' fine sets.

He asked your reporter to give his thanks to the crew of this last show, especially, "whose cooperation and patience made my last show extremely enjoyable - mere words can't express my thanks."

Also, Chris is grateful to the cast, the many people who lent their possessions, and to his classes.

A credit this week goes to Rivers Ford for loaning us a truck to haul the huge cartons of costumes away after "The King and I" closed.

Among those bought recently are: Ashley Easterling for the Panda and the Spy, 1965; Emily Stone for Mr. Popper's Penguins 1965; Matt Shepherd, Mr. Popper's Penguins; Lee Caldwell, The King and I; Susan Stone, The Panda and The Spy; Patricia Grant, The King and I; Melanie Lynn Sims, The King and I; Rebecca Willy and Cheryl Fontana, The King and I; G. G. Grant, The King and I; Lana Davis, The King and I; Pat Funderburk, The King and I; Allen Turpin III, The King and I; and a tile dedicated to the memory of Clark Boardman.

Bobby and Carolyn Evans are getting settled in Midland, Texas, this week, where Bobby has accepted a position as technical Director for the Midland Community Theatre. He worked on production for many of our shows, while Carolyn will be remembered especially for her performance as the near-sighted "Sponge" of "Auntie Mame," Miss Gooch.

SCENES of YESTERYEAR

. . . in the Twin Cities

THIS PHOTO, taken in 1907 at the old baseball park which was located at the site of the present Swartz swimming pool, shows members of the Monroe team as a participant in the Gulf Coast League. The picture is from the collection of the late Frank (Pop) Kitchens, second from right standing, and was brought to us by R. E. Wilson, 715 North Fourth, West Monroe. Wilson says Kitchens and several others shown here devoted lifetimes to baseball with Kitchens returning to Monroe to manage a team in the Cotton States League. Your attention is called to the uniforms with collars. If you have an interesting picture of the Twin Cities in the past, please bring it to us along with the information.

Business In Brief

STARTS TODAY IN "THE WORLD"

Announcing The Associated Press

Weekly Market Review

Compiled from the preceding week's statistics in the field of finance and markets

You'll Find It On 6-B

. . . another forward step in "The World's" coverage of Financial and Market News . . .

This Service will include:

★ Range of 50 American Stock Exchange issues.

★ Dow-Jones Averages; What Stocks Did, Stocks in the Spotlight; Number of Issues Traded; 20 most active stocks, Total New York Stock Exchange Sales, Total Bond Sales; Standard-Poor.

★ Up-to-the-minute Associated Press stories on the stock market and the world of finances, written by experts who have followed movements in these trading centers for years. They will tell you what has happened the past week and what is anticipated in the future.

★ Associated Press coverage of 60 stocks in chart form, and a host of other features that will bring you up-to-date on all the aspects of the market and financial world.

The stock tables are tabulated by a computer at microsecond speed and sent over the most modern method of transmitting news — teletypesetter. It is another step in our continuing effort to give our readers the best newspaper possible.

WANT-AD WONDERS

Want Ad Pleases Man, Wife & Dog

ATTENTION TO DOG LOVERS
I promised my wife I would put an ad in the paper to sell my dog, so here it is: The dog is full of fleas and ticks, is as vicious as any animal can be. Hates people, especially children. Incidently, the dog is half blind and limps on 1 leg.
PRICE $5,800
GI 6-6842

His wife is happy that he tried to sell the dog and Ray is happy that he still has the dog.

ARE YOU SURE ABOUT THE CONSTRUCTION Of The Home You Plan To Buy?

The wise home buyer seeks the advice of an expert when it comes to making a judgment on the construction of a home. And a Realtor is just such an expert. His knowledge and experience in helping others buy and sell homes enables him to inspect a home with a keen eye. And the advice he can give the home buyer is invaluable.

A Realtor is a professional in real estate who subscribes to a strict Code of Ethics as a member of the local board and of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

There's A Church Home For You in the Twin Cities...

Anyone desiring to know the location of a church of any denomination in the Twin Cities and the time of its Sunday services may call The Morning World at 323-2070, FA 3-3660, FA 3-0501 and ask for the church service directory. We'll be glad to supply you the information.

Large Cathederal Trend Shift Seen

By GODFREY ANDERSON

LONDON (AP) — Is the day of the big cathedral, like that of the battleship, past? That is the question they are debating in the Church of England.

Those who are against new cathedrals argue it is better to build a score of smaller parish churches in their place. These could be spotted strategically, they say, to bring church life to the great new building estates or new towns growing up around British cities.

Cathedrals, they say, are just a waste of money and involve costly upkeep. Besides, once up, they can't be kept clean. Except for a few great occasions in the year they are not used to capacity. Some attract only a score of worshippers into their vast spaces at the regular Sunday services. On weekdays the priests and choir virtually are alone.

Question Asked

Opponents ask whether it is right for Christians to sponsor million-dollar cathedral extension projects, with all the vast capital expenditure involved, when other aspects of Christian work are neglected.

Such talk has brought a sharp response from cathedral deans and their supporting canons. They argue their cathedrals are doing a useful job as spiritual center of each diocese and could not be replaced by any number of additional parish churches.

They say a diocese needs a big church building to accommodate all the big diocesan services. And all point to the shining example of the new Coventry Cathedral, which attracts around a million visitors a year and usually is crowded on Sunday.

Drive For Funds

The drive for cathedral funds goes ahead. The Yorkshire wool town of Bradford has just completed extensions worth $840,000 and Bristol is seeking to raise a similar sum.

But a real row started at Portsmouth, where the cathedral council has a plan for spending $980,000 on extending the present cathedral — a converted parish chuch — to make it a permanent memorial to the men who fell in liberating Europe.

Although Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower directed the French landings from Portsmouth, the city has nothing to mark the fact except a simple granite block on the beach. The Portsmouth diocesan conference turned down the cathedral idea, suggesting that the money be better spent on churches in new housing areas, the cathedral authorities decided to go ahead anyway.

For New Trend

The Rev. Frederick S. Temple, vicar of St. Mary's, Portsea, second biggest parish church in the dockyard city, is one of those who argues that the days of vast church buildings are gone.

"The life of the diocese could be fostered equally well with a small cathedral," Canon Temple says. "The fact is that the people of Portsmouth are poor. The naval dockyard pays no overtime like the big industries in the midlands and most people work at the dockyard.

"However, now that the decision has been taken, there seems nothing more I can say. But the trouble isn't over."

Free Methodist Church, corner of Lincoln and McGuire streets, West Monroe.

Growth, Improvement Cited At Free Methodist Church

On February 12, 1951, several families composed of 13 adults, assembled in a local home to become charter members of the West Monroe Free Methodist Church.

Services were held in the Millsaps Elmcnetary School cafeteria and within a short time the Rev. Kenneth Chapman was appointed as the church's first pastor.

The congregation continued to meet for a little more than a year in the cafeteria while property was being purchased at the corner of Lincoln and McGuire in West Monroe, and a place of worship was erected through considerable work and sacrifice by the men of the church.

Former pastors include, in addition to Rev. Chapman, the Revs. R. T. Fisher, L. E. Bradford, H. C. Cranston, and H. A. Smith. The present pastor is the Rev. Bill Roark.

Under the leadership of Rev. Smith a new educational unit was added to the church plant and the outreach of the church was greatly increased. In the summer of 1963, Rev. Roark was appointed pastor, and that fall the sanctuary was completely remodeled and air conditioned, including the addition of a choir loft and organ.

The congregation is presently experiencing a rapid rate of growth with both membership and attendance almost doubling during the past two years, and a membership growth of 50 per cent reported for this year.

Expansion Program

The church engaged in an expansion program, including seven new classrooms, a new modern nursery, central air conditioning and heat for all educational facilities and new church furniture for the sanctuary. When completed, this will double both the educational and sanctuary seating capacity of the church.

"The goal of the church is to present the gospel of uttermost salvation in such a manner as will exalt Jesus Christ to the highest degree," said Rev. Roark. "Our only purpose is to present to the people of the community a spirit filled church with a friendly atmosphere."

Rev. Roark is a native of the Monroe area, having graduated from West Monroe High School in 1959. He attended the denominational college in Greenville, Illinois, and returned to assume a student pastorate and graduate from Northeast Louisiana State College. He is married to the former Miss Janet Corley of West Monroe and they reside in the parsonage at 200 Lincoln, West Monroe. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Roark of Monroe.

Sponsoring Crusade

The local congregation is sponsoring a City Wide Crusade, during the period of August 15-29 at the Fairgrounds Building in West Monroe, featuring the internationally known evangelist, the Rev. O. R. Tessaro. Featured along with Rev. Tessaro will be well known soprano recording artist Vivian Welsh, blind organist Orian Osburn, and song evangelists from Seattle, Washington, Dave and Diane Bonner.

The Free Methodist denomination celebrated its centennial anniversary in 1960, having been organized in Pekin, New York in the year 1860. Free Methodism is a growing conservative evangelical denomination with a strong Wesleyan heritage. Free Methodist churches are located in virtually every state in the nation, and every province of Canada, as well as numerous countries around the world.

The Church publishes several denominational magazines and sponsors the international award winning radio broadcast "The Light And Life Hour," which was rated first among Christian radio broadcasts for several years in succession. The denomination also ranks at the top of all denominations in the United States in per capita giving, Rev. Roark said.

REV. ROY MYERS, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, 513 Sunnyside Drive, Monroe, will lead a revival there starting today and continuing through Sunday, August 15. Sonny Newcomer will serve as music director for the meetings. Morning services will be held daily at 10 Monday through Friday. There will be no Saturday services. Evening services will be held at 7:30 daily.

Quest For Unity In Third Phase

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

Christians have entered the third phase of the great quest for reunion known as the ecumenical movement.

In the first phase, which opened about 50 years ago, the major Protestant bodies ended centuries of mutual estrangement and began to draw together in friendly, cooperative relationships. The great achievement of this phase was the establishment of such agencies as the national council and world council of churches.

Phase two began with the coronation of Pope John XXIII. From the day he ascended the papal throne, Pope John displayed an earnest desire to make friends with the "separated brethren." Protestants responded to his warmth and goodness and reciprocated his gestures of good will. Almost overnight, a truce was proclaimed in the cold war that had been the disgrace of Christendom for more than 400 years.

Highlight Of Phase

The highlight of phase two was the historic decree adopted by the Vatican Council last fall committing Catholics to all-out participation in the ecumenical movement.

Phase three promises to be less dramatic and more difficult. Two things will be happening simultaneously:

— Protestant denominations will move beyond mere cooperation to try to achieve organic unity.

Protestants and Catholics will move beyond mutual courtesy and try to resolve—or at least clarify—some of the real differences of conviction that divide them.

Both processes already are underway.

Six leading U.S. Protestant denominations agreed last April to begin drafting a plan of union that would bring them together in a new church with 23 million members. The merger plan will be presented to representatives of the six denominations at a meeting in Dallas next spring. If they approve, it will be submitted to the national conferences and conventions of the participating denominatons. And that's where the hitch may come. Involved are the Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, United Church of Christ, Evangelical United Brethren and the Disciples of Christ.

Can't Agree

There seems little doubt, on the basis of what has happened to date, that theologians of the six denominations can agree on the form of a united church, its doctrine, structure and sacraments. The big question is whether laymen, local pastors and ecclesiastical politicians really want to cease being Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, etc., and unite in a great new church.

Experience has demonstrated that genuine doctrinal differences may be a far less formidable barrier to church union than such non-theological factors as inertia, nostalgic attachment to familiar labels and ways of doing things, tribal pride and vested interests in the status quo.

The only way to overcome these obstacles is to encourage rank-and-file members of the churches to become as enthusiastic about the possibilities of union and as impatient with ancient denominational quarrels as are those few who have been directly involved in the merger talks.

So far, relatively little has been done along these lines by the six denominations associated in the Consultation On Church Union. But there is no reason why local congregations cannot undertake the task of self-education on their own initiative. Plenty of study materials are available from denominational headquarters.

3-State Meet Of Christian Church Set

Members of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) from three states, including Louisiana Christians from two Monroe churches, will convene in New Orleans, Oct. 14-16 for the denomination's 1965 Regional Assembly.

The Rev. Raymond T. Watson, pastor of the St. John's Christian Church of Monroe, will be a worship leader in the afternoon session Oct. 15. St. John's and First Christian of Monroe are affiliated with the Disciples of Christ.

About 800 delegates from Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama are expected to attend the sessions in the Jung Hotel. Dr. Stephen England of Enid, Okla., president of the International Convention of Christian Churches, will keynote the assembly with an address on "From Intention to Achievement."

Among the topics to be aired in open assembly is church unity. The Disciples of Christ currently are engaged in merger talks with five other major American communions.

Charles S. Wicks of New Orleans is general chairman of the tri-state assembly. Simultaneously with the Louisiana event, other regions of the two-million member denomination will be in session throughout the United States.

Rev. W. Gentry Guest Speaker At S. Methodist

Guest speaker at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services today at the First Southern Methodist Church, Oak and Jackson, will be the Rev. Wayne Gentry, president of the Open Door Home, it was announced by the Rev. Tom Hale, pastor.

The Open Door Home, located in the southwest section of Ouachita Parish, is for mothers and destitute children who have found no other source of help. It is located on 10½ acres of land purchased from the Ouachita Parish School Board.

Rev. Gentry said that the home is filled to capacity at present, and that it has cared for more than 50 destitute children and mothers since it was opened.

MY ANSWER

By Billy Graham

QUESTION: The thing that I don't like about Christianity is that it looks backwards. Preachers are always talking about "Back to the Bible," and "Back to God". Why not be forward-ward-looking? Am I wrong?
K.H.

ANSWER: You are half wrong and half right. The Bible, for example, is a storehouse of the garnered wisdom of the ages. We should not ignore this wisdom, and go through the agony of trying to learn for ourselves what has been set down by the wise and learned of the ages. A student, for example, is majoring in mathematics. Let us suppose that he says: "I don't need a text book. I am intelligent, I will work out trigonometery and calculus without a text; I will work it out by myself." It would be foolish not to refer to the textbook and take advantage of the lessons that have been ferreted out by many people before him. It is when people are inclined to throw away the "textbook", that we say, "Back to the Bible", or "Back to God."

Mark Van Doren once said, "The past is a burden which crushes only those who ignore it. It is well for us who live today to take a look at history and see where men have made mistakes which we might avoid. The best way to move forward is by an occasional backward glance to get your bearings. "Let us remove not the ancient landmarks which our forefathers have set", says the Bible.

Rev. M. Elahi Of Pakistan Guest Pastor

A native of Pakistan, the Rev. Maurice Elahi, of Monroe, will be guest speaker at 10:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services today at Lakeshore Baptist Church here.

Rev. Elahi came to the United States about four years ago and was licensed to preach the gospel by the Oak Hill Baptist Church of Bastrop about two years ago. His goal is to obtain theological training and then return to his native land to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, he said.

He taught six different languages for 10½ years before coming to America.

His wife is a native of Ouachita Parish and served for four years as a missionary to West Pakistan. She is a graduate of Louisiana College and of Northwestern Bible School of Minneapolis, Minn. She served under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society of Wheaton, Ill.

They are members of Lakeshore Church, and he works for a local glass firm. Pastor of the church is the Rev. Vester Headrick.

Revival Services At First Baptist Of Sterlington

A Southern Baptist on furlough from the mission field of Argentina, the Rev. Bill Malone of Texas, will be evangelist at revival services starting today at the First Baptist Church of Sterlington, it was announced by the Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor.

The revival will continue through Sunday, August 15. Sunday services will be held at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, services will be held at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Mark Bell of Shreveport will lead singing, and a nursery will be open for children at all services.

Dr. B. K. Smith To Area Pulpit

HOMER (Special) — Dr. Billy Kenneth Smith, pastor of Monte Sano Baptist Church in Baton Rouge, has accepted the call of the First Baptist Church at Homer, and will preach his first sermon there, Sunday, August 22.

He succeeds the Rev. George Hall, who resigned to become pastor of a church in Dallas, Texas. Dr. and Mrs. Smith have four children, Ken, 12; David, 9; Joyce, 3, and Philip, 1.

Rev. L. Harris Evangelist At Eastside Series

An evangelist from Dallas, Texas, the Rev. L. B. Harris, will be guest speaker at a daily series of revival services starting today and continuing through Sunday, August 15 at Eastside Missionary Baptist Church, 315 80th St., Monroe.

Sunday services will be held at 10 a.m. and 6:30 p.m., and services will be held daily, Monday through Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Song leader for the series will be Chester Nethery of Monroe. A nursery will be open for children.

The Rev. M. L. Graham Sr., pastor of the church, said there will be all-day activities at the church on August 15, with dinner on the grounds at noon following morning services. There will be singing and other events in the afternoon. Pianist for the revival will be Miss Helen Keith of Monroe.

Cypress Baptist Revival Slated

The Cypress Street Baptist Church in West Monroe will open a revival starting today and running through Sunday, August 15. Featured speaker for the week will be the Rev. Lavelle Enterkin, pastor of the Central Park Baptist Church in Bossier City. Services will be held daily at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and on Sunday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Music will be under the direction of George Meredith with Miss Sara Winks as the pianist. Pastor of the Cypress Baptist Church is the Rev. Charlie Sutton.

Homecoming Set At Stone Avenue

Annual homecoming services at Stone Avenue Methodist Church are scheduled for the third Sunday of the month, August 15, it was announced by the Rev. Troy Garrett, pastor.

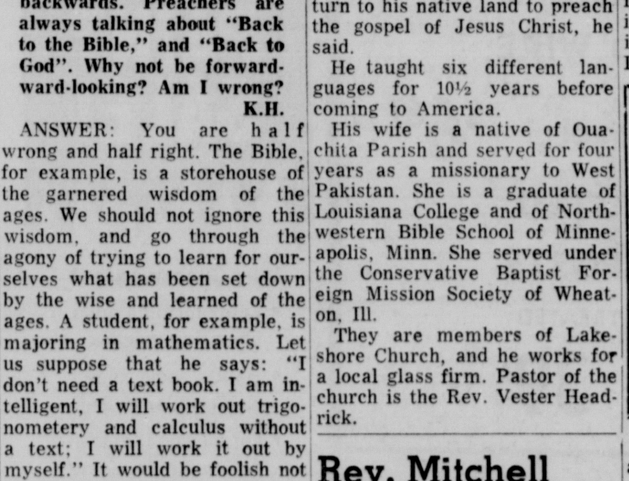

Guest speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. I. A. Patton of West Monroe.

Rev. Mitchell Slates Talks

The Rev. A. T. Mitchell, who retired from the ministry after pastoring for 23 years at Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe, is preaching at various churches around the area virtually every Sunday.

He will speak today at Temple Baptist Church in Monroe; Sunday, August 15 at Peniel Baptist Church, West Monroe; Sunday, August 22, College Place Baptist Church, Monroe; Sunday, August 29, Farmerville First Baptist Church.

Rev. Mitchell pastored at three different churches during his long career as a minister.

A SERIES OF revival services starting Monday at Highland Park Baptist Church, 2507 Oliver Road, Monroe, will feature Dr. Jaroy Weber, at left, as evangelist, and Jack Day as music director. Services will be held 7:30 p.m. daily through Sunday, August 15, it was announced by the pastor, the Rev. Edgar L. Wiggins. Dr. Weber is presently pastor of the First Baptist Church of Beaumont, Texas. He formerly served as pastor of West Monroe First Baptist Church and as state director of evangelism for the Louisiana Baptist Convention. Mr. Day, who is minister of music of Calvary Baptist Church, Tupelo, Miss., formerly was music director at First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

The Pastor's Corner

WHERE ARE YOU LIVING?
—Psalm 91:1
. . . Learn the lesson from the psalmist.

Rev. Roark, pastor
Free Methodist Church,
West Monroe

Much has been written in the annuals of history concerning the Christian's sacred responsibilities, solemn duties and precious promises. However, for some strong reason comparatively little has been said concerning the Christian's perennial privileges. Likewise much has been said concerning his great task, but little about his constant abiding place.

To the psalmist there was a proportionate correlation between the work which the Christian was to accomplish and the place where he was constantly abiding.

The implication was clear that to the psalmist the work which the man of God could or would achieve for the Kingdom of God was totally dependent on whether he was abiding in "the secret place of the Most High." The Word of God clearly teaches that there are no human factors that limit the Christian in his endeavor to advance the Kingdom Work; there are only spiritual factors.

Limitless In Work

In other words, man is as limitless in his work for God as his spiritual relationship with God permits him to be.

While the world about us rushes at a fantastic speed into the pits of eternity without the slightest inkling of forethought, we of the "other world" are to be willing to abide in the presence of Jesus, until His wisdom alone makes wise the simplest of our hearts. It is only then that we may begin to be about the Master's business, and even then we must learn the true secret that although busily engaged in the Master's work yet in a very real sense still abiding in the glory of "His presence." How many a child of God tottering on the abyss of spiritual ruin, sinking in the murk of despondency, fluttering in the valley of despair, could be saved from ultimate doom if only they would learn the lesson from the psalmist of "dwelling in the secret place of the Most High" and "abiding under the shadow of the Almighty."

PRAY FOR THIEF

LUDGERSHALL, England (AP) — Villagers were asked to pray on Sunday for the thief who stole $210 worth of lead from the roof of the parish church.

"I am more concerned with his spiritual welfare than with the loss of the lead," the Rev. David Wheaton, vicar, explained.

VESTMENTS OF DRESS

MANCHESTER, Eng. (AP) — The vestments worn by Father Michael Childs at his ordination in St. John's Roman Catholic church, Chorlton - cum-Hardy (a Manchester suburb), were made from his late wife's wedding dress. His wife died a year after they were married in the same church. When he decided to offer himself for the priesthood, nuns made the white wedding gown into vestments for the ordination ceremony.

CATHOLIC INVITED

PLYMOUTH, England (AP) — The Most Rev. Cyril Restieaux, Roman Catholic Bishop of Plymouth, attended the annual Methodist Conference here and addressed the delegates. He was the first Catholic bishop ever invited by the Methodists.

BAPTIST TEACHES CATHOLICS

DE PERE, Wis. (AP) — A Roman Catholic college here, St. Norbert's, has hired a Canadian Baptist scholar, the Rev. Dr. Leslie R. Keylock, as a member of its theology faculty to keep pace with the "ecumenical age."

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:
Every mother knows how hard it is to handle a little tyke in the bathtub. Here's my solution:

I bought the cheapest car seat I could find—an aluminum frame with a canvas-covered seat. It has no cardboard or anything that will come apart in water.

I hang this seat over the edge of my bathtub and it not only keeps my toddler safe, but she is easier to bathe.

Roberta Brewer

A word of caution . . . never leave a child alone in a tub, no matter what the age. If the phone rings or someone comes to the door, forget it until you have baby safely out of the water.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
When putting a freshly-ironed apron on the shelf this week, I noticed my other aprons were wrinkled.

Pearl L. Gearin

* * *

I kept my aprons in a drawer instead of on a shelf, and that caused even more wrinkling! Thanks for this neat hint, Pearl.

Heloise

HIGH-TEST TIP

DEAR HELOISE:
As you know, gas station attendants are sometimes careless when they fill the gasoline tank, letting the gasoline run down the side of the car. This is very difficult to remove, especially after it has dried.

I discovered that a tablespoon of kerosene to one cup of water will remove this dried gasoline quickly.

Mrs. Wm. B. Schilt

DEAR HELOISE:
Our car did not come equipped with ash trays in the back seat.

This is fine until we have people who smoke in the back seat.

I solved this problem by filling an empty coffee can (one with a plastic lid) half full of sand and keeping it in the back of the car.

This simple coffee can turned out to be very useful and easy to find at night while driving along.

Clare A. Timmins

DEAR HELOISE:
Instead of putting my baby's highchair in the shower and letting the shower run over it to clean it, I just carry it into the back yard, hit it with a high stream of water from the garden hose, and wash it with a sponge and some hot sudsy water.

Then I spray the chair again with a hard stream of water from the hose and leave it in the shade to dry. This saves cleaning up my bathroom, which I would have to do if I had used the shower for washing the highchair.

Frances S.

DEAR FRANCES:
You're just a little darlin'.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found a way to make water paint that is harmless for little tots if they put it in their mouths.

I put three or four drops of each food coloring in paper cups (or an old muffin tin) and add one or two drops of vinegar, plus a little water. I use cotton swabs for paint brushes.

My two-year-old has a ball with this.

Mrs. Chester Malymeik

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found an easy way to chop hard-boiled eggs!

With practically one squeeze of the potato ricer, the eggs are all evenly chopped for egg salad.

W. P.

DEAR HELOISE:
I have a hint for weed haters:

Fill an empty squeeze bottle with weed killer (be SURE to label it) then just squirt the weeds and grass in the cracks of the sidewalk and other hard-to-get-at places. Before you know it, the weeds are dead.

A.H.

If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise in care of this newspaper.

OIL WROUGHT UP

DEAR HELOISE:
Did you know that rust spots on painted wrought-iron furniture can be eliminated almost entirely by using oily furniture polish, such as lemon oil?

I find this also helps eliminate the possibility of future rust.

Elizabeth Greene

DEAR HELOISE:
I have found that a roll of inexpensive wallpaper makes wonderful wrapping for games and other large birthday presents.

We are now using some kitchen paper (with bright red apples), and with a ball of green cotton yarn for the ribbon . . . it makes a very attractive wrapping.

Mrs. Charles Balleisen

DEAR HELOISE:
When you are painting and don't want to get paint on your hands, slip a loose-fitting plastic bag over your hand, fasten it on with a rubber band, and you are ready to paint with no worries.

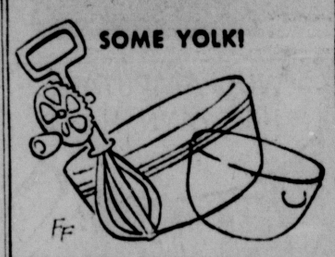

If the phone rings, just slip the bag off.

Myrle Atwood

DEAR HELOISE:
For those of you who have coats and other heavy things to hang . . . tie or wire two or three hangers together. Holds those heavy articles perfectly! They carry the weight. No sagging shoulders on clothes. . . .

Cathy Smith

SOME YOLK!

DEAR HELOISE:
When making a pie, first beat the egg whites, then the yolks.

You can take the beater directly from the egg whites and put it into the yolks. This eliminates washing the beater twice!
